Langen Chides Postal Department's Service

"Now that the Post Office department has shamefully confessed its political spoils system in hiring summer youths, and has agreed to reveal their names, perhaps the Washington planners can find a little time to provide a bit of mail service to the nation," Congressman Odin Langen said recently. 'After all, service should be the prime concern of these people, and it's time they were reminded that present policies are providing little of that important commodity."

"It was just two and one-half months ago that the department planners implemented their grand scheme for America, and the resulting confusion and mounting examples of deteriorating service are almost unbelievable," Langen said. "We said that at time that mail service would suffer, especially in rural American, and the mountain of mail that has acumulated since indicates that service, indeed, has suffered."

Congressman Langen cited examples that are typical of the many complaints he continues to get. "A superintendent in one of our schools needed an application blank for the National Defense Education act. He finally got it nine days after it was postmarked from a city just 150 miles away. The delay could have cost his school thousands of dollars. The same superintendent lost a teacher he planned to hire due to a similar delay in the mails.

"Our local newspaper editors are justifiably concerned. They now have the added expense of sacking their own mail, waiting needless extra days to receive mats and pictures through the mail, only to be rewarded by complaints from their subscribers who fail to receive their papers within a reasonable time. As one editor put it: 'A newspaper that isn't delivered to a reader is about as useless as anything we can think of.' About the only things more useless are the Washington planners who keep telling us that our mail service is better than ever," the congressman said.

He noted that the Post Office department wants to hire an additional 13,200 career employes to handle increased volumes of mail. If they are to be hired on the same basis as the summer employes, I'd say to forget it," said Langen. "They'd be too busy politicking to be of much help to the harrassed postal workers of the nation who are forced to suffer under a system they didn't create".

"What we need most," Langen said, "is a change in policy that will restore the postal service to its former efficiency when neither hail, wind, dark of night, or the zip code number could keep your mail from reaching its destination on time.

"As one of my constituents put it recently: 'We spend money like mad to get to the moon or unite capsules in space, but we cannot devise a reliable plan to send a small piece of mail just 26 miles down the road.' I suggest we not only can, but must, devise such a system, and it's time for the department to forget politics and get with it."

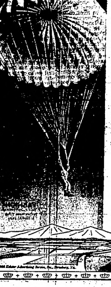
HAPPY LANDING



This takes nerve! Imagine dropping into space with nothing but a "silk umbrella" between you and eternity! Yet men do it every day, and they trust that umbrella as we would trust our best friend.

Faith is something like that white parachute, as thousands upon thousands of Christians can testify. Faith upholds you and supports you, no matter how rough the going may be. Without faith in a loving God, man is very much alone . . . and man was never meant to deal with life's problems by himself.

Like the first parachute jump, faith isn't easy at the beginning. It takes courage to hand over the reins of one's life, but you can be sure of one thing . . . you'll always land on your feet. Strengthen your faith by attending the church of your choice.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

HOMERUN PAYOFF came in the form of ice cream for some 1,000 patients of Veterans Hospital in Minneapolis when Jimmie Hall of the Minnesota Twins and Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Karen Bracken of Verdi, paid a visit Aug. 3. Hall and the state dairy princess personally presented more than 20 gallons of ice cream which the hard-swinging center fielder and teammate Harmon Killebrew earned with homeruns during their 6 to 3 "Dairy Night at the Met" victory over Boston June 2. The American Dairy Association of Minnesota had pledged 10 gallons of ice cream for every Twins homerun that night. The ice cream presentation served as a coincidental celebration of Hall's pinch-hit, game-winning, homer in the ninth inning against Baltimore Aug. 2. Among hundreds of patients greeted by Princess Kay and Hall were Harry E. Bock, Delano, who asked Hall to autograph the cast on his leg, and John Westine of Los Angeles, Calif.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

A patient suffers a severe reaction because he is sensitive to penicillin. An epileptic is unnecessarily hospitalized because he failed to carry a card or other emergency medical identification indicating that he is subject to seizures. A diabetic suffering from an insulin reaction is arrested for being drunk because the victim did not carry emergency medical identification noting that he had a special problem needing immediate attention in an emergency.

Countless incidents of this nature which occur daily could be avoided if more people would carry emergency medical identification, observes the Minnesota State Medical association. This information should be included on a card bearing the universal symbol. This card and symbol tells anyone rendering emergency care to a person who is unconscious or otherwise unable to communicate, that its wearer has a physical condition requiring special attention.

The symbol may be displayed on a wristlet, an anklet, a medallion around the neck or elsewhere. It is a sign that there are vital facts on a personal health information card in the bearer's purse or wallet or on the altering device itself; and you should look for it.

The symbol is a hexagon-shaped emblem containing a six-pointed figure, or star of life. Superimposed on the figure is a staff with a snake entwined about it — the staff of Aesculapius (pronounced ESS-CUE-LAY-PEA-UHS), the insignia of the medical profession. Everyone should carry an emergency medical identification card to show who he is, where he lives, whom to call if he becomes ill or injured, the name of his doctor, and when he was imunized, particularly against tetanus or lockjaw. On this emergency medical identification card should be noted any special problems that need immediate attention in an emergency or which could cause an emergency.

Some people's problems are so serious that it is absolutely essential for the first aider to know about them at once, and these people should wear a durable signal device, at all times — in bed, in one's bath, while swimming or on the job.

The device should carry the emergency medical identification symbol on one side, and on the other the essential information for those who might provide aid in an emergency.

Persons attending the 1965 Minnesota state fair can receive a free emergency medical identification card by visiting the Minnesota State Medical association booth in the education building, August 28 - September 6.

Susan Isaacson, Richard Stenberg Gain Merit List

Principal Richard Edlund announced today that two seniors at Lincoln high school have been named semifinalists in the 1965-66 Merit Scholarship competition. The students cited for their high achievement are Susan Isaacson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Isaacson, and Richard Stenberg, son o fMr. and Mrs. Otto Stenberg.

They are among the highest-scoring students in the state of Minnesota on the National Merit ministered last March in over 17,600 schools nationwide. More than 14,000 semifinalists were appointed across the country.

To become finalists, students must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination, submit recommendations by their schools and fulfill routine requirements. All Merit Scholars for 1966 will then be selected from the finalist group.

At least 97 per cent of past semifinalists have become finalists. Each finalist receives a certificate of merit in recognition of his outstanding performance in the program. Finalists are eligible for the scholarships sponsored by NMSC and over 280 corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, and other organizations and individuals.

7,000 Acres of Marsh . . .

Red Lake Indians To Dedicate Area

Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians will dedicate its Clearwater River Wildlife Development area on Wednesday at 2 p.m. The Clearwater Wildlife Development Area is located in the southwest corner of the Red Lake reservation approximately 28 miles south tion approximately 28 miles southwest of Red Lake on the new Great River Country Road or 10 miles north of Clearbrook.

The dedication will be held at the inlet control structure to the project, with Senator Walter F. Mondale as the dedication speaker. Joe Delola, Kennel owner and retriever trainer of Duluth, demonstrated his Labrador retrievers before the dedication speech, according to Roger Jourdain, chairman of the tribal council.

The Clearwater River Wildlife Development area is a dream come true for the Red Lake Indians, Jourdain said. The area is approximately 7,000 acres of marsh land that was drained in a river basin development project resulting in a not-quite-wet marsh for the Red Lake Indians.

After considerable action by the Red Lake Tribal council, Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, a workable plan was developed that will result in the economic development of the Red Lake reservation and the mutual benefit of all people living along the Mississippi fly-way.

The project consists of 3.3 miles of constructed inlet ditch that will supply water from the Clearwater river into the marsh area, 5.2 miles of dikes to retain the water over approximately 4,800 acres of marsh, an inlet control structure to regulate the flow of water into the area, two outlet control structures to regulate the supply of water in the area, 21 man-made islands with two wooden blinds on each, approximately

Pennington Fair Premium Checks Must Be Cashed

With a number of premium checks from the Pennington county fair still outstanding, a final warning has been issued by the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., through Jon Metusalem, secretary. The checks were to have been cashed by September 1.

As a convenience to persons who have not yet cashed their checks, the association has extended the deadline to Friday, October 1. No county fair premium checks cashed after that date will be honored by the association, Metusalem said.

Failure by recipients to cash checks results in difficulty in closing the books of the association for the 1965 county fair, Metusalem explained. A final account must be submitted to state officials for audit on or before November 1. The October 1 deadline is a full month past the final date stipulated on the premium checks and considered ample by the association.

LOUNGE AREA of the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls has taken on a new look since its recent remodeling into an Early American motif. Old-fashioned wooden furniture and rheostat-controlled chandeliers create a rustic atmosphere in the room. Other new features include carpeting, lowering of the ceiling in part of the building, a new heating system and electronic filters for smoke removal. Ranum Construction company was the general contractor. Grand opening, with open house, a smorgasbord supper and dancing to live music, was held Saturday and Sunday.

Speech Therapy in Schools Offered

Speech therapy, a new program in Thief River Falls school system, is being organized by Miss Kay Knudson, the speech therapist. Since the program is new to this area, it will take some time to complete the speech and hearing tests in each school and to set up the speech schedule. It is tentatively planned that the schools will be taken two at a time for periods of five to seven weeks, so more extensive therapy may be offered.

Speech therapy is primarily the improvement of speech difficulties, Miss Knutson explained. The amount of improvement depends upon the cooperation of the child, home and schools. Therapy is done in small groups or individually for a period of 20 minutes a day. Here the students work together with the therapist in correcting their speech.

The number of children taken for therapy will be limited as the state of Minnesota has set up a maximum caseload. Miss Knudson plans to take some that are in real need of speech therapy and also some that will benefit from a shorter period of therapy and therefore can be dismissed to be replaced by others.

The parents will be notified of the time and days their child is scheduled for therapy. Parent's conferences will be arranged at a later date to discuss the child's speech difficulty and to answer any questions the parent may have. Correction of the child's speech difficulty can benefit with parents cooperation and understanding.

If anyone would like to contact Miss Knudson, she can be reached most easily at Knox school, Friday afternoons.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. JOE PETERSON

Summer is gone and the pickling season is almost over. In checking your cucumber patch, don't throw those large golden cucumbers in the garbage can—they make lovely pickles. If you haven't tried them, Mrs. Joe Peterson of 527 Crocker Avenue South, recommends this recipe.

RIPE CUCUMBER PICKLES

7 lbs. ripe cucumbers
7 cups sugar
2 cups brown vinegar
½ teaspoon oil of cloves
½ teaspoon oil of cinnamon

Note—No water is used in the pickling solution. Method: Peel ripe cucumbers, cut into fourths, the long way, and remove seeds. Cut into inch slices and weigh. Make a salt brine, using ½ cup pickling salt to each quart of water. Soak cucumbers in brine over night, covering with ice cubes.

In the morning, drain and rinse the cukes, cover with cold water and simmer until tender but not soft. Drain well! Combine sugar, vinegar and oils and bring to a boil. Pour over well drained cucumbers and let stand over night.

The second day, drain off syrup, heat and pour over pickles again and let stand until the next day, then heat cukes in syrup, pack into jars and seal. Makes about eight pints.

Mrs. Joe Peterson is employed afternoons and evenings at Danny's East Side Superette. In her spare time she enjoys canning and freezing fruits and vegetables. Her husband is custodian at the Eagles lodge. They have one son, Henry, who is married and lives at Karlstad, and two granddaughters, Jane and Joan, 10 and five years old, respectively.

The accident happened about 10:20 p. m. Wednesday on SAR 17 (Airport road) approximately one-fourth mile south of the Thief River Falls city limits.

Pennington county sheriff's department, which investigated the accident, gave the following account of the mishap:

A car driven north on SAR 17 by Marvin Nesterud, Madelia, became overheated and the driver stopped the car in the east traffic lane. Glaubitz, a passenger in the car, had gone to the ditch to get water for the radiator and was standing in front of the car filling the radiator when it was struck from the rear by another vehicle.

Driver of the second car, owned by C. R. Waldera of Thief River Falls, was his daughter Barbara, 16. The impact threw Glaubitz on to the radiator of the Nesterud car, and the vehicle traveled about 200 feet before stopping in the east ditch. Nesterud was out of the car at the time of the accident and was not injured.

Glaubitz, an employee of Komatz Construction company which is working on street projects in this city, was admitted to Northwestern hospital in fair condition. He sustained fractures of the left shoulder, arm and lower leg. Miss Waldera, whose car also went into the east ditch, was reported in good condition at the hospital the next day.

Both cars were damaged extensively in the accident, the sheriff's department said. Investigation has not yet been completed.

Seat Belts Have Most Value for Low Speed Driving

Whenever you get into your car, buckle on your seat belt—especially for city driving. Seat belts have their greatest value in city driving, the Minnesota Highway department reminds motorists.

This fact was borne out in a year-long study of fatal accidents reported last year by the University of Michigan. In none of the cases investigated was the seat belt a cause of injury.

More than half of all accidents that cause injury or death occur at speeds less than 40 miles per hour, and three out of four traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of the victims' homes, according to that report.

At just 30 miles per hour—a relatively slow speed in today's high powered motor vehicles—an impact will create a force of 30 G's (30 times the force of gravity) in a split second. Unless the human body is confined by seat belts it will be thrown out of the vehicle or against some solid objects within the car, with obvious results.

Prowlers, Green Wave Battle to 18-18 Tie

The Prowlers and the Green Wave each scored three touchdowns in the Northwest conference football game played at East Grand Forks on Friday afternoon, but neither team was able to convert on their extra-point tries and the result was an 18 to 18 draw. The game, which was a feature of Homecoming for East Grand Forks, found the Prowlers forced to make two come-from-behind efforts to knot the score. Coach Bill Herzog's squad tallied their final touchdown with but a minute and a half of play remaining, and it was a fourth down pass, Tommy Cummings to Rod Carlson, that carried for six yards and the touchdown. The Prowlers had two chances at converting the extra point, with East Grand Forks being offside on the first try, but the Prowlers failed to take advantage of the opportunities.

The Prowlers will meet coach Ken Rio's Grand Forks Central Redskins here Friday night. The kickoff will be at 7:30 p. m., and the game will be one of the features of Prowler Homecoming festivities.

The game proved costly to the Prowlers as coach Herzog's squad lost the services of sophomore halfback Nicky Drees for the season. Drees, late in the fourth period, tried to hurdle a tackler on a sweep of right end, and fell heavily, breaking his left arm.

The Prowlers were a fumbling ball team in Friday's conference tilt, with coach Ron Thompson's East Siders recovering five of the Prowler fumbles.

The Green Wave tallied the game's opening touchdown midway in the first period. A 20-yard run by Terry Johnson, and a 29-yard scamper around right end by Dan Beck carried the ball to the Prowler one-yard line. Myron Johnson drove through the line for the touchdown. Gordon Bubendorf's placekick try for the point was low.

The Prowlers scored late in the period with Merle Sampson's blocking of a Green Wave kick giving the locals possession on the East Side 22-yard line. Seven running plays gained to the East Side seven-yard line, and on fourth down Cummings hit Rod Carlson in the end zone for the touchdown. Monte LeMoine's placement try was wide of the uprights.

The Green Wave capped a three first-downs drive in the second period, with Dan Stauss hitting end Mark Watkins for seven yards and a touchdown. The placekick try for the point was blocked, but the Green Wave held a 12 to 6 lead at the intermission.

East Grand Forks, recovering a fumble on the Prowlers' 8-yard line, gained an 18 to 6 lead when Stauss completed a touchdown pass to end Kim Krostue. The placement kick was again blocked.

The Prowlers, on Monte LeMoine's power running, came back to score in the final minutes of the period. LeMoine, taking a handoff from Cummings, picked up 43 yards off left tackle. Cumings added five yards to the East Side 23-yard line. LeMoine, in three plays, carried to the 4-yard line, and then drove over for a touchdown. The placekick try was low.

It was late in the final period that a pass interception gave the Prowlers possession on the Prowlers' 30-yard line. The locals drove for four first downs, with a pair of Cummings to Carlson pass completions picking up 23 yards, and a Lemoine run adding 20 yards. The Prowlers had first down with a foot to go. Two plays failed to gain, and then the Prowlers were called on an off-side violation. From the six-yard line, Cummings found Carlson in the south end zone for a touchdown. The Prowlers had a pair of tries at the conversion point, but both tries went awry.

Season on Geese Opens Saturday Throughout State

Minnesota goose hunters will be given their first opportunity of the year to hunt the big birds, soon to start their fall migration, when the goose hunting season opens statewide at sunrise Saturday, October 2. The season will run for 70 days ending December 10.

Geese may be taken only between the hours of sunrise and 12 noon in the counties of Grant, Jackson and in that portion of Big Stone county lying north of State Highway 7 and west of U.S. Highway 75.

Hunting is also restricted to sunrise to noon shooting in those counties lying east of U. S. Highway 59. In the balance of the state shooting hours are sunrise to sunset.

Half-day hunting is being tried in an attempt to improve hunting success by providing geese several daylight hours of undisturbed feeding time, thereby holding them in the area longer.

Hunters should consult their synopsis of the 1965 hunting regulations for detailed information on refuges, public hunting grounds, wildlife management areas and sunrise and sunset time scheduled.

Limits on geese are five daily and five in possession, but the limit may not include more than two Canada geese or subspecies, two white-fronted geese or one of each. Bag limits are the same as in 1964.

In areas where goose hunting is restricted to sunrise to noon shooting, there will be no goose hunting on October 9, the first day of the duck season. The reason is that no hunting of any species of waterfowl is allowed until noon on the opening day of the duck season.

Duck Control on Farm Land Given

State and federal wildlife personnel have been working closely with farmers in parts of Roseau, Kittson, Lake of the Woods and Marshall counties to prevent crop damage by keeping ducks out of grain fields, the Minnesota Division of Game and Fish reported today.

The small grain harvest in these counties has been delayed because of wet weather and ducks have by moving into fields to feed on swathed grain.

Feeding sites have been established on the state-owned Thief Lake and Roseau Wildlife Management areas. Surplus Commodity Credit Corporation grain presently is being fed to hold nearly 40,000 ducks on these two aresas and to keep them out of farmers' grain fields.

Similar action is being taken by U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife personnel on the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge.

Vern Gunvalson, regional game manager, said exploders, airplanes, scarecrows and other measures are being used with good effect to keep the ducks out of the unharvested grain fields. He urged farmers in trouble spots to consider purchasing exploders for use in their own fields.

Gunvalson said that local farmers have been cooperating very well with state and federal wildlife in the program.

Unemployment insurance has been a mainstay of America's economy for three decades, protecting workers against the risk of unemployment. The program reached its 30th anniversary on ust 14, 1965.

Report Issued By Department On Teal Season

State Game and Fish Director, Ted Shields, has issued a preliminary report on the September 11-13 experimental teal hunting season in Minnesota. He said field observations indicated that most hunters complied with the regulations which allowed shooting teal only.

Types of violations encountered by game wardens were comparable to a regular season. Shields said the total number of violations was much smaller, however, since there were only about one-fourth or one-third as many hunters out as during the opening of the regular waterfowl season.

He said that checks by game and fish division fieldmen showed that hunting pressure was moderate to light on Saturday and was very light on Sunday and Monday. Hunting pressure was especially light in the northern part of the state and heaviest in southern areas.

Field interviews indicated that most hunters in the southern areas were pleased with the early season while a majority of northern hunters thought it may not have been worthwhile. Teal were scarce in some of the northern areas but were generally abundant in the south and west.

Bag checks of 1,068 teal hunters showed they averaged about two teal apiece on Saturday, the opening day. Success was greatest in the southern one-quarter of the state where many limits were reported.

On Sunday, September 12, the state-wide average was about one teal per hunter. About 90 per cent of the teal taken were blue-wings and 10 per cent green-wings. No cinnamon teal were recorded.

Shields said that aerial waterfowl surveys made before and after the special teal season revealed that there was no major outstate movement of other species of ducks as a result of the early hunting. The surveys did show that there were fewer teal after the special season than before.

"Undoubtedly this was a result of the number of teal shot as well as the normal teal migration out of the state which occurs this time of the year," he said.

Final results of the experimental teal season in Minnesota cannot be fully determined, Shields said, until all the available information on hunter success, violations, band recoveries, crippling loss and the sex and age ratios of birds taken in Minnesota and other states in the Mississippi and been analyzed.

Social Security Limits Earnings

A social security beneficiary under 72 in any month this year will lose some benefits if he earns over $1,200 in 1965, says Clifford Kittelson, district manager for Social Security.

Anyone under 72 expecting to earn over $1,200 this year should notify his social security office now. The 1965 change in the law permitting $1,500 in earnings does not go in to effect until Jan. 1, 1966.

CONSERVATION News & Notes

by Bob Farmes
Area Game Manager
Division of Game & Fish—Minn. Conserevation Dep't.

Two important meetings concerning wildlife have recently been held in this area. On September 14, 15 and 16 the Prairie Grouse Technical Council met at Warroad. This is an organization of management and research field personnel interested in our two species of prairie grouse, the prairie chicken and the sharptail. Most of those people are actively working on projects involving one or both of these species and some of them devote full time to them.

This was the sixth such conference of this group which is sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation. Other meetings have been held in Nebraska, Kansas, Wisconsin, South Dakota and Missouri.

This was the most successful conference to date with a registration of nearly 100 delegates representing 14 State game and Fish agencies, three Canadian Provinces, nine universities, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the U.S. Forest Service and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

The first two days of the conference were devoted to presentation of papers on prairie grouse. A field trip to view Minnesota sharptail habitat and research projects was held the third day.

Both Michigan and Illinois report that their prairie chickens are in immediate danger of extermination unless they can save what little habitat is left. These birds were extremely numerous around the turn of the century in primarily what is now the corn belt, but when the prairie grasslands were ploughed up the prairie chicken gradually lost out. Only Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota have enough grass left to support good populations and they are still able to have hunting seasons. It appears that much of the habitat in these states is secure.

In Minnesota our prairie chickens are mostly in the northwestern part of the state along the beach lines of glacial Lake Agassiz where we still have some fairly extensive acreages of grassland. However this too is gradually being lost and unless this trend is soon checked about the only places we will have chickens will be on the Wildlife Management Areas that have large acreages of grass. We do have a few of those areas in state ownership today and probably could support a small prairie chicken population on them alone. We hope that more of this type of land can be brought into state ownership so that we can be sure of having this fine bird in our State in the future.

One possible bright note is that the new farm bill now in Congress may have some features in it that will be quite beneficial to both prairie chickens and sharptails.

The ultimate goal of the Prairie Grouse council is to promote the welfare of these fine birds. The council hopes to publish material so that more people may be informed of the situation and take an interest. The conferences themselves are on important means for exchanging rensearch findings and management techniques between the various agencies. The next conference will be held in Illinois.

The other important meeting was the 15th annual assembly of the Minnesota Conservation Federation at Detroit Lakes on September 17, 18 and 19. This is the largest sportsman's organization in the state boasting a membership of over 20,000. It is affiliated with the National Wildlife Federation.

This too was a highly successful meeting in that delegates from over 40 local clubs were in attendance. High lites of this meeting were the two guest speakers at the Saturday noon and evening banquets.

Judge Louis McGregor, who is president of the National Wildlife Federation, spoke to the group Saturday noon and Dr. Durward Allen gave the evening address. Dr. Allen is professor of wildlife management at Purdue University and a recognized world authority in the field of wildlife management. His book "Our Wildlife Legacy" is the very best of its kind and anyone that is interested in the out-of-doors and in wildlife should by all means read it. It is highly informative and easily read as well as entertaining. Dr. Allen gave a very interesting talk on the wolf-moose relationship on Isle Royal.

Other discussions during the session concerned the organization of the Division of Game and Fish by Director Shields, and reports on the new Sherburne National Wildlife Refuge and the Boundary Waters Canoe Area. Election of officers was held and Vice President Jack O'Konek from Hill City was elected president.

Although several of the sportsman's clubs in this part of the state are members of the Federation I was sorry to see that only two of them were represented, Crookston and East Grand Forks, in addition to the host Becker County club.

As a professional conservationist I feel the need for much stronger participation on the part of the public in all natural resource matters. I believe that taking an active part in organizations devoted to the conservation of our natural resources is the best way to fill this need. I am sure that if most people that are interested in the conservation of our natural resources (and really everyone should be) took an active part in an organization you would see the conservation effort take giant strides forward.

To Open Season On Squirrels and Rabbits Saturday

Minnesota's hunting season on squirrels and rabbits will open October 2, the conservation department reminded hunters today. The season on squirrels will run through December 31. Bag limits on grey and fox squirrels are 7 daily and 14 in possession combined.

Rabbits may be hunted through March 1, 1966. Hunters will be allowed 10 daily and 20 in possession on each of the three species of rabbits: cottontail, jack and snowshoe. Shooting hours on rabbit and squirrel are sunrise to sunset.

Raccoons are now classes as unprotected animals and may be taken at any time. The 'coon population is at a high level again this year.

Squirrel and cottontail numbers are satisfactory, while jack rabbits have increased slightly in some areas. Snowshoe rabbit hunting will be very spotty, game officials said. Last year Minnesota hunters took 350,000 squirrels, 220,000 rabbits and 30,000 raccoon.

Minnesota Drivers Kill 3,018 Deer Last Year

While many hunters had poor luck tracking down deer last year, some 3,018 persons who were not looking for deer got them anyway—but they got them the hard way and didn't even get to keep them.

These are the motorists who struck and killed 3,018 deer on Minnesota roads last year, according to the Minnesota Conservation department. This is a big jump from the 2,399 deer reported killed in 1963 and the 1,947 killed in 1962.

In some cases the drivers, as well as the vehicles, came out almost as badly as the deer, but not quite. Of the 193 persons hurt in collisions with deer last year, 70 were severly injured.

Pay close attention to "Deer Crossing Area" warning signs, requests the Minnesota Highway department, particularly at this time of year.

The state is now moving into the period when the possibility of colliding with a deer on the highway is at its greatest; beginning in early October and extending through November. In early October the rutting season starts and deer begin to move more freely and cross highways more frequently.

With more than a half million deer in the state, they will be a common sight on the highways, especially in the northeastern part of the state and where highways parallel river bottoms.

Of those killed last year, 724 were killed in October, and 535 in November. The other most dangerous period is May-June, and last year 329 deer were killed in May and 386 in June. For the other months, the deer kill ranged from 88 in February to 280 in September.

The number of deer killed, however, is believed to be greater than that reported because many motorists who accidently kill them also haul them away. Sometimes, too, the deer are only injured and escape to suffer and die in the woods.

It is illegal to haul a deer home after accidentally killing it. If you kill a deer with your car, report it to the area game warden, and if you can't locate him, report it to any other official of the Minnesota Department of conservation, to the Minnesota Highway patrol or other law enforcement official. Also, before you leave the scene of the acident, make certain the deer is not on the road creating a traffic hazard.

In the Twin Cities area alone last year, 415 deer were killed by motor vehicles. Hennepin county had 108; Anoka county, 73; Wright, 49; Scott, 48; Dakota, 44; Carver, 33; Washington, 31; and Ramsey county, 29.

State Road Cost Is $425,371,000 In Past 5 Years

One of the most common questons put to the Minnesota Highway departments: "How much do highways cost in our state?" Totals for five fiscal years have been compiled on the basis of contracts let plus 10 per cent for engineering and contingencies.

The totals for all regular trunk and Intrestate highways are:

FISCAL YEAR	COST
1962	57,348,000
1963	94,441,000
1964	101,816,000
1965	118,000,000

The total for the five years is $425,371,000. These figures show a constant rise due largely to in-which consumes the greatest share of the construction money.

Increase in Influenza Expected for 1965-66

An increase in influenza in the United States in the 1965-1966 season is anticipated by the U S. Public Health service, although no unusual increase is expected for Minnesota.

Public Health service estimates are based on the fact that the disease runs in 2-3 year cycles and that in many parts of the country there was relatively little influenza last year. States which had a large number of cases last season are not expected to have a recurrence this year. Minnesota had a limited outbreak at the end of the last influenza season.

Minnesota had an above-average number of clinical cases reported to the state health department for the last three years, with 356 reported in 1964, 795 in 1963, and 410 in 1962, in contrast to only 54 in 1961. The last epidemic year was 1960 when there were 2,726 cases with 175 deaths. A total of 18,100 cases were reported in the 1957 epidemic, with 176 deaths.

The death rate (2.5 per 100,000) has been relatively low in the last few years, and most of the deaths have occurred among older persons. The state health department recommends annual immunizations for them and for chronically ill persons, upon recommendations of their family physicians. Chances of serious complications or death are greater for these two groups than for others.

During three successive recent epidemics, there was a moderate increase in deaths among persons over 45 years and a marked increase among those over 65 years, according to Dr. C. B. Nelson, chief of the section of acute communicable diseases, Minnesota Department of Health.

Another high risk group is that of persons with chronic disease conditions, including those in nursing homes or similar facilities where the chance for spread is greater if an outbreak occurs. These persons, for reasons of age or chronic illness, may be unable to withstand the severe stress the disease places on body functions.

Persons in high risk groups should have annual booster doses of influenza vaccine in the fall. Immunizations should be completed by Mid-December, as heavy outbreaks usually occur in the late winter and early spring. The 1964-1965 outbreak was last April.

Persons not vaccinated since July, 1963, when the last major change was made in the composition of the vaccine, need two doses approximately two months apart, although a single dose may give significant protection. Persons vaccinated since July, 1963, need a single booster dose.

The four H's in the 4-H emblem stand for Head, Heart, Hands and Health.

Peace Corps Test

Peace Corps placement test will be given at 9 a.m. Saturday, October 9, at the Thief River Falls post office. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, and is used by the Peace Corps as a tool in matching volunteers and jobs.

A Peace Corps application must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted. They are available at the post office. Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

4-H Club Week

This week a number of youngsters in Pennington county join their counter-parts throughout the nation in observance of national 4-H Club Week. The annual observance is designed to call attention to the 4-H club program and the many projects it offers to boys and girls throughout the United States.

When we think of 4-H club activities, there are two events which come to mind immediately. One of these is the Pennington county fair and the other is the annual achievement banquet. Both events are big events in the lives of 4-H club members and leaders in the county, although they are only parts of the total 4-H club program.

Not enough tribute can ever be given to the individuals who give freely of their time and talents as adult and junior leaders in club work. Younger members benefit from the advice and experience of these leaders, and it is generally the clubs with the most enthusiastic leaders which rank high in "Club of the Year" competition each year.

With leadership considered as a necessity, nothing should be taken away from the initiative and the perseverance of the club members themselves. These youngsters work hard on their projects and they take competition at all levels as a very serious matter. They "learn by doing", which is another way of saying they are gaining practical instruction from the greatest of all teachers—experience.

We associate 4-H club members with the county fair because this is where we see 4-H project work on parade. From livestock to demonstrations to mechanics to clothing to canning to posters and scrapbooks, the 4-H'ers show skills and ingenuity beyond their years. They show their abilities to develop into good citizens.

The achievement banquet is memorable because it recognizes the accomplishments of club members over a period of years. Since only members with complete records are permitted to attend, it helps teach the youngsters to complete the work they have started. One thing which is especially heartening about the banquet is the behavior of the young people attending. They enjoy themselves but they are attentive listners and well-behaved.

In behalf of the Times, it has been this writer's privilege in the past several years to present the "Club of the Year" award at the banquet. Clubs which have won this award have every reason to be proud of the "Club of the Year" designation, for it shows a balanced club program and considerable extra effort.

The 4-H program has much to offer young people of our area, and these young people can receive much in return through their participation. We join in saluting them during 4-H Club Week.

Warning Flags

Warning flags are going up in regard to whether this country can spend huge additional sums for defense, because of the massive acceleration of the war in Vietnam, and at the same time carry on welfare programs of unprecedented scope and cost without courting the most serious kind of trouble.

Senator Russell of Georgia has expressed the view that there are even greater dangers of inflation now than at the time of the Korean War. Senator Morton of Kentucky points out that ". . .the Siamese twin of huge deficit financing is inflation," and he has all the historical precedent anyone could want to support that statement. Representative Laird suggests that there should be a reevaluation of proposed appropriations totaling some $8 billion for new domestic programs which are primarily of a welfare nature.

More and more thoughtful observers, in and out of Congress, are expressing similar fears and concerns. There is a theory that all this spending will generate vast new tax revenues and so minimize the deficits. But it is only a theory, and unproven.

What has been proven is that when we attempt to buy more guns and provide more butter at the same time the dollar's buying power is battered down and down. Then the people of small means—whom the welfare programs are supposed to help—are the hardest hit. Is that tragedy due to recur once more?

More Harm Than Help

Writing in "The Freeman", James E. Blair discusses the effect on workers of minimum wage laws. This kind of law, he finds, can raise the average wages within an industry, but it does that at the expense of workers whose productivity and value to the employer are small.

He makes this interesting comparison: "In some respects the effects are like that of a tariff—it is easy to recognize those who benefit from the law, but harder to determine those who suffer from it. We can see the worker who is given a raise because of the increased minimum, but the worker who is laid off when he otherwise would not have been, and the man who is not hired who otherwise would have been, are harder to identify. But while the harmful effects of the tariff are spread over the whole economy, those harmed by the minimum wage law are mostly the very poor, the unemployed, the elderly and the unskilled."

Blair cites a Cornell university study made a few years ago which examined the results of the minimum wage in New York retail trade. It found, among other things, that it brought about reduced hours for part-time help; the laying off of workers, especially those of low efficiency; and reduced store hours. In other words, the law directly damaged the very groups it was designed to aid.

There is every reason to believe that current proposals for increasing the federal minimum and for extending coverage to large numbers of workers who are now exempt, principally in retaining and other service industries, would follow this precedent. The only true measure of a worker's value is his productivity. And the only sound way to improve his earning ability is to give him the opportunity to develop the skills and knowledge which will increase that productivity. That is what an excessively high minimum wage can prevent.

A False Comparison

". . .statistics are a complement, not a substitute, for trained intellect and common sense. They pose questions, they don't answer them. They are slaves, not masters."

The words are those of James Z. Appel, M.D., president of the American Medical association. They apply with full force to certain criticisms of American standards of medical care, which hold that we must take a back seat to foreign medicine.

For example, a statistical table shows that Sweden's infant mortality rate is one per cent under that of the United States, and that the average Swede lives a few years longer than the average American. "But" observes Dr. Appel, "it is also a matter of record that a Swede in Minnesota outlives a Swede in Sweden, and, furthermore, that suicides occur with much more frequency in Sweden than in the United States."

The point is that in comparing one nation's statistics with another's, questions of interpretation and definition are involved. For instance, in Sweden a baby is not considered born alive unless it actually breathes. In this country if there is a heart beat, movement of the voluntary muscles or pulsation of the umbilical cord, it is considered a live birth, even though the child may never take a breath. There are other important differences in the standards and practices within the two countries which make out and out statistical comparisons misleading.

That has been affirmed by Walo von Greyerz, M.D., a Stockholm physician. He has said, "Sweden is a homogeneous nation, impossible to equate with the vastness of the United States. I don't know how you would compare medicine in Sweden. . with medicine in America. It surely can't be done with infant mortality and longevity statistics. People who do compare such things obviously are hunting for headlines."

The tremendous achievements of free American medicine are a matter of record. Comparisons which use raw statistics to produce preconceived conclusions must not be allowed to obscure them.

Pointing with Pride

One of our neighboring villages to the north—Roseau, by name—is pointing with pride to its village financial statement which shows that community to be debt-free. Persons who have had occasion to drive through that village have most likely noticed that most of the streets are surfaced and the community presents an orderly appearance.

We would strongly suspect that a number of persons who are now pointing with pride at the debt-free status of the village were among those "viewing with alarm" when Roseau embarked on a huge street project a number of years ago. Many thousands of dollars were involved in the project and to many it likely did appear that paying the debt would be a never-ending task.

To many residents of Thief River Falls the street improvement projects now underway present the same picture. Surrounded by excavated streets which have turned to soupy mud with rains of the past two weeks, these people have excuse for a bleak outlook. Time will permit completion of the project and the days of gravel roads with intermittent dust and mud will be forgotten.

Also with time will come the completion of payments on bonds sold for street purposes. The interim may not be financially pleasant, but the improvement will be appreciated and the city will have made notable progress.

Had our city made the move to surface streets when Roseau did so, we would be well on the way to having the bonds paid. However, the ability to act in the past on the basis of present observation has been withheld from mankind. In the future we can also point with pride to what was undertaken in the past.

We are sure that Roseau is now going to embark on other projects for the benefit of the village. Its debt-free situation is somewhat unique among the progressive communities of the area.

Yard'n Garden

Fall is a good time to begin the planting of your landscape. Shrubs and trees for landscaping purposes can be successfully planted during the fall season. Container-grown nursery stock and materials that go dormant early can be started at this time too, as well as the balled and burlap plants. This is also a good time to rejuvenate the landscape planting.

Often it's possible to rejuvenate deciduous shrubs by pruning them. Overgrown plant materials may be replaced now. In fact, fall is a good time to make these replacements to take advantage of the winter effect the new plant materials will give to your landscaping.

Where construction is to be accomplished in the landscape design, it is a good idea to start the footings and get the foundations or fill established this fall. Where change of grades for patio or for leveling of the lawn is necessary the fill will settle during the winter season and landscaping can continue the following spring.

For new homes where the foundation has just been completed it's best to wait until spring to put in the foundation planting.

Permanent trees can be planted at this time of the year just as soon as the leaves have fallen. Consult with your landscape nurseryman first of all on the development of the landscape plan, then on appropriate species and transplanting information. Often during the fall season there is more time available to devote to site planning and development.

Enjoy the fine quality of the numerous varieties of Minnesota apples which will be featured this fall at many local markets. Right now you can find Beacon, Wealthy, Minjon and Lakeland. Late fall apples which will be available soon include McIntosh, Haralson, Jonathan and Redwell. If you plan to buy a bushel or so, varieties best for long storage include Fireside or Connell Red, Delicious, Golden Delicious, Cortland, Prairie Spy and Spartan.

To keep apples in their best condition, maintain the storage temperature between 32 degrees and 38 degrees Farenheit. High humidity is also important to prevent the excess loss of moisture from the fruits.

Be sure to select only the best fruits for storage. Poor or bruised fruits spoil rapidly in storage and may cause the good fruits to rot. Wrapping the fruits individually is not necessary, though it will increase their storage life.

Store the apples in perforated polyethylene bags or similar containers which will allow the oxygen supply to be replenished but will restrict moisture loss. The old wooden apple barrel was useful in this respect. Storage in tightly sealed containers is not recommended because it may result in a rapid deterioration of the fruit or development of off-flavors.

For a special treat, you'll enjoy the flavor of the Chestnut crabapple. This small apple is excellent for packing in the lunch box.

Community Life Changes

Many of our readers may not be aware of the change in the life of the Rosewood community brought about by the consolidation of the rural schools and redistricting parts of the area. Our elementary school children are now taken by bus to schools in Holt, Viking or any of three schools, Knox, Northrop or Washington in Thief River Falls. There are pupils attending Franklin Junior High in Thief River Falls and high school students at the Newfolden High school and at Lincoln High school in Thief River Falls. These schools activities have a great effect on our community life. Many of the adults here are also employed in the neighboring towns and the families attend churches in these other communities. The two organizations here where we can meet as "neighbors" are the New Solum 4-H Club and the Rosewood Homemakers. The Rosewood News will also attempt to give the neighborhood a feeling of unity as it draws in reports of the people as they reach out into the surrounding area.

School Activities

Taking part in the musical organizations being assembled the first weeks of school are Douglas Johnson who is in the chorus "The Lincoln Singers". Donald Johnson is taking part in the Franklin Junior High Chorus. At Newfolden the chorus members include Susan and Janet Holmstrom, Deanna Jarshaw, Karen Kron, David Hall, Danny Olson and Joy Hodik.

Danny Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvon Olson, plays football this year on the Newfolden team. Alvin Olsons live on the family home farm, the Art Olson place.

In Newfolden the classes have been holding class elections the past week. Officers from this area elected by their classmates are: Sixth grade president, Janelle Hodik; Sophomore class president, Keith Kron; Sophomore class secretary, Denna Jarshaw; Senior class treasurer, Karon Kron. Deanna Jarshaw was also chosen to represent the sophomore class as Homecoming Attendant.

Work by the seniors on their class annual was also started. Selected by the faculty at Newfolden to plan the Annual were Susan Holmstrom and Karen Kron from this area.

The Viking School has set the date for their annual school carnival for Friday, October 15.

Mrs. Ormond Johnson helped serve at the P.T.A. meeting at the Washington School Monday night.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The Waseca Herald calls our attention to an interesting development in the parking meter field. According to the Herald recent surveys disclose that 49 cities in 20 states have removed more than 19,000 meters since 1959. Two Minnesota cities were included in this group, Hopkins and White Bear Lake. A study of the results, conducted by the American Automobile Association, indicates that the communities are well satisfied with the change.

Here in Thief River Falls we have provided parking lots, both public and private, instead of meters, with good results. Private property that is made available for public parking might properly be given a little special tax consideration as a means of encouraging this sort of development.

Complaining about Uncle Sam's postal service is understandable. The service, at the present time, does have notable shortcomings. But let's keep in mind that the system at the present time is undergoing a drastic change, brought on to some extent by the fact that the railroads no longer are interested in providing the kind of mail service that served us well for many years.

It seems that the change is inevitable and possibly out of the changes will gradually emerge a new system that will serve us better. There are several things about our federal post office department that I do not like. For one thing it is more of a political machine than a public service organization, and corruption, once it becomes firmly rooted, is a weed that is hard to eradicate. But there is a limit to public endurance and reforms, while they come slowly, do come inevitably.

In the meantime let's keep in mind that a reorganization of the mail delivery service has become a necessity. There may be reasonable justification for the hope that out of the present state of confusion there will emerge a system of mail delivery that will be superior to what we have had.

An Associated Press report from Washington informs us that the government-sponsored school lunch program probably will cost a billion dollars this school year. That information did not upset me. The school lunch program has a lot of merit. What irritated me about this news release was a simple statement to the effect that "funds for buying the food come from federal, state and local sources."

Let's keep in mind the fact that while most of the money for the school lunch programs is siphoned to us by way of state and federal agencies, practically all of that money comes originally from local sources. The state and federal governments take it away from us first and then give it back to us with a grand gesture that suggests we should be very grateful. I am glad I got that off my chest.

The Conservation Volunteer, published by the Minnesota Department of Conservation, passes along the encouraging news that the number of drownings in Minnesota has tended to decrease. Listing the number of deaths by years from 1944 through 1964, the record year, 1944, was 180 and the low total, 1956 was 87. The 21 year average was 131.4 and the totals for the last three years, 1962 through 1964, were 106, 108 and 115 respectively.

Considering the fact that water sports of various kinds have attracted steadily increasing participation, the figures are surprisingly cheerful.

Canada is now enjoying another election campaign, which prompted the Financial Post to use a few interesting quotes pertaining to elections in general. Winston Churchill is reported to have said:

"The habit of saying smooth things and uttering pious platitudes and sentiments to gain applause, without relation to underlying facts is more pronounced now than it ever has been."

And our Adlai Stevenson gets credit for the following observation:

"Most of the speeches remind me of that facetious explanation of the word 'auditorium'. It is said the word comes from two Latin words, 'audio' and 'taurus' 'Audio' of course means 'I hear' and, as everybody knows, 'taurus' means 'bull'."

The quality of many vegetables depends on the time and stage at which they're harvested. Some vegetables like sweet corn, peas, beans, cauliflower and broccoli deteriorate quickly once they are mature; so they must be picked at just the right stage and used immediately.

A good way to tell the ideal time for sweet corn harvest is to use the thumb nail test. If the kernels are fully filled out and in the milk stage, the watery substance will squirt out freely when the kernels are pressed with the nail. Corn silk should be brown and dry.

Harvest peas before the pods are tightly filled and before the color turns from bright green to a yellowish green.

Cut broccoli when the flower bud clusters are well formed but before the buds start to open into yellow flowers. Cut four to five inches of stem with each head.

If cucumbers are allowed to remain too long on the vine, the seeds will become hard and further production will be reduced. Pick the fruit so a small portion of stem adheres to each cucumber. Harvest cucumbers often for best quality.

Pick beans when they are in the best snapping stage, when the pods are still straight and smooth before the presence of the seeds in the pod can actually be felt and seen. When beans are allowed to get ripe and overmature, they cease to produce new flowers and pods.

Muskmelon is ripe when the stem slips easily from the fruit, leaving a clean scar. Watermelon is ripe when the underside of the fruit turns yellow or when snapping the melon with the finger produces a dull, hollow sound. Watermelons have to be cut off the vine.

Harvest summer squash when the fruits are 6 to 9 inches long, when the rind is still soft and before seeds are hard. Winter squash, though, should ripen on the vine. Winter squash is mature when the skin near the stem end is difficult to puncture with the thumb nail.

Enjoy the fine quality of the numerous varieties of Minnesota apples which will be featured this fall at many local markets. Late fall apples include McIntosh, Haralson, Jonathan and Redwell. If you plan to buy a bushel or so, varieties best for long storage include Fireside or Connell Red, Delicious, Golden Delicious, Cortland, Prairie Spy and Spartan.

To keep apples in their best condition, maintain the storage temperature between 32 degrees and 38 degrees F. High humidity is also important to prevent the excess loss of moisture from the fruits.

Be sure to select only the best fruits for storage. Poor or bruised fruits spoil rapidly in storage and may cause the good fruits to rot. Wrapping the fruits individually is not necessary, though it will increase their storage life.

Store the apples in perforated polyethylene bags or similar containers which will allow the oxygen supply to be replenished but will restrict moisture loss. The old wooden apple barrel was useful in this respect. Storage in tightly sealed containers is not recommended because it may result in a rapid deterioration of the fruit or development of off-flavors.

For a special treat, you'll enjoy the flavor of the Chestnut crabapple. This small apple is excellent for packing in the lunch box.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Anoka county is learning the value of soil maps in urban planning, according to John Russell, Soil Conservation service technician at Anoka.

County, village and city officials are more and more concerned about available land space. Space is needed for homes, business, factories, public buildings, parks, roads and streets, golf courses, recreational areas and airports.

Soil maps are becoming an increasingly important tool in determining locations for these private and public facilities.

Recently, the Coon Rapids Industrial comission requested that detailed soil surveys be made of two sections of land to be developed for heavy and light industry. The land is located between U. S. Hightwy No. 10, and the Great Northern Railroad where transportation facilities are readily available.

Information that was obtained from the soil survey included such items as type of soil, drainage condition, quality of water, depth to water table, water supply, suitability for septic tanks, depth of peat soil, characteristics of subsoil and bearing strength.

Rural and township planning committees are interested in soil maps from a somewhat different angle. They are more concerned with the qualities of the soil such as fertility, water-holding capacity, topography, structure and capacity to produce. There is interest in maintaining the better agricultural areas of the county and giving them the protection they need from urbanization and taxation.

As a result, Russell says, local government officials are finding the basic information obtained from soil survey maps, along with careful interpretations, helps them guide proper land use, both for rural and urban planning and development.

Sixty cents per acre for sulfur each year may take a weak link out of alfalfa production in a wide area of northern Minnesota. Results in University of Minnesota research plots here, where sulfur was applied to alfalfa land, border on the dramatic.

Average alfalfa yields over a three-year period, where sulfur had been applied, went 4.8 tons per acre—more than double the 2.1 tons where no sulfur was used. Except for sulfur, experimental and check plots were treated the same way.

The rate was 50 pounds of gypsum (a sulfur-containing compound) per acre, applied in 1962 at a cost of 3.60 per acre. Nearly half covered by federal cost-sharing, and since the application is good for three years, annual cost to the farmer is 60 cents per acre.

The research is a culmination of years of study and research, and cooperation among university soil scientists, extension agents and local farmers. Fertilizer treatments in the past have emphasized nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and lime.

So why the concern over sulfur? Soil scientist John Grava gives several reasons:

Farmers today use more fertilizer. Increased use of the "standard" nutrients and lime push yields up, and put more stress on soil supplies of sulfur.

Secondly, the soil gets less sulfur from "fallout." In 1939, with coal smoke from factories and other sources, nearly 200 pounds of sulfur fell on each acre in downtown Minneapolis. Today, less coal is used; and sulfur precipitation is less. Studies in 1964 showed 34 pounds sulfur per acre in St. Paul, 7.6 at Duluth and five at Park Rapids.

Thirdly, fertilizer today contains less sulfur. The 0-20-0 superphosphate common a few years ago contains 11.5 per cent sulfur, compared with less than one per cent in the concentrate form of today (0-46-0).

Sulfur has been most important for alfalfa; a five-ton yield of this crop contains more than twice as much sulfur as a 100 bushel corn crop.

Sulfur has three kinds of effects on alfalfa:

1. Establishing and maintaining stands. In 1963, alfalfa fields treated with 50 pounds of gypsum per acre had 19 alfalfa plants per square foot, compared with seven where no sulfur had been used.
2. Yields. The 50-pound gypsum rate led to yields more than double the check plot.
3. Increased sulfur content of forage, which could be important in animal feeding.

The sulfur effect is most apparent where the water problem has been ruled out—where sprinkler irrigation is used in long periods between rainfall.

While the focus of the research project is on todd sandy loam near Park Rapids, soils are also investigated outside the area normally thought of as low in sulfur. As agriculture continues to intensify, the sulfur deficient area may not be restricted to north central Minnesota.

Farmer interest was illustrated by the 150 who visited the Park Rapids plots during a 1965 field day, and by the constant flow of visitors.

The plots were originally established by A. C. Caldwell, soil scientist, in cooperation with William Dorsey, area extension agent at Wadena, and other agents. Others on the project in addition to Grava, are research assistants Ed Selm and George Rohm.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—Will the Veterans administration administer the new 1965 housing act just passed by Congress?

A—No. Provisions of the act will be carried out by the Federal Housing authority. The Veterans administration will furnish eligible veterans with certificates of eligibility. Veterans who have already used their eligibility for a home under the GI loan program will not be eligible under the 1965 housing act.

Q—Where can children of veterans get information about the Orphans Education Assistance program?

A—They may write, telephone or visit any VA regional office. Each state in the union has at least one of these offices.

Q—With the closing of six VA hospitals that made such a stir in the news earlier this year, how many VA hospitals will remain?

A—The Veterans administration will continue to operate 162 hospitals for the care of veterans.

Haylage Feeding Gives Good Gains for Beef

Minnesota cattle feeders learned that steers showed good performance on all-haylage ration from research reported during the 13th Annual Beef Cattle Grasslands Field Day at the University of Minnesota's Rosemount agricultural experiment station.

In the first-year phase of a four-year experiment, steers fed alfalfa-brome haylage from an airtight silo produced significantly higher gains per day than haylage fed from a conventional concrete stave silo. Steers fed a grubicide gained slightly faster than those fed no grubicide, but zinc supplements did not influence feedlot performance.

Cattle fed haylage from the airtight silo gained significantly faster, consumed more haylage dry matter and required less haylage dry matter per 100 pounds of gain than those fed from the concrete stave silo. Haylage from the airtight silo produced 1.88 pounds per day gain, compared with 1.69 pounds per day gain from haylage stored in a concrete stave silo.

Researchers point out the higher gains were probably due to increased dry matter intakes for cattle fed from the airtight silo, because haylage from both silos supplied adequate nutrients.

No spoilage was noted in the airtight silo and only 1,170 pounds, or about 1.4 per cent of material ensiled, was discarded as spoiled material from the concrete stave silo. Haylage from the airtight silo also had slightly more protein and less fiber, though nutrient content of haylage for both silos was similar when ensiled.

Researchers say ensiling alfalfa as haylage is an excellent method of storing forage because cattle consume more dry matter and nutrients than when silage is fed. Haylage offers additional advantages with less leaf loss during harvesting and less risk of rain damage because of shorter drying time. Forage put up as haylage should contain 45-55 per cent moisture.

Interest in feeding zinc has increased since Purdue researchers reported zinc additions improved gains for cattle fed a high concentrate ration. Grains are normally lower in zinc than roughages, but University of Minnesota researchers wanted to investigate the effects of adding zinc to high roughage rations.

For the first 14 days of the experiment, 100 mg. of zinc was fed per head daily, but results indicate feeding zinc had no effect on gains or feed consumption.

Feeding a grubicide for the first two weeks of the experiment appeared to improve gains, with the steers receiving the grubicide gaining 1.82 pounds per day, while gained 1.74 pounds per day. Researchers point out that the differences are not significant and that the lower number of grubs in treated steers may explain the faster growth rate.

The experiment was conducted by R. D. Goodrich, assistant professor; J. C. Meiske, assistant professor; A. L. Harvey, professor; and O. E. Kolari, associate professor, of the Department of Animal Husbandry; and G. C. Marten, assistant professor in the Department of Agronomy and Plant Genetics.

Bell To Sponsor Many Television Shows This Year

Popular and classical music, a comedy show and sports are all part of the Bell System's offering for the 1965-66 television season, J. M. Wilson, Northwestern Bell Telephone company manager, said today.

The Bell Telephone Hour will appear every other Sunday. Every Friday at 7 p.m., the Bell system, on a half-sponsorship basis, will present "Hank," a situation comedy series starring Dick Kallman as an unregistered college student who must use his initiative to get a higher education.

Bell is again sponsoring the New York Philharmonic Young People's concerts with Leonard Bernstein conducting and narrating. The series of four concerts will be telecast on November 29, December 14, January 12 and February 22.

In addition, throughout the balance of 1965, Bell will present live telecasts of Professional Golf association tournaments.

Academy Exams Announced Today By Rep. Langen

Congressman Odin Langen today announced that November 6 has been selected as the date when young men from the Seventh Congressional district can take the Civil Service examination for admission to the Air Force academy, the Merchant Marine academy, the Military academy and the Naval academy. Langen said the test scores would aid him in making his Congressional selections to the academies for the classes starting in July of 1966.

Congressman Langen said that any young man is eligible if he is not less than 17 or over 22 years of age by next July, the time he would enter the academy. Those interested are urged to contact Congressman Langen's office at the earliest possible moment at 1112 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Langen said the examination consists of three tests, one on vocabulary and reading comprehension, one on spatial relations and the third on algebra. "The examination will not require any special preparation by candidates who have a good knowledge of high school algebra," Langen said. "And, of course, any candidate should be in good health."

ORIGIN OF SYPHILIS
Q. Where did syphilis originate?
A. No one knows for sure. The disease probably existed for thousands of years in both Europe and the New World. For some unknown reason a deadly form of syphilis spread with frightful speed through Europe shortly after the discovery of America. The germ which causes syphilis (called a spirochete) was then unknown, the general belief being that the disease was divine punishment for the lax morals of the time.
BENIGN vs. MALIGNANT
Q. What is the difference between benign and malignant growths?
A. The basic difference is that a benign growth does not spread or "metastasize" to other parts of the body. A malignant growth means cancer, which, if unchecked, may spread and cause serious trouble.
Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember,—the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.
Medicine and Pharmacy are two professions that work as one with one purpose — your good health! The Physician prescribes . . . the Pharmacist dispenses the health-restoring medicines.

The Library Corner

BY Virginia Gjernes

What'll YOU have. . .fiction, history, biography, philosophy, science, religion, language, useful arts, fine arts, travel, literature? You name it. You're library has it! If it isn't on the shelves, librarians will do their level best to obtain it for you from another library.

Books are rather like people, aren't they? Some, of either group, you love, some you like, some you only tolerate and some leave you cold. Some amaze you, some surprise you and some overwhelm you. There are those which puzzle you. Some make you ask "why", others. . ."what for?". . .

Here's a little about the new books on the shelves. Why not come in, borrow one or two or more and see into which category you place each? (People are not available for borrowing, those you'll have to find elsewhere!)

J. B. Priestley's new novel "Lost Empires" is an account of life in the Empire Theatres (English variety stage) during 1913-1914 . . . the years generally thought of as 'innocent.' There's a remarkable cast of characters. . . traveling "artistes" with one a murderer, one a beauty (slightly used) and a decaying comedian. This is a book which will enthrall the reader, providing the reader is aware of the factor known as "human nature". . .and that he (or she) realizes that every person doesn't lead a. . .ah. . .shall we say "sheltered live"?

"A story whose truth no man can ignore and few women will dare acknowledge" is the description which best suits "The Honey Badger", a novel from the typewriter (and the mind) of one Robert Ruark, an author familiar to all. This fascinating volume is about a man, Alec Barr, his work as a writer. . .and his women! Not exactly a juvenile book.

Something a little different in the fiction field is "The Virgin of San Gil" the first completed novel of short story writer Paul Olsen. This one delves deep inside the minds of men. The author, who divides his time between writing and clinical phychology, is a powerful young author who knows his subject well.

Care to take an adventurous 20,000 mile journey through the North American winter (before it actually arrives!) Then read Edwin Way Teale's "Wandering Through Winter". There are 49 photographs to aid you in your travels from below San Diego to the extreme northeastern corner of the country. Your guide is one of the foremost writer—photographer-naturalists around these days. There are several other travel books in the library by this same author. . .perhaps you've read them.

There is already a waiting list for the latest Mary Stewart effort, entitled "Airs Above the Ground", so those who haven't yet requested it write, phone or better yet, come in and put your name on the list. While you're waiting for this novel with its London-Austrian backdrop and its intrigue and its suspense, there are a couple of other new ones you might want to try.

One is Niven Busch's "The Gentleman from California". This fantasy about Clayton H. Belshaw, a three-time Republican Senator, is a political novel that is exciting and impressive. The author's technique is excellent (always is!) and he appears to be well informed about this particular subject.

Have you read Dale Evens Rogers "Dearest Debbie"? You'll shed a few tears but you'll have a much warmer heart when you close the cover.

Biography devotees will whisk "Mrs. Jack" from off the shelf . . . pronto. This real-life heroine, Isabella Stewart Gardner, kept staid Boston agog but her husband by her side, even though society columnists issued sly innuendos and reams of misinformation.

These are just afew of the volumes and volumes and volumes on the shelves of your library. Read one, read two, read many. . .the important thing is to remember that Thief River Falls, your city, does have a public library for your enjoyment and education. Be sure and use it, because you are fortunate indeed. . . some of your near-by neighbors haven't the use of a library. They wish they did!

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Few people are aware how greatly their health can be affected by a small group of plants called fungi. Fungi, explains the Minnesota State Medical association, are different from ordinary growing things in that they lack chlorophyll, they cannot manufacture their own food and they must live on parasites or saprophytes on other organisms.

Athlete's Foot is one of the commonest forms of infection caused by fungi and ordinarily its growth begins on the skin between the toes. However, the infection may spread to other parts of the body. An area of itching, blistered skin, sometimes with deep cracks, make it fairly simple to recognize Athlete's Foot.

Since the body's protective skin covering is broken by the Athlete's Foot infection, additional germs which cause boils, carbuncles and sore throats can easily invade the body. Some species of fungi may cause generalized skin sensitivities and a marked allergic reaction which has the same appearance of the original infection.

Ringworm of the body, which is not really a worm at all, is one other form of fungus infection and can be recognized as an area of diseased skin with a healing scaley center and a blistered, sometimes pus-filled border. Children are most frequently affected by ringworm of the scalp. This highly infectious disease can be recognized by patches of hair falling out, or the breaking off of hair and the appearance of spots of various sizes and shapes which may appear as scaley areas or weeping sores. Children generally resist Athlete's Foot infections but are highly susceptible to ringworm infections. Adults are just the opposite. They are resistant to scalp ringworm but easily contract infections of the feet, nails and skin.

Prevention of fungus infections is easier than cure. Use plenty of soap and water; and don't forget to dry well between your toes with the towel. Keep your feet clean and dry with frequent changes of socks. Don't wear someone else's shoes, socks, hat or cap. And if a suspicious area of infection shows up on your skin, see your doctor about it.

There are several excellent medicines, in the form of ointments and solutions, which can be used to treat fungus infections, but they have to be fitted to the individual case by a physician, concludes the association.

The food in your life makes a difference in the way you feel, the way you look and in the way you approach daily living.

The well-nourished individual usually fights off colds, other infections and certain other illnesses better than one who is poorly nourished, says the Minnesota State Medical association.

Scientists have learned that everyone, young or old, needs a steady supply of approximately 40 nutrients. Among them are minerals and vitamins to keep the body functioning well, protein to build, repair and regulate cells and carbohydrates and fats for energy and to preserve protein for its more important building and regulating activities. (Protein may be used as a source of energy when the diet does not supply enough carbohydrate or fat. If energy needs have been met, excess protein will be converted and stored as body fat.)

It is not difficult to obtain nutrients needed if the types of foods listed below are eaten daily in the amounts suggested by the state physicians' group.

Vegetable-fruit group: Four or more servings. Include a citrus or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C; a dark-green or deep-yellow vegetable at least every other day for vitamin A; other vegetables and fruits, including potatoes.

Meat group: Two or more servings. Beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish and eggs. Alternatives or substitutes: dry beans, dry peas and nuts.

Bread-cereal group: Four or more servings. Whole grain, enriched or restored.

Milk group: Some milk for everyone; children, three to four cups; teenagers, four or more cups; adults, two or more cups.

The food groups listed in this guide are counted on to furnish a large part of the daily allowance for one or more key nutrients: Vitamins A and C from fruits and vegetables; iron and B vitamins from enriched or whole grain bread or cereal; protein from meat, fish, poultry, eggs, dried peas or beans; calcium and riboflavin from milk and cheese.

How to use a food guide: Choose at least the minimum number of servings from each of the four food groups, and more of these or other foods—butter, oils, sugar, for example—as you need them meals or attaining ideal weight. (Let your mirror and scales be your guide).

Council Awards Contracts For New Library Building

Sealed bids for construction of a new public library in Thief River Falls were opened Tuesday afternoon by the city council. At a special session Tuesday night, the council awarded contracts to three low bidders with the contract total of $160,021 being almost $11,000 below the $171,000 estimate.

General contractor will be the firm of Deal L. Wichter, Inc., Minneapolis, who submitted the low bid of two bidders in the amount of $108,687. Electrical contractor will be Gene Holmes of Fergus Falls, whose low bid among five amounted to $13,803. Mechanical contractor is the Lee Plumbing & Heating company of Thief River Falls who submitted the lower of two bids at $37,531.

Wichter informed the council of his intention to have the new building ready for occupancy within 150 working days. Completion date specified by the Holmes and Lee firms is June 1, 1966. The council has informed the Thief River Falls junior college that the college will be given first choice for use of the old library building after the new one is completed.

The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission has scheduled hearings in Thief River Falls concerning the necessity of additional safety features at the Eighth street and First street railroad crossings. The council had earlier petitioned the commission to investigate the crossings and determine the need for warning signals following several recent car-train collisions at the crossings.

The hearings will be held in the council chamber on November 5. The First street crossing will be discussed starting at 9 a.m.; the Eighth street crossing at 1:30 p.m. Commissoners attending will be Paul Rasmussen, chairman, Hjalmar Petersen and Ronald L. Anderson. The order was signed by R. J. Nergaard, secretary.

10 YEARS of education and work experience did not dampen the enthusiasm of Kiyoshi Tanabe to return to Thief River Falls where he was an AFS student at Lincoln high school. After completing a year of study at the University of Liverpool in England on a Rotary Foundation scholarship, he stopped in the United States on the return trip to his native Japan. While here he stayed at the Roy Barzen home and spoke to a high school assembly and the local Rotary club.

First AFS Student Returns for Visit

"There is a fountain in Rome where a person may throw coins and make a wish. I made a wish, and now it has come true. I am again in Thief River Falls."

These were the words of Kiyoshi Tanabe, former American Field Service exchange student here, in addressing the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday noon. The first AFS student in this city, Kiyoshi attended Lincoln high school 10 years ag before returning to Toyko, Japan, to continue his study.

Last year he was granted a Rotary Foundation Fellowship to study at the University of Liverpool in England. He selected England because it is about half way around the world from Japan, and he hoped to stop in the United States and Thief River Falls on his return trip. The wish he made in Rome enroute to England came true last week.

Upon receiving his masters degree from Tokyo University, and after working on engine maintenance, Kiyoshi went to work for one of the three largest ship-building companies in Japan. His study at Liverpool was designed to further his knowledge of gas turbine engines used to power commercial transport vehicles.

When he was an exchange student here, Kiyoshi made his home with the Roy Barzen family, and it was at the Barzens that he stayed during his return visit here. In addition to speaking to he Rotary club, he spoke to an assembly of students at Lincoln high school.

Kiyoshi told the Rotary club Monday that he was happy the Twins had won the American League pennant. "Something like this happens every time I come here," he said. "When I was a student here, Lincoln high school won the state hockey championship."

Also showing his affection for the United States and particularly Thief River Falls, Kiyoshi noted that he had joined an AFS committee in Japan. In the second year after he returned there were eight United States youths who spent the summer in Japan as summer exchange students.

By the time Kiyoshi returns to Japan following this trip, he will have traveled around the world and logged nearly 20,000 miles. "I hope some time again to return to Thief River Falls," he said in closing his talk to the Rotary club. He was presented with a Thief River Falls Rotary club flag to bring to the Rotary club in Tokyo.

A special guest at the Monday meeting of the Rotary club was Napapun Sallasuta, exchange student from Bangkok, Thailand, who is attending Lincoln high school this year. Speaking briefly at the meeting was Charles White, dean of the junior college here.

Housing for Aged To Be Topic of Crookston Meet

Housing for the elderly will be the topic for an area meeting scheduled for Crookston on October 18. The meeting will be held in the Methodist church starting at 1 p.m.

Representatives from several different agencies which provide financial backing for housing for the elderly will join Mrs. Walter Walker, chairman of the Governor's Citizens Council on Aging, in explaining what these programs are.

"Adequate housing at a reasonable cost is becoming a critical issue for many o fMinnesota's senior citizens", says Mrs. Walker. "This was clearly indicated at the hearings which were held in our state last fall. We hope meetings like this will help communities find answers to housing problems. Many Minnesotans are not aware of the type of loans that are available, nor of what a local community must do to develop housing for older people.

"Many people think that only large metropolitan areas can develop public housing for the elderly, while in fact, some programs under the Farmers Home administration are limited to towns of under 5000 population. Grove City, a town of 500 in central Minnesota, has already built a good sized apartment building for the elderly under this program."

County and city officials from this area are all being invited to the meeting, but it will be open to the public and any person who is interested in the establishment of housing for older persons is welcome to attend.

ASCS To Explain Many Programs

News media of the area have been invited to attend an informational meeting on the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee to be held Friday at the Eagles hall in Crookston. Ben M. Wichterman, Plummer, chairman of the state ASCS committee, will preside at the session.

Speakers will include Russell A. Johnson and Harold M. Lang, state ASC committee members; C. Urban Ewing, state executive director; Marlen J. Biever, M. L. Hendrickson, E. R. Van Sickle, Harold L. Walz and Merle Avery, program specialists.

Weather To Stay Wet and Cloudy Forecast Says

Northern Minnesota weather is generally known for its changeability, but lately it has been highly monotonous, and will continue thus for the next couple of days. Forecast calls for cloudy skies with occational rain and drizzle today and tonight. Skies will be partly cloudy to cloudy tomorrow with rain expected to end tomorrow afternoon. No important temperature change is expected. High today is predicted at 45; lows tonight will range from 32 to 42.

North Central Airlines recorded the following temperature and precipitation figures: 45, 33 and a trace on Monday; 45, 37 and .08 inch on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 37.

Masonic School Of Instruction Set Here Tonight

A Masonic school of instruction will be held in Thief River Falls tonight at the Masonic temple. The proceedings will get under way at 7:30 p.m., with Northern Lodge No. 236 as host, and will be concerned with the entered apprentice degree.

Howard Butler, board custodian for Region Eight, for the Grand Lodge will be present from East Grand Forks, and will be in charge of the instruction of the school.

Similar schools of instruction will follow at Hallock, October 8, on the fellowcraft degree, and at Warren, on October 12, on the master Masons degree. Masons from all the designated towns of the area will interchange participation in all the schools and host towns will serve lunch. Howard M. Brandt, Worshipful Master of Northern lodge, will serve as host and general coordinator of the local program.

U of M Alumni Meet Tuesday To Plan Activities

Officers and directors of the Thief River Falls chapter of the University of Minnesota Alumni association met at the Rex Cafe Tuesday with C. S. Tomczyk, assistant director of the Minnesota Alumni association.

In addition to other activities the Pennington county chapter holds an annual meeting at which time a prominent faculty member from the university is the speaker. At the local group's past annual meeting, Prof. Charles Hanna of the University of Minnesota at Morris was the guest speaker.

Plans were made for the annual meeting to be held in January in conjunction with the election of new chapter officers. The present officers are:

Peter M. Probasco, president; Fred A. Sorenson, vice president; and Mrs. Wendell Olson, secretary-treasurer. Directors are Dr. Edward T. Nelson, Curtis Charlson and Dr. Donald R. Goodrich.

"our purpose," says Probasco, "is to promote the welfare of the university; to cooperate in support and development of educational opportunities of our communities; to encourage good fellowship and a bond of interest among Minnesota alumni."

All alumni, parents of students now attending the school and friends of the university are invited to participate in chapter activities.

General Retail Meeting Slated Tuesday Morning

To be held Saturday, October 23, the tour will include a stop at Lancaster for highway dedication ceremonies, a social evening and dinner in Winnipeg and attendance at the Winnipeg Blue Bomber football game.

Town and Country Days will include an educational program on market livestock, a beef barbecue, consignor's banquet and Top of the Nation Dairy sale. The dairy sale, with 20 high quality cattle consigned, will be held at the livestock pavilion at the Pennington county fairgrounds on Thursday, October 14.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

Chuck Fahlberg of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

CANDIDATES for Lincoln high school Homecoming Queen for 1965, apparently too eager to wait for the Prowlers to "De-Centralize Central," held a scrimmage of their own on the auditorium stage Monday afternoon. Quarterback Tami Steen was "snapped" as she received the ball from Center Susie Lee. Before she could be tackled by Nancy Suam, Tami ran the full 100-yard length of the stage to score a touchdown. At present, no one knows which of the three evenly-matched girls will "score" in the Queen contest. The winner will be crowned by Prowler football captain Gary Olson during the annual Homecoming assembly Tuesday at 2:30 p.m., which will include a talent contest of 10 minute presentations by each class. A board of teachers will judge the talent numbers.

1965 Homecoming Set At Lincoln This Week

"De-Centralize Central" (meaning the Grand Forks Central Redskins) is the Prowler battle cry for Lincoln high school homecoming, 1965. Festivities will begin at 2:30 p. m. Thursday when the student body will meet in the school auditorium for the annual homecoming assembly, at which the results of the queen election will be announced.

Seniors girls competing for the title of 1965 homecoming queen are Tami Steen, Nancy Quam and Susan Lee. The queen will be crowned at the assembly by Prowler football captain Gary Olson. Her attendants will be Jackie Wells and Debby Halvorson of the sophomore class and Julie Oen and Susan Bendickson of the junior class.

Also taking place at the assembly will be a talent contest with each of the three classes presenting 10-minute talent numbers to be judged by a panel of teachers. The traditional snake dance through the downtown streets and bonefire at the fairgrounds will be held at 7 p. m. Thursday. Cheerleaders and the pep band will lead the pep fest.

A pep rally will be held at 3 p. m. Friday in the school gymnasium. Cheers and skits will be presented and Coach Bill Herzog will introduce the team. Cheerleaders are Mary Walsberg, Lorray Owen, Sheryl Mousley, Lynnette Langlie and Nancy Flynn.

Highlight of the two-day event will be the football game with the Grand Forks Central Redskins. Kickoff time is slated for 7:3 p.m. Friday. The queen and her attendants will be driven around the field in a short parade during the half-time.

"Moments to Remember" will be the theme of the annual homecoming dance to be held in the school cafeteria after the game. Music will be provided by James Solsten's dance band.

Homecoming festivities are under the general directorship of Mark Stromberg, president, and Steve Furnseth, vice president, of the student council. Cathy Wysoski, senior member of the council, is in charge of the coronation.

Phases of the event are divided among the three classes, with the student council members making up each committe. Bonfire and snake dance and field decoration will be handled by the juniors, coronation and parade by the seniors and button sales and dance by the sophomores. Advertising and the queen election are joint efforts by the classes.

Senior members of the student council are Lynn Egenes, Joel Fuller, Susan Lee, Elaine Mortenson and Tami Steen. Junior mem-

K. Brandt Named 4-H Boy of Week

Kim Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard [illegible] of rt. 1, Thief River Falls, was chosen 4-H Boy of the Week on Herbert Boyer's farm show on a Grand Forks radio station on Saturday. He was interviewed at 7:30 a. m. and was heard later at 12:10 p. m.

375 Attend School Teacher Reception

Approximately 375 school faculty members, representatives of the business community and their spouses attended the teacher reception held Monday evening at Lincoln senior high school. The event was sponsored by the education committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Following pre-program music by the Lincoln high school orchestra under the direction of James Solsten, Dr. O. D. Belch opened the program as master of ceremonies. The orchestra also played two numbers on the program.

J. J. Wornack, president of the Chamber of Commerce, delivered the welcome with the response being given by M. R. Hankerson, superintendent of schools, and Charles White, dean of the new junior college. Supt. Hankerson commented on the fact that education is the biggest single business in the United States today and that here are 55 million children in schools through high school in the nation.

Dean White noted that the junior college is here to stay and that there are 160 students enrolled in the freshman program. He expressed appreciation to those who had assisted in establishment of the college prior to his selection as dean and to local school officials for cooperation in establishing the school in the Lincoln school building.

Musical entertainment was provided by "The Educators", a vocal and instrumental trio from East Grand Forks.

Main speaker for the program was Dr. Rodney A. Briggs, dean of the University of Minnesota at Morris, speaking on the theme, "Crossroads 1965". He told of his experiences and the positive attitude of his parents toward education. Comment was also made on his trip to Africa last year.

The educational level in the United States has changed drastically over the years, he said, to the point where one year of college experience is now average for all students in school. America has

Haugen-Dyrseth Vows Spoken At Telemarken

Miss Dorothy Haugen of Mankato and Gerald Dyrseth of Richfield exchanged marriage vows Saturday, August 28, at 7:30 p. m., at the Telemarken Lutheran church near Goodridge. The Rev. Leland Steen officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by 250 guests. Nuptial music provided by the organist, Mrs. Ethel Sanders of Thief River Falls, included, "Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus" by Wagner. Elmer Simon of Altura, a cousin of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love," "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Song of Ruth".

Baskets of gladioli graced the chancel of the church while white baby mums and foliage decorated the wrought iron candelabra and white candles that marked the pews.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Haugen of Goodridge and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dyrseth of Grygla.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white silk shantun, styled with a round neckline and short sleeves. The gown, fashioned by the mother of the bride, was enhanced by crocheted motifs and seed pearls encircling the hemline with matching motifs at the waistline securing the full circular train. Vennes Consigns Top Cattle to Dairy Sale Here pounds as a two-year-old, 696 pounds as a three-year-old, 578 pounds as a four-year-old and 639 pounds as a five-year-old for a total of 3,084 pounds of butterfat in five years of production.

Vennes operates a 400-acre farm northwest of Fosston, raising all his own cattle feed with the exception of concentrates and some corn. His milking herd is fed green chop alfalfa and orchard grass in the feed lot and never is pastured. About 130 acres of hay are grown each year while dry cows and young stock have about 70 acres of pasture with an additional 80 acres of pasture rented. Vennes annually uses about 33 acres of corn for silage and 65 acres of grain.

In addition to production, the Vennes herd has some good type Holsteins. One of the Vennes daughters had a 4-H club project calf from the herd which was a first place animal in a class of 89 at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls. It was also top calf and reserve grand champion dairy animal at the East Polk county fair in Fosston and placed fifth in the purebred calf division at the Minnesota state fair.

The Vennes barn is 36 x 84 and he has a 16 x 33 silo. The barn is equipped with a barn cleaner and a bulk tank is used in the Grade A operation. A large section of one wall of the milk house is covered with herd average certificates from The Farmer magazine, showing the increase in herd average during Vennes' 14 years in DHIA testing.

Animals Consigned

One of the two cattle consigned to the Top of the Nation sale this year from the Vennes herd is a four-year-old cow with production records of 11,650 pounds of milk and 479 pounds of fat as a two-year-old and 14,380 pounds of milk and 562 pounds of fat with 3.9 test as a three-year-old. She is bred to Pawnee Farm Reflection Supreme and due to freshen October 19.

The dam of this cow has had six heifer calves in four years, produced 478 pounds of butterfat as a two-year-old and last year produced 13,070 pounds of milk and 521 pounds of fat in her fourth lactation. In 176 days of the current lactation, she has produced 9,280 pounds of milk and 358 pounds of fat.

The bull to which the cow consigned is bred is out of an outstanding dam—Pawnee Farm Man-O-War Arlene—classified excellent at 91. She has the fantastic production records of 23,900 pounds of milk and 1,009 pounds of fat; 27,568 pounds of milk and 1,104 pounds of fat; 23,291 pounds of milk and 957 pounds of fat; and 26,608 pounds of milk and 1,074 pounds of fat. These records exceed those of her herdmates by 10,547 pounds of milk and 331 pounds of fat.

The other animal consigned is a springing heifer bred January 23 to Osborndale Sir Fobes Ivanhoe, a gold medal sire classified very good. She is sired by Pabst Leader Comre, an excellent gold medal sire, who has 103 daughters averaging 13,014 pounds of milk and 516 pounds of butterfat. She is the product of five generations of artificial insemination.

The dam of this heifer is a daughter of Wisconsin Masterpiece, an excellent gold medal sire, and has production records of 11,900 pounds of milk and 467 pounds of fat as a two-year-old and 12,360 pounds of milk and 478 pounds of fat in her second lactation. This year in 236 days she has produced 11,330 pounds of milk and 406 pounds of fat.

Mr. and Mrs. Vennes have two daughters, Mrs. Gene (Sherryl) Gunderson of Minneapolis and Karen, 16, at home; and one son, Lynn, Minneapolis.

Regional Welfare Conference Set At Ada Church

"Homemakers service will be one of the topics discussed at the annual conference of Region 3 of the Minnesota Welfare association to be held in Ada at Grace Lutheran church October 6," according to Ronald Mooers, executive secretary of the Pennington county welfare board. It will begin with registration and coffee at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Mary Pettee, homemaker consultant of the Minnesota Department of Public Welfare, will be the speaker. A delegation representing the Pennington county welfare board and staff is expected to attend.

The purpose of homemakers service in the county welfare departments is to "keep the family together in time of crisis", Mrs. Pettee said. "Very often, when the mother has to be hospitalized, the county welfare department will be called upon to place the child in foster care. A homemaker can act as a subsitite for the mother and keep the family together in familiar surroundings.

Homemakers service an assist a mother to learn new skills in child rearing or homemaking or help a handicapped mother learn to care for her family.

"The public is invited to hear and ask questions of Mrs. Pettee, or any of the other speakers at the conference," Mooers said. The other topics under discussion at the conference will be "How Welfare Is An Asset To Our Communities" and "Adoption In Our State Today".

County Bond Sale Totals $99,352

Sales of savings bonds in Minnesota continue to show a steady rise. During the month of August sales of Series E and H savings bonds rose by 4.7 per cent over last year. Total sales amounted to $5,932,639. The state is still the leader in quota sales in the eight-state Midwest region.

J. M. Roche, Pennington county chairman, reports that E and H savings bonds in August in Pennington county amounted to $23,490 for total sales to date of $99,352 or 64.9 per cent of the county's goal for 1965 of $153,000.

put a priority on education, he said and this priority has resulted in advancement such as no other nation has ever known.

"I don't think we can keep up with the knowledge which will accumulate in the future," Dr. Briggs said. "Knowledge doubles every 10 years at the current rate, and we will soon reach a point where it will be impossible for a student to absorb all the knowledge that is available."

As an example, Dr. Briggs said that a given 100 units of knowledge in 1945 would have become 200 units in 1955 and 400 units in 1965. This would expand to 800 units in 1975 and 1,600 units in 1985. The population of the United States is growing by 80,000 people every week.

We must take care of our young people by providing them with the opportunity for an education, the speaker said. How do we get the classrooms, how do we get the teachers and where will we get the food to care for this tremendous increase? We must recognize change and move to meet the challenge, he said.

Following the program in the school auditorium a buffet luncheon was served in the school cafeteria with Mrs. R. J. Dryden in charge of the buffet arrangements.

PKM To Reduce Electric Rates For Second Time

PKM Electric cooperative in Warren has announced its second major rate reduction effective on October 20 with the change expected to save patrons approximately $40,000 during the first year it is in effect. All users of single-phase service (about 99.5 per cent of all PKM users) will benefit from the lower rates.

"Lower wholesale power costs and increased usage of electricity by PKM members are the twin factors that made it possible for the board of directors to reduce rates for a second time within a two-year span," stated Victor Edman, Alvarado, PKM president.

Members of the cooperative have been asked to destroy their old rate cards as soon as new ones are received to avoid errors in the preparation of future monthly payments.

Twelve student council members and seven junior high class officers from Newfolden high school attended the annual convention of the Northern Division Minnesota Association of Student Councils, held at Roseau high school Saturday. At a general assembly of the convention, Bagley was chosen as the site for the 1966 convention and each council presented a short skit.

Schools represented at the convention were: Bagley, Bemidji, Blackduck, Indus, Kelliher, Newfolden, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Warren and Warroad.

Widow's Income Has No Bearing On VA Payments

Veterans Administration center at Ft. Snelling says that a widow's income has no bearing on her eligibility for dependency and indemnity compensation payments if her veteran husband died of a condition attributable to service.

John Murphy, center manager, said that income limitations do apply to VA death pension. "This is an entirely different benefit," he said.

Murphy said the VA death pension may be paid the widow of a war-time veteran who died of a condition not attributable to service.

Coach Les Dreschel's Ada Vikings leaped a high hurdle in the defense of their Pine-to-Prairie title on Friday night when, on the Ada field, they defeated a favored Warren Ponies squad, 20 to 6. The Warren Ponies, coached by Howard Emerson, and led by high-scoring half-back Peter Gilbert, entered the contest undefeated.

In the three conference games that Warren has played, including Friday's tilt, Gilbert has scored nine touchdowns and one conversion point, and holds a 22-point lead over Ada's Ken Pierce in the individual scoring race.

This week the Ada Vikings will play at Mahnomen. The Indians tallied a 24 to 0 win over the Fosston Greyhounds last week. The Warren Ponies, in a homecoming game, will meet the Crookston Central Pirates of the Northwest conference at Warren on Saturday night.

SQUEEZED after a short gain up the middle on a quarterback sneak is Tom Cummings of the Prowlers. Finding the yardage tough to get on the ground, Cumings passed for two touchdowns during the game, hitting end Rod Carlson twice on scoring plays. Making the stop for East Grand Forks on this play are Gary Bratvold (72), Myron Johnson (30) and Gordon Bubendorf (22). Prowlers who can be identified are Luke Kaushagen (23) and Monte LeMoine (21). LeMoine scored the second of three touchdowns for the Prowlers on a drive up the middle. The game ended in an 18-18 tie.

Goose Season in State Opens Sat.

Goose season in Minnesota will open Saturday at sunrise and remain open sunrise to sunset for 70 days through December 10. The only exceptions to the shooting hours will be Grant, Jackson and part of Big Stone counties where the shooting will be limited from sunrise to noon.

A confusing statement in the Monday edition of the Times indicated that hunting is also restricted to noon shooting in those counties lying east of U. S. Highway 59. This is in error, according to conservation department personnel, and a full day's shooting will be allowed in this area of the state throughout the season.

Limits on geese are five daily and five in possession, but the limit may not include more than two Canada geese or subspecies, two white-fronted geese or one of each. These limits are the same as 1964.

Kennedy Rockets Whip Newfolden Nordics Friday

Newfolden Nordics football team absorbed its third defeat of the season when downed 32 to 0 by the Kennedy Rockets on the home field Friday. Fumbles and blocked punts helped to defeat the Nordics as they could not maintain a sustained drive to score.

The first quarter was scoreless with Kennedy moving into Nordic territory as the quarter ended. With a couple of minutes gone in the second quarter, Gundstrom carried the ball over for the Rockets. Lundberg carried for the extra point, giving Kennedy a 7-0 lead. After receiving the ensuing kickoff, the Nordics were held to three yards and Leon Elseth's punt was blocked, picked up by the Rockets and carried into the end zone giving them a 13-0 lead. Later, a poor, partially blocked punt led to their third touchdown and the extra point to make a 20-0 first half score.

The Nordics picked up several first downs to begin the second half on the running of Leon Elseth and Jeff Merell but a fumble turned the ball over to the Rockets. After being held for sev- downs, the Rockets got a man behind the Newfolden defense and Peterson scored on a 35-yard pass play. The try for extra point was not good.

The Rockets scored their last touchdown in the fourth quarter when they picked up the ball on a fumble within the Nordic 25-yard line as a handoff was missed. This week the Nordics travel to Greenbush.

55,000 Boys and Girls Note 4-H Club Week

More than 55,000 Minnesota boys and girls are observing National 4-H Club Week which began Saturday and will continue through October 2.

They are among 2¼ million members of 94,800 4-H clubs throughout the 50 states and Puerto Rico who will make a special effort during the week to invite other young people between the ages of nine and 19 to participate in 4-H club work.

Joining Minnesota club members in the observance will be 12,500 men and women who serve in 2,077 clubs in the state as volunteers working as adult leaders, helping members with their projects and programs.

A special event marking the week in Minnesota will be the 4-H market livestock show today through Wednesday on the state fair grounds.

Exhibits showing 4-H project work and activities will be on display in store windows and other prominent places during National 4-H Week.

"Project work, actually the base of the 4-H educational program, is geared to meet the needs of county," says Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, commenting on changes that have taken place in the 4-H organization over the years. He points out that 17 per cent of the enrollment in Minnesota today is rural nonfarm and 12 per cent is urban.

Science is receiving increasing emphasis in nearly all 4-H projects, according to Harkness.

Favorite 4-H project is foods-nutrition, enrolling some 22,000 girls. Next in popularity are the livestock projects, including beef, dairy, sheep, swine, poultry, dog care, pleasure horse and rabbit. Clothing, home improvement-family living, shop, conservation, safety and gardening also have high enrollments. Entomology and photography are among the newer projects.

4-H is a part of the national educational system of cooperative extension work shared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the counties and the landgrant colleges—in this state, the University of Minnesota.

Captain Stephens Given Assignment To Viet Nam Post

Captain Stephens

Captain Grover (Blackie) Stephens was recently assigned to service in Viet Nam. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Stephens of St. Hilaire, he graduated from the St. Hilaire high school with the class of 1941. He married Madonna A. O'Hara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake O'Hara of Thief River Falls, and is a brother of Mrs. James (Teen) Berg of this city.

A military career came naturally to Captain Stephens, since he was born at Ft. Riley, Kansas, where his father was a cavalry sergeant. Following his graduation from high school he enlisted in the cavalry and emerged from World War II as a second lieutenant. Returning to his home community he became active in the local National Guard where he served until activated for the Korean War as a first lieutenant.

Prior to his transfer to Viet Nam, he served four and one-half years in the Panama Canal Zone, returning to the United States two years ago. He has a brother serving in the army in Germany and his daughter, the eldest of seven children, is taking a course in nurse's training that will qualify her to serve as a lieutenant in the Army Nurse corps.

In Viet Nam Captain Stephens has been assigned to the commander's staff.

TRF Bank Debits Rise 30 Per Cent

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during August were up 30 per cent for the same month a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. The city's bank debits volume during August was $10,760,000. In the same month of 1964 the total figure was $8,290,000. During the first eight months of 1965 bank debits amounted to $73,443,000, an increase of 9 per cent from 1964. The 12-month total through August showed an increase of 6 per cent from last year with a total of $114,481,000.

For Minnesota the August volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 20 per cent from August of last year. Debits for the first eight months of 1965 increased 10 per cent from the same period in 1964.

Volume of bank debits reported by the total sample of Ninth Federal Reserve district cities for August increased 17 per cent from a year ago. The cumulative total for the first eight months of 1965 indicated a 9 per cent increase from the comparable 1964 period.

Bank debits are mostly checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payments for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include transfers of funds which of themselves have no business significance. Bank debits mainly include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government and savings accounts.

October Is Deadliest Month for Traveling

Deadliest month of the year for travel is coming up, drivers are reminded by the Minnesota highway department. Accident records show that more people have died in traffic during October than any other month of the year. The reason generally given is the changes in weather conditions—changes that limit visibility and make roads icy.

In the past 10 years, 763 persons have been killed in traffic during October. The worst year was 1963, when 111 persons died in that one month. Last year, 82 persons were killed in October. (August is the next deadliest month, with 739 killed during the past 10 years.)

There are a few important points to keep in mind while driving this time of year, says the department. First, motorists do more driving during hours of darkness, and nighttime driving has proved to be more hazardous than daylight driving—so don't overdrive headlights. Drive 10 miles per hour below the daytime speed limit to be sure you can stop in an emergency within the distance your headlights cover.

Also, October brings periods of quickly falling temperatures—and frost or ice forms on the roads. Expect slippery spots to be there. Don't let one surprise you into a collision.

Finally, temperature changes also bring mist and fog. If you must drive when visibility is limited to only a short distance ahead, drive slowly, use low beam headlights and steer by the right edge of the road rather than the centerline.

Human Investment Act Introduced By Rep. Langen

"Private enterprise, when given the incentive, can conduct job training more effectively, more efficiently, and more dependably than can the government", said Congressman Odin Langen as he introduced a bill entitled the Human Investment Act of 1965. The bill would provide an employer with a seven per cent tax credit toward certain training or retraining expenses for employes and prospective employes.

"The bill would enable an employer to retain any of his employes who were about to be displaced by automation or mechanization," said Lange, "and it would enable him to train new employes for job skills needed within that particular industry."

Langen noted that a substantial amount of our present unemployment is not due to a lack of available jobs, but because a large portion of our manpower is untrained in the skills that are actually in serious demand at any given moment. "This bill would work hand in hand with the Manpower Development and Training Act," he said, "providing on-the-spot training in the industries where it is needed. The two programs would compliment themselves and would lead to greater utilization of our labor force. It is, indeed, a human investment."

"This intelligence-testing business reminds me of the way they used to weigh hogs in Texas. They would get a long plank, put it over a cross-bar, and somehow tie the hog on one end of the plank. They'd search all around till they found a stone that would balance the weight of the hog and they'd put that on the other end of the plank. Then they'd guess the weight of the stone."

Science at Work

One of the most costly of all animal diseases—mastitis—is the target of research and experiments being conducted by health authorities, research laboratories and the veterinary profession. Losses caused by the disease in lowered production, unsalable milk, medical treatment and extra time spent with problem cows is estimated to cost $20 per cow annually in the United States—literally millions of dollars annually.

The project will be a long-term one, because the disease is extremely complicated with four different micro-organisms causing the infection and manifesting themselves in three different degrees of virulence, according to the state veterinary association. Some are visible and some are not but all are harmful to milk production and all contaminate the milk, making it unmarketable.

There are certain steps which dairymen may take to help prevent mastitis, and there are some treatments which will help cure it. As it stands today, however, there is no one vaccine or antibiotic which will control all four types of the mastitis germ. Each type must first be accurately identified and correctly treated, and each procedure is different.

At present there are not enough clinical laboratories to conduct proper analysis on the problem. The Minnesota Mastitis council is laying the ground work for a better understanding of the problem and what must be done to eventually bring it under control. Dairymen must be made more aware of the need to combat this disease threat to their income.

In the meantime, veterinarians and all organizations concerned with the dangers of the disease are recommending certain fundamental procedures which all dairymen can follow to guard against the disease or prevent against its spread when detected. Generally, these procedures include systematic testing of each cow, systematic treatment of infected cows and preventive measures to ward of recurrence.

Control attempts definitely have their advantages. One Minnesota farmer was quoted as saying his herd average increased from 421 pounds to 521 pounds after setting up a control program, and he credited the program with at least one-third of the increase. He said the program costs about $10 per cow annually, but that ". . .we're getting at least a $25 to $30 per cow return on that investment."

We may be tempted to believe, when we think of science, that all scientific endeavors are directed toward space or conquering major human diseases. Here is a case where science is at work to control a disease which is an economic factor in virtually every dairy herd in the nation. In this dairy area, it is good to know that intensive work is being done on the problem.

Is It Necessary?

The more we hear about foreign aid dollars from the United States being squandered in other nations, the more we wonder how much this huge expenditure of funds is really necessary for our nation. Some of the money appropriated by Congress is well spent on worthy projects, we are sure, but waste and wanton spending are not unknowns in the foreign aid program by any means.

Congressman Odin Langen makes a big point when he says, "Foreign aid dollars have failed miserably in stopping the advance of communism in the world and have too often been used by the world's dictators as ammunition against the free world. I believe the American people agree that this foreign give-away should be completely revamped to eliminate rampant waste and to make sure that their money goes to those who really need and appreciate the assistance."

Administrators of the foreign aid program could testify for funds to build a loan bank in Guatemala, for instance, and then use the money to build a mountain resort in Brazil, Langen said. Congress and the American people have no way of stopping this foolish spending except to slash the funds available."

If we wish to look at it another way, foreign aid shows preferential treatment for foreign nations over the people of the United States. We all know to some extent how difficult it is to get government approval for local projects in the United States. A workable plan must be shown to Congress and reams of paper work completed before funds will be issued.

Not so with foreign interests and foreign aid people. "If they did have to come to Congress to justify their programs," Congressman Langen said, "we would see fewer roads that lead to nowhere, fewer TV sets sent to bush country where there are no transmitters or electricity, fewer hay balers to a country that doesn't raise hay and less eye shadow and bubble gum to Turkey."

If foreign aid is to be a tool of our foreign policy, more consideration should be given to the tool and its use. Joining with 13 other members of the House appropriations committee in presenting a minority view, Langen said:

"We believe that foreign assistance can be worthwhile, but we cannot subscribe to the present system. The focus of our foreign aid program should be upon responsive projects that use our abundance of food to feed the unfortunate peoples of the world where starvation is all too prevalent. Initiation of educational programs is needed to help the people of newly-emerging nations to better enable them to take their place in a continually more complex civilization."

The Winning Twins

Few were the people early in the 1965 baseball season who believed that the Minnesota Twins would lead the pack most of the way and win the American League pennant. These faithful few were rewarded, however, when the winning Twins clinched first place in the league Sunday with their 99th victory of the year.

The pennant-deciding game can almost be considered indicative of the things pennants are made of, since luck and breaks ride with a champion in spite of whatever skill may be involved. Jim Kaat pitched a good game for Minnesota, collecting 11 strikeouts and fanning the last two batters he faced in the game, but he did surrender eight hits to the losing Washington team.

On the other hand, Reichert of the Senators gave the Twins only three hits in his losing effort. Washington played errorless ball and the Twins made one fielding miscue which accounted for the Washington run. Out-hit and out-fielded, the Twins still managed a victory. This story was repeated a number of times during the season—it is the sort of thing that rides high in the saddle with a pennant-winner.

Holders of World Series tickets are now rejoicing. Thousands of other ticket applicants whose requests were not filled will be resigned to watch the series on television—thereby having a far better view than the successful applicants. Our only lament is that the games will be televised live, meaning that hundreds of thousands of fans will miss the action due to their jobs. An evening re-broadcast would draw a lot of interest from the working people.

And as long as we are talking baseball, we would like to add our personal tribute to the praise being accorded outfielder Tony Oliva and shortstop Zoilo Versalles. Oliva may well win his second successive batting championship while facing the top pitching in the league. Versalles has been an outstanding all-around performer and almost must win the Most Valuable Player award in the league.

The Twins can now relax for a few games while the National league contending teams wear one another down in battling for the flag. Upper midwest fans will have an even greater degree of interest in the World Series this year with the Twins in the midst of the fray.

And by the way, maybe manager Sam Mele should send a thank-you note to the Boston Red Sox. After all, the Twins scored nearly 20 per cent of their total wins against the Sox.

Fuel of Interest

"The patent system added the fuel of interest to the fire of genius." The words are Abraham Lincoln's. They eloquently describe a system which is almost as old as the nation itself—George Washington signed the first Patent Act in 1790—and which has been responsible for immeasurable benefits to humanity.

The more than three million patents which the office has granted run an incredible gamut, from such oddities as an automatic hat tipper to communications satellites. Some have been vastly successful, and many others fairly so. A great percentage of the whole have been commercial failures. But, whatever the particular case, the protection the patent offers the investor and discoverer is the essential spur that keeps men working and dreaming and searching for new and valuable divices of every conceivable kind.

Patent rights run for 17 years. Trademarks run for 20 years and are renewable. But, on occasion, efforts are made to reduce these periods. One recent proposal, for instance, would drastically cut the time span allowed on drug patents. The effect this would have on drug research and development is easliy estimated. Much of that research, inevitably, produces nothing of value, even though the cost is heavy in money, manpower and resources. The successful drug must pay the way for the failures. Should adequate patent protection ever be denied the drug industry, research and experiment would sadly suffer—and vast numbers of victims of illness would be the ultimate losers.

The "fuel of interest" that feeds "the fire of genius" must be maintained.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"There is subconscious agreement among the vast majority of Americans that the United States is not evolving toward socialism, but past socialism."

"If an animal does something they call it instinct. If we do exactly the same thing for the same reason they call it intelligence. I guess what they mean is that we all make mistakes, but intelligence enables us to do it on purpose." —Will Cuppy

The little vine-covered building with the mail order catalog may be remembered with nostalgia . . . but very few would exchange the comforts of today's modern bathroom for the old round washtub used on Saturday nights! Thanks to dependable rural electricity, running water, and hot water heaters have made modern bathrooms a part of today's farm living.

Government Costs in State Rise Twice as Fast as U.S. Average

Combined costs of state and local governments, per person, increased almost twice as fast in Minnesota in fiscal 1964 as in the nation as a whole, according to Harold T. Miller, research director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"The national average of spending by state and local governments increased $18.56 per person to a total of $362.20 in the 12-month period ended June 20, 1964," Miller said. "In Minnesota the increase was $31.55, to $406.27 per person."

Miller cited figures just released by the U. S. Department of Commerce in its publication, "Governmental Finances in 1963-1964," and compared per capita state and local spending here with the nation as a whole:

Expenditures	Minnesota Rank	Minnesota Amt.	U. S. Amt.
Public Education
Local Schools		$131.34	$106.61
Higher Education		35.65	28.87
Other Education		2.02	3.19
	14	169.01	138.67
Highways	17	75.46	60.96
Public Welfare	10	35.39	30.13
Health and Hospitals	12	28.99	25.66
Police and Fire	30	13.71	18.76
Sewers and other Sanitation	20	11.46	11.85
Interest on Debt	13	12.86	12.31
All Other	22	59.39	63.86
Rank and Totals	14	$406.27	$362.20

"The sharp jump in public spending in Minnesota came in the face of our failure to keep pace with the rest of the nation in the matter of personal income improvement," Miller said, citing the Commerce department's "Survey of Current Business" dated July, 1965.

"During 1964 personal income increased by an average of $43 per person in Minnesota, compared to a national average of $123. Minnesotans averaged $2,375 in personal income, while the national average was $2,566," Miller said.

"The increase in combined state and local public spending raised Minnesota's ranking from 17th to 14th highest in the nation, while the below-par improvement in personal income dropped us from 24th to 26th place in national ranking.

"The combination of higher public spending and lower personal incomes is pretty rough on the pocket books of Minnesota citizens.

"These latest federal government reports underscore the need for legislative action to bring about the tax reforms that will encourage industrial and commercial growth, provide more and better-paying jobs, and help share the tax costs of state and local governments."

Examination for NROTC Program Offered Dec. 11

Vice Admiral B. J. Semmes Jr., Chief of Naval personnel, announced today that the 20th annual national competitive examination for the regular Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps will be given December 11. Eligible high school seniors and graduates should submit their applications before November 19.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at the civilian college of his choice from among the 52 colleges with a regular NROTC unit. All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives a subsistence allowance of $50 per month for not more than four years.

During summers the students participate in training cruises as a midshipman. After successfully completing a baccalaureate level college course, he is commissioned in the regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a career officer with the Navy's modern fleets. Immediate challenging assignments to aviation, nuclear or submarine training offer varied career opportunities to those graduates who apply and qualify.

High school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th but not their 21st birthdays on June 30, 1966, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be interviewed and given a thorough medical examination early in 1966. From the number of qualified young men remaining in competition, about 1,600 will be selected to attend college next September to prepare for their Naval careers.

Application forms are available at high schools and the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Federal Office Building, Second and Washington avenues South, Minneapolis, Minn. 55401.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

Once this vine was just a seedling, struggling to survive. Now look at it! Each year it grows stronger and yields a greater harvest.

The Christian faith has grown and flourished like the vine. From the seeds of the early church, Christianity continues to spread its joyful message to people everywhere.

World-wide Communion Sunday is a day for Christians of every creed to meet in spirit at the Lord's Table. This annual event makes us deeply aware of our brotherhood within the Church whose truths we share.

Come and take part in this special service. Your prayers, and those of all Christians, will combine to strengthen the roots of God's vine throughout the world.

These Weekly Church Messages, now in their 11th year, Contributed to the Cause of the Church & Community by the Following: PROGRESSIVE INDIVIDUALS, BUSINESSES, & INDUSTRIES . . . THEY DESERVE YOUR CONTINUED SUPPORT!

To America with love... The 1966 Chrysler

Could be we're getting too emotional. But it isn't very often you get a chance to follow an all-time sales record year with a new Chrysler like this one.

Sure, our '65 was great. But the '66 is even better.

It looks better. Moves quicker. It's got a beautiful new front end and a very dramatic new rear.

It's got a bigger and more zesty group of V-8 engines. From a 383 cubic incher to a 440 TNT with twin exhausts and twin snorkels. (A "snorkel" is an air intake horn for the carburetor — does great things for performance.)

The interiors, all up and down the line, are more luxurious and comforting. Take our new shell bucket seats, for example. It's almost as if they had been custom-fitted for you.

One thing we didn't even think about changing. It has to do with money. Five of our Newport models (real Chryslers — not junior editions) are priced just a few dollars a month more than the most popular smaller cars with the same equipment. This includes features like power steering, power brakes, a 383 cubic inch V-8, automatic transmission, radio and many standard items like safety door handles and seat belts.

Move up to Chrysler . . . it's getting easier by the minute.

Weather's September S . . .

For It's a Long, Long Time Since Sun in September

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

If a native of southeastern Alaska or the west coast of Canada had moved to Thief River Falls during September of 1965, he would have felt right at home. With a few exceptions, the sky was heavily overcast on every day of the month, and rain fell in measurable amounts on 17 days. This, coupled with temperatures far below normal, made the month the coldest and wettest September on record in this city.

The only weather phenomenon characteristic of summer was a violent electrical storm which occurred September 4. Early that morning, lightning bolts cracked with frightening closeness, and one of them set fire to a residence on Main av. N. The storm dropped 1.59 inches of rain at the airport.

The Labor Day weekend set the pattern of cold, wet weather which prevailed throughout the month. Temperatures normally reach the 80's on a few days in September, but the highest temperature recorded last month was 72 on September 2. Highs generally ranged in the 50's and 60's, and occasionally did not top the 40's. Lows were mostly in the 40's and 30's. Average high was 57.6; average low 38.5.

Mean temperature for the month was an even 48 degrees — 7.1 degrees below the normal September mean. It was also the lowest September mean temperature on record, the runner-up being 54.6 for September of 1959. The first killing frost of the season occurred Sunday morning, September 26, when a low of 19 degrees was recorded at the airport. This mark set a new record low for the month of September.

Most significant feature of the September weather picture, particularly from the viewpoint of farmers with an oversupply of topsoil moisture, was the extremely heavy rainfall. The total precipitation figure of 6.47 inches is nearly double the average September total. The rain was accumulated mostly from days of continuous light rain and drizzle, which brought harvest operations in this area to a standstill. Only during the three-day periods from September 1 to 3 and 18 to 20 was there more than one successive day without rain.

In the nearby city of Grand Forks, where weather records at the University of North Dakota date back to 1890, the records show the past month to be the second wettest September on record in that city. The UND weather station recorded a precipitation total of 6.35 inches, second only to the 7.54 inches which fell in 1954's ninth month.

A daily record of September weather conditions is shown in the list of observations taken by North Central Airlines personnel at the BLACK ANGUS cattle, despite their outwardly soft appearance, offer a lot of resistance to automobiles that strike them at highway speeds. Pictured above is a car which sustained such a collision Tuesday night. At about 10:15 p.m. the car, driven by Gordon Collin of Newfolden, was traveling north on Highway 59 and struck two black angus cows and a calf owned by Alfred Solem of rt. 2, Thief River Falls. Both cows were killed but the calf survived the mishap. Collin, who was alone, was not injured. Damage to the car's front end is estimated at $350.

Richard A. Peterson

Richard Peterson Joins Wurst in Law Firm Here

Richard A. Peterson, a native of Willmar and graduate of the University of Minnesota law school, will be associated with Robert A. Wurst in his law practice in Thief River Falls following swearing-in ceremonies October 13 in St. Paul.

Peterson will be admitted to the Minnesota bar at the swearing-in ceremony in the Supreme Court chambers at the state capitol in St. Paul October 13. He and his wife, the former Leah Shuberg of Minneapolis, are now making their home in Thief River Falls.

While in school Peterson was an officer at Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and participated in intramural athletics. He was also on the dean's list through law school. Since his arrival here he has joined the Jaycees and Thief River Golf club, playing in two golf tournaments, was a member of the Hamm's softball team and is manager and coach of a touch football team. His wife is a member of the local Newcomer's club.

Drotts Appointed Memorial Chm. For Heart Fund

Dr. Dwayne Davidson, Pennington County Heart Fund chairman, has announced that David Drotts has accepted the appointment as Pennington County Heart Fund memorial chairman.

The Minnesota Heart association memorial program provides a means for sympathetic acknowledgment or remembrance of loved ones while, at the same time, giving for the living. A memorial gift is simply a gift that is sent in remembrance of a friend, relative or a loved one. The full amount of a memorial gift is used in the search for causes and cures of heart disease. 4 LHS Students Commended for High Performance

Four students at Lincoln senior high school have been honored with letters of commendation for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test (NMSQT) given last spring. They are among 38,000 students across the nation recognized for scoring in the top two per cent of students who will complete high school in 1966. The comended students rank just below the 14,000 semifinalists announced last month.

Richard Eflund, senior high school principal, has announced that the comended students are: Emily Hoel, Linda Reeve, Mark Stromberg and Alyce Weckwerth.

John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship corporation, said, "These students are being recognized for their outstanding performance on the qualifying test. Theirs is a notable academic achievement.

"In a rigorous competition like the merit program, it is unavoidable that many fine students will miss being named semifinalists by a narrow margin. Nevertheless, the student in this situation is very capable and deserves generous recognition for his distinguished effort."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white crystalette styled with a long detachable train. The gown, designed and fashioned by the bride, featured a molded bodice, lighted scooped neckline, long tapered sleeves that buttoned at the wrist and a controlled skirt that was slightly gathered at the waistline. The three-tiered silk illusion veil fell from a crown enhanced with seed pearls and she carried a bridal bouquet of three large white mums and yellow roses.

Medical Mirror

INTRAUTERINE CRY

Q. Is it possible for an unborn child to cry?

A. Yes, even though the lungs of the unborn child are not inflated. Only a small amount of air is necessary, for the same air will pass repeatedly over the vocal cords to produce sound. The phenomenon, mentioned in most obstetrical textbooks, has been known for well over 2000 years. In Livy's "History of Rome" a case is recorded which occurred in Italy during the crucial days of the Punic War in 214 B.C.

SHAPING OF BEHAVIOR

Q. Do children who are unusually shy retain this characteristic as adults?

A. Not necessarily. There are many shy and reticent children who grow into ordinary, friendly adults. Character changes in adult life are not unusual and may be for better or worse. Charles II of France is one example. At 30 he experienced a complete change, from indolent and frivolous to energetic and serious. Adolph Hitler, in his middle 20's, was a mere corporal during the First World War. Thirty years later he had attained complete national and military power and was able to terrify even generals.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

When does a dream cease to be a dream? Silly question! We all know a dream ceases to be a dream when it becomes a reality, isn't that so?

Many years. . .in fact, many, many, many years the dream of the members of your library board of trustees, the staff and patrons have dreamed of the day a new library would be constructed. Now the dream is beyond the dream stage. . .it is fast becoming a reality. The plans are completed, the bids have been accepted and building will soon begin.

Many people have been involved in making this dream come true. The chain begins here, goes all the way to Washington, D.C., back to St. Paul and straight back to your city. The members of the city council and the board of trustees have worked closely and harmoniously together to bring to the citizens the most up-to-date, modern, convenient and eye-appealing structure possible.

There has been little doubt in the minds of the board and the council that such a structure was a necessity, not a luxury. There was only one fence they could not climb. . .the financial one. The Congress passed the Library Construction Act. Funds were made available through the library divisions of the individual state boards of education. This, then, provided the ladder needed to surmount the financial burden. The members of the city council were quick to act, and, presto. . .a dream becomes a reality!

The building housing the library services is inadequate. . .to put it mildly! Look at these figures for September, 1965: A total of 2,904 juvenile books were circulated; there were 3,275 adult books loaned. . .a combined total of 6,179 volumes checked out to borrowers. The attendance hit the 3,000 mark and there were approximately 1,000 reference volumes used on the premises.

Registrations, too, climbed to 107 new patrons. These figures for the one month alone show the necessity for larger library quarters.

When the new library is constructed there will be sufficient work area for the staff. There will be a general meeting room and ample study room for students. . .now, though it may seem difficult for some people to realize, there are actually after-school and evening hours when there simply are not enough chairs, or table work-space for the number of patrons desiring to use the facilities.

But dreams are dreams and reality is reality. . .and the books on the shelves are definatly a reality! Come in and see for yourself. Some of the newest include:

"Living by Faith" by the widely-read Faith Baldwin, author of over 80 books and reams of short fiction. The volume is filled with homespun philosophy. Men, women and the more adult teen-agers will thoroughly enjoy this tiny book so filled with beauty.

Max Wylie's "Career Girl, Watch Your Step!" is one volume which would be well worth the time of every girl about to leave for the wilds of a big city. . . and by every parent that is about to bid them adieu. There is much good, sound advice in this book. . . written by a man who gained wide knowledge from careful research after the brutal murder of his daughter.

"Meet the Future" by Edith Patterson Meyer is about people and ideas in the libraries of today and tomorrow. As you all know, and as the author states, "your future is surely in the library. . . for progress is always built on knowledge and experience and it is the library which preserves and makes available to you the record of that experience". (With our new library about to begin to be. . .this is a book every citizen should read.)

There are so many, many more . . .why not come in and choose your own! You need not wait, you know until the new one is completed!

Gilsrud and Heck Resign Marshall Extension Posts

Two resignations from the Marshall County Agricultural extension department staff were accepted by the county extension committee at a meeting September 14. Resigning were Mrs. Sharon Gilsrud, home agent, and Fred Heck, soil conservation agent.

Mrs. Gilsrud has served as home agent for two years. Her resignation was effective October 1. She will join her husband in Mankato where he has accepted a position on the staff of Mankato State college.

Heck's resignation became effective September 15. He has served as county soils conservation agent for 10 years. He has accepted a position with the extension service on the information and agricultural journalism staff at the University of Minnesota institute of agriculture in St. Paul. No replacements for the two have yet been made, according to Charles Nelson, extension agent.

The veteran population estimated at 2.4 million in 1960, nationwide, will decline to 17.8 million by 1980, the Veterans administration estimates.

Warmer Weather Is In Forecast

The first few days of October have been sunny and relatively warm—good news to the rain-plagued farmers if not to the opening weekend goose hunters. The warmth was not felt on Saturday, however, due to a bone-chilling northwesterly wind that gusted to 40 miles per hour. Area farmland has dried considerably during the past several days.

For the first time in weeks, the forecast presents a bright weather picture for the next couple of days. Mostly fair skies with occasional cloudiness is predicted, along with slightly warmer temperatures. Highs today will range from 58 to 65; lows tonight from 35 to 45.

North Central Airlines recorded the following temperature and precipitation observations since Wednesday at the municipal airport: 45, 38 and .88 inch on Wednesday; 57, 37 and .11 inch on Thursday; 70 and 32 on Friday; 66 and 41 on Saturday; 51 and 28 on Sunday; and a low this morning of 27.

The veteran population in Florida will increase from 641,000 in 1960 to 891,000 in 1980 in 1980, according to Veterans administration estimates.

The veteran population in Arizona will increase from 560,000 in 1960 to 188,000 in 1980, according to the Veterans administration.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Three more so-called nations were admitted to membership in the United Nations organization recently. The smallest of the three is known as the Maldive Islands, a collection of 2,000 atolls sprinkled over a large area of ocean 420 miles south of Ceylon. The total population of this "nation" is estimated at 80,000. The total population of all three of the admitted nations would be less than that of Brooklyn. The representative from Maldive did not attend the admission ceremonies probably because of canoe trouble, according to Bruce Phillips, writing for the Southam News Service in the Winnipeg Tribune.

United Nations Secretary General U Thant recognized the absurdity of this kind of membership expansion by hinting in his report that while such members are quick to assert their privileges, sometimes they are in no position to exercise their responsibilities, and he suggested the Assembly take a fresh look at membership qualifications.

The secretary-general politely refrained from saying so out loud, but one of the big questions is that some states are so small (and the Maldiveans presumably qualify) that they cannot afford even the minimal levy charged by the United Nations for membership, let alone special assessments.

Canada's External Affairs Minister thinks the answer does not lie in restricted membership but rather in a system of weighted votes, giving to the larger nations, and the heavier contributors, greater voting power. He admits, however, that a solution probably is a long time off. He is of the opinion that a change will not come about until there has been a serious abuse of the voting procedure, and he has little hope for reform in the foreseeable future.

As I see it the United Nations organization does not have a bright future.

The District of Columbia is ruled by the federal government and is not a self-governing area. There is agitation now to give it home-rule. The city of Washington is predominantly Negro. It looks like that is going to give us another headache.

Law enforcement is a problem now and probably it always will be. More than 2,000 years ago Aristotle pointed out that laws will not be obeyed unless people acquire a habit of obeying them. Which prompts the Christian Science Monitor to point out that it is equally clear that anything which either encourages men to disregard law or diminishes men's respect for it strikes at the very heart of orderly, democratic and progressive living. This does not mean that all laws are either right or perfect. It does not mean that laws should not change and evolve. But it does mean that the security, health and progress of men and of nations lies in a respect for law and a willingness to obey it.

All of which makes sense, and the time to instill respect for law and a willingness to obey it is when our future citizens are still youngsters.

Canada is in the process of staging a national election, and prominent Canadians are unhappy because this event is going to be dragged out over a period of more than eight weeks. Expressing this point of view the Financial Post is hopeful that the time for holding a nation-wide election can be shortened. It states:

"Most voters as well as most candidates will hope this is the last marathon election campaign ever to afflict the Canadian electorate. The grind of eight weeks and six days will exhaust the political leaders and bore the public."

It expresses the hope that the new parliament should take steps to shorten the election period, maintaining that "five weeks is plenty of time for the election job."

Maybe we could pick up a few useful pointers on how to run elections from our Canadian neighbors. Here in our country elections drag out over many months with the primary run-offs coming first and then the stormy finals. The millions of dollars we waste in campaign spending could be made available for much more useful purposes, and probably accomplish far more good.

The Waseca Herald expresses concern about a Congressional grant of $1.1 million to President Johnson to find out why crime is increasing in America and suggests that the President's National Crime Commission make the Bobby Baker affair its first study project. I will second the motion.

The Odessa, Texas, American, is concerned about our debased currency. It says

"Guess what? Forty members of the House Banking Committee are prohibit the use of silver coins as collateral security for loans. In other words, money with an intrinsic value is not to be used as collateral. That means, money is not money! Shades of the French Revolution! We have here the height of something and we suspect the proper term might be, idiocy."

Our neighbors over in North Dakota seem to be a little uncertain as to just what the results of their recent referendum mean. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the voters did not approve what the legislature had enacted into tax laws. The voters made it quite clear that they don't want more taxes and they don't want the legislature to monkey around with existing tax laws. In brief the voters of North Dakota spanked the legislature with a one-sided vote of no confidence.

Our friends the West Germans gave the government of Chancellor Erhard a pat on the back in the recent election and that was a victory for our side. Under the leadership of Erhard West Germany has made good progress and has contributed a great deal to the stability of Europe and the world. It wasn't a noisy election either.

11-Cent Stamp Will Be Issued In Washington

A new 11-cent stamp, intended primarily for use on international surface mail, will be issued October 6 at Washington, D.C.

This horizontal stamp, designed by Thomas F. Naegele of New York City, shows a map of the world, in yellow, on which has been superimposed a series of curves in red, symbolic of a radio sine wave. Below, in black, is Morse Code spelling out "ITU" four times. To depict the world, the artist chose the Gall projection. Due to the arrangement of the colors it will be necessary to pass the sheets of stamps through the Giori presses twice, resulting in two plate numbers on each pane of 50. Initial printing order is 30 million.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington, D.C. 20013. Postage stamps and personal checks will not be accepted in payment of the new issue. The envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 11-cent ITU Stamp." Requests must be postmarked no later than Oct. 6, 1965.

Fire Prevention Week Seeks Safety in Home

"In spite of all that has been said and written on fire prevention and control, urban and rural home fires continue to occur all too frequently," states Claude C. Stubbe of the Minnesota Safety council.

"National Fire Prevention Week, October 4 through 9, is an excellent time to learn and understand the elements of fire prevention and control. Families should know what to do in case a fire breaks out and each member know his station and understand how to carry out his assignment."

He further says that good family fire protection and control requires organization, planning and practice. Such things as how to call the fire department and other assistance, evacuation of the building, placement of adequate approved fire extinguishers, knowledge of the use of extinguishers on gasoline, grease, propane gas, electrical and other fires should be a part of every family's fire prevention and control plan.

Stubbe pointed out that the following elements are important in an organized family fire prevention plan.

1. Select a person who can remain calm and proceed quickly for assignment of responsibility for notifying the fire department immediately upon discovery of fire, and obtaining other help that may be required.
2. Have escape routes planned for all members of the family, particularly those sleeping on second floors.
3. Establish definite place for all members of the family to assemble after escape or rescue from buildings.
4. Knowledge of proper use of approved fire extinguishers in the immediate control of fire until assistance arrives. Always call fire department before attempting any control measures.
5. Clearance of approaches to building and passageways of building so fire department equipment and personnel can reach fire without impediment.
6. Avoidance of smoke inhalation as all hot smokes carries deadly carbon monoxide gases.

Stubbe says that if these points are included in a family's fire prevention and control plan, many lives can be saved and serious injury and property damage curtailed.

He urges all families to put into effect an organized, planned family fire prevention control-operation and to practice it often. He further urges all to seek the help of the local fire department in developing programs and to make inspections of properties to meet fire prevention standards.

Phone Operator May Have Saved Roseau Buildings

An alert telephone operator, Mrs. Luella Jensen of Roseau, may have saved a block of business places in Roseau from fire a week ago when she called the Emil Nelson cafe and residence to inform Nelson that the two telephones in the cafe were indicating an "off the hook" position.

When Mrs. Nelson investigated, she found the cafe in flames. The intense heat had melted the telephones. Firemen responded to a call and extinguished the blaze before it could spread, but the interior of the cafe was gutted. No exact estimate of damage has been made, but it is expected to be considerable to both building and contents. Insurance will cover the loss to some extent.

Approval Given To Flood Control On Roseau River

Congressman Odin Langen announced last week that the House of Representatives has passed the Roseau River flood control project. The project was included in the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1965 presented by the Army Corps of Engineers to the Budget Bureau. The entire measure was passed.

Langen went on to say, "Since the Roseau River project was not included in the bill when it passed the Senate earlier this year, the entire measure now goes to the Conference Committee of House and Senate members where I am hopeful that the conferees will accept the House version that includes the Roseau River project."

Wesley G. Nelson Enlists in Navy

Wesley Gaylord Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Nelson of rt. 1, Thief River Falls, was enlisted in the United States Navy's Cache program September 20 in ceremonies held at the Recruiting Substation, Fargo, N.D. He will begin his active duty service within 120 days at the recruit training center of his choice, after which he will be assigned to duty with the operating forces at sea or enrolled in a Navy service school.

The Navy's Cache program, recently established, permits qualified young men to enlist in the Naval Reserve for a period of 120 days prior to assignment to recruit training in the regular Navy. During these four months, they may continue their present jobs or education and prepare themselves further for Navy life. The four months thus served also entitle applicants to increase rates of active duty pay when they commence training.

Gustafson Tells Of Early History

C. Dave Gustafson of Thief River Falls recently provided the Times with a glance back into history. Now retired from his farm implement and automobile business after selling his building to the Times, Gustafson has taken some time to page through some of his old record books.

The business of C. Gustafson and Son started on March 21, 1911, and the business journal for that first year was among the records retained by Gustafson when his building was sold. "Going through that 1911 journal brings back many memories and the names of many, very many, who are no longer here," Gustafson says.

"The living of the customers on our books since 1911 at the time our building was vacated on March 31 this year were O. N. Urdah, Waldie Christensen, B. Dan Bjorkman, Ole Skaar and Syvren Nelson, Thief River Falls; Soren Hermanson, Goodridge; and Emil Welo, now living in Washington."

Gustafson noted that customers of the company in 1911 received their mail at 33 post offices which no longer exist. These included Strip, Germantown, Steiner, Kratka, Jelle, Anstad, Burkenberg, Erie, Highlanding, Torgerson, Rhoda, Aspelin, Minor, Thorhult, Hazel, Skime, Esplee, Carmel, Sunbeam, Four Towns, Wylie, Golden Valley, Wanke, Winner, Rindahl, Mavie, Anton, Tweet, Rosewood, Rolandson, Maling and Huot.

"In that 1911 book I find many entries of winter months where customers from outlying districts bought on open account such items as mowers, binders, sleds, buggies, walking plows, six-foot single disk harrows, etc. When fall came, usually with November entries, our books for the same charge accounts would be marked 'Paid in Full by Cash'," Gustafson added.

"The farmers had to haul their machines to the farm in the winter because there were no roads and many places were impossible to get through when the ground wasn't frozen, especially in the spring," he added. "This was long before the big drainage ditches such as Ditch 18 and Ditch 20 were dug, providing high grades for travel, and before the many bogs were drained. Some of these ditches were dug in July and August and dredges struck frost in the ground in many places."

Gustafson is a regular reader of the "Looking Backward" column of the Times, and says there are very few names mentioned in the column, even back to 70 years ago, that he does not remember.

Grand Forks Spoils Prowler Homecoming

Redskins Defeat Prowlers 7-6 on Conversion Kick

Rick Taylor's placekick conversion-point, through the upright and over the cross-bar of the north goal late in the third period, provided coach Ken Rio's Grand Forks Central squad with the point that gave the Redskins a 7 to 6 decision over the Prowlers in a Homecoming football game played here Friday night.

This week, on Friday, October 8, the Prowlers will travel to Detroit Lakes for a game against coach Del Mollberg's Lakers. In last Friday's play the Lakers dropped a 19 to 13 game to Park Rapids.

In the game played here on Friday night, between the Grand Forks Central Redskins and the Prowlers, and which was the 17th in a series that began back in 1922, the two teams were handicapped by a waterlogged playing field. The rains of the past several weeks had thoroughly soacked the Lincoln field and ball carriers had difficulty in keeping their footing, especially on cutbacks over the tackles.

The Prowlers moved into a 6 to 0 lead midway in the second period when, after Ken Ose had recovered a Grand Forks fumble on Herzog's squad gained three first downs to the Redskins' 12-yard line. In this drive a pass to John Ihle picked up 10 yards, and a handoff to Dave Halvorson added nine yards. From the 12-yard line, Tommy Cummings tossed a pass off to the right, in the end zone, and John Olson made a spectacular one-handed grab to complete the toss for the touchdown. On the placement try for the point, Monte LeMoine's kick was low.

The Prowlers' 6 to 0 lead held up until late in the third period. With a fourth down and three yards to gain from the Prowlers' 39-yard line, a kicking situation was set up. But the pass from center was high and Cummings was forced to down the ball on the 19-yard line, with Grand Forks taking possession. With fullback Jim Beauchamp plunging into the line Jim Clark breaking through left tackle for 10 yards, the Redskins moved down to the Prowlers' four-yeard line. On a fourth down play, Beauchamp powered over center for the touchdown. And when Taylor booted the conversion point the Redskins had a 7 to 6 lead.

Early in the fourth period, and having the advantage of a brisk south wind, the Prowlers' Cummings punted from mid-field, and the ball was downed on the Redskins' two-yard line. Grand Forks gained but six yards in three plays and the kick, on fourth down, carried out to the Redskins' 28-yard line. The Grand Forks' interior line proved stubborn, and the Prowlers were unable to gain on drives through center and off the guards.

When Rick Elofson intercepted a Cummings pass, the Redskins had running room, Clark sprinted through left tackle for a 16-yard gainer. Grand Forks, on a short kick, gave up possession to the Prowlers on the locals' 42-yard line. Two passes were incomplete, and a pair of sweeps around left end gained but eight yards and the Redskins held for downs. Quarterback Dick Anderson, with short time remaining, carried the ball on plunges into the line on three successive plays, and "ran out the clock" to preserve the Grand Forks victory.

Baudette Group Seeks Loan for Recreation Area

Oak Harbor Golf and Tennis club, a non-profit corporation, in Baudette dedicated to increasing recreational facilities in the Baudette area has filed an application with the Farmers Home administration for a $100,000 loan. If the loan is approved, the corporation will begin steps to raise $12,000 in local participation to construct and develop a recreation complex on a 103-acre tract about 10 miles northwest of town adjacent to the Rainy River.

If all systems are "Go" with the FHA loan and the local investment, first things planned for the recreation complex are a nine-hole golf course planned for future expansion to 18 holes, two surfaced tennis courts, a marina and a club house. Possible future additions are an archery range, trap and skeet range, badminton courts, shuffleboard and children's playground facilities.

Site selected by the committee is a 103-acre tract owned by Alfred Anderson and adjacent to River Oaks lodge. The group has an option to purchase the parcel, which has access to the Rainy River via Johnson Creek.

Veterans Asked To Notify VA of Income Changes

Veterans who receive pensions may save themselves inconvenience by notifying the Veterans administration, immediately when there is an increase in their annual income.

John R. Murphy, manager, VA center, St. Paul, said that the amount of a veteran's pension is based on his income and the number of people in his family. If any of these factors change, his pension may change. Therefore, if the veteran receives any additional income, this should be reported at once to the VA.

Murphy said that for the same reason, the VA should be advised imediately should a veteran's, family status change, such as divorce or death of his wife, the marriage, death or birth of a child, or the marriage of the veteran.

Failure to report income abov the legal limits may result in VA overpayments and the veteran may be required to return some or all pension payments, Murphy said.

1965 Duck Season To Open Saturday

Minnesota's annual duck hunting at 12 noon, the conservation department reminded hunters today. The season will last through November 17.

Bag limits are four ducks daily and eight in possession. In his daily bag limit the hunter may include not more than one mallard, one pintail, two wood ducks, and two canvasbacks or two redheads (or one of each), in addition to other species.

Mallard and pintail breeding populations in North America were the lowest ever recorded this past spring, which accounts for the reduction in the limits on these birds this fall, the department said. Improved water conditions on the nesting grounds this year did not greatly improve nesting success since many nests were lost by flooding. It is anticipated there will be no increase over last year's fall flight in Minnesota.

In Minnesota, a map showing the location of 575 state-owned wetlands where public hunting is allowed is available without cost from the Department of Conservation, Bureau of Information, 350 Centennial Building, St. Paul.

Shooting hours will be sunrise to sunset after the first day and goose hunters in the half-day hunting areas will have to pass up goose hunting on October 9, the first day of the duck season. No waterfowl hunting is permitted until noon on the first day of the duck season and in the half-day show no leniency to hunters who accidentally exceed the limit of any species. "With strict adherence to the regulations and with a special effort to shoot only drakes, the hunter can make his personal contribution to returning more ducks to nest next year," said Shields.

He emphasized that waterfowl numbers, unlike those of upland game birds such as grouse and pheasants, are largely controlled by hunters.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said that the mallard, pintail, canvasback, redhead and wood duck have been given partial protection this year. For this reason, he said, it is important that hunters let the ducks come in close so that proper identification can be made. Close shots also will reduce crippling loss which normally runs from 20 to 25 per cent for waterfowl.

Shields said law enforcement personnel have been instructed to goose hunting zoons goose shooting is restricted to the hours of sunrise to 12 noon.

Hunters should consult their synopsis of hunting regulations for the sunrise to sunset time schedule, refuge regulations and other details. All duck hunters 16 years or older must have a federal duck stamp in addition to a Minnesota small game hunting license.

Herman Deployed To Caribbean for Duty With Navy

Seaman R. J. Herman, USN, son of Mrs. Joseph Herman of Thief River Falls, is deployed to the Caribbean for three months of training operations aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Guadalcanal.

Guadalcanal, with other ships of Amphibious Squadron Eight, destopping at Onslow Beach and Morehead City, N.C. to embark an 1,800-man Marine landing force before proceeding to the Caribbean.

The mission of the amphibious ready group is to maintain the combat efficiency and readiness of the Navy-Marine corps amphibious striking force. Guadalcanal will return to Norfolk, Va., in mid-December.

Grouse Hunting Seasons Open in State Saturday

Minnesota grouse hunting seasons will open at 12 noon on Saturday, the conservation department reminded hunters today. Statewide ruffed grouse season will continue through October 31. A second ruffed grouse season, which is restricted to deer zone VI in the southeastern part of the state, will run from November 16 through November 30.

Although ruffed grouse hunting should be improved over last year, it will still be below the 1962 level, the last good hunting year, according to state game officials.

Last winter's heavy snowfall resulted in a carry over of more breeding birds as a result of better winter roosting cover. Grouse drumming counts this spring were generally higher than the 1964 and 1963 counts. The best increases in brood numbers have been recorded in the northeastern counties.

In the southeastern part of the state the population is adequate, said game officials, and the later season when foliage is down will provide better hunting conditions. Hunters are advised to keep moving if grouse are not found in one area since the distribution of the birds is expected to be spotty.

The sharptailed grouse season will open at noon on October 9 and run through October 17. Only that portion of the state north of U. S. highway 2 and east of U. S. highway 75 will be open for sharptail hunting this year.

A small sharptailed grouse study area, located between Warroad and county state aid highway 2 in Lake of the Woods county north of state highway 11, is closed to both sharptailed and ruffed grouse hunting.

Shooting hours on both species of grouse are sunrise to sunset, except for the first day, October 9, when shooting will start at noon. Bag limits are three daily and six in possession for ruffed grouse and two daily and four in possession for sharptails.

Don't Shoot at Phone Equipment, Manager Warns

"Telephone cables and wires don't have feathers or furr," states J. M. Wilson, Northwestern Bell Telephone company manager, in reminding hunters to be careful that they don't shoot at telephone equipment now that the hunting season has started.

"Damage to wires could put many telephones temporarily out of order," he said. "In emergencies, this could result in severe suffering, inconvenience and even loss of life and property."

Traffic Deaths In State Could Be Down from '64

Minnesota has a good chance of having an annual traffic death toll below 800 for the first time since 1962, if the present trend in fatalities continues to the end of the year, according to John R. Jamieson, Minnesota highway commissioner.

For the first eight months of this year, fatalities totaled 504, or 45 fewer than the toll for the same period of 1964.

Jamieson said that after a 33 per cent jump in traffic deaths in January this year over the same month in 1964, the succeeding months through May showed decreases. Then a steady rise began, with June showing a three per cent increase, July a nine per cent increase and August a 17 per cent increase in fatalities.

But, while fatalities in the nation for the first six months of the year increased three per cent over the same period of a year ago, Minnesota's traffic fatalities showed a decrease of 18 per cent.

Since June that decrease has dropped to eight per cent for Minnesota, but the gap between this year's fatalities and last year's is still wide enough to make a below-800 year probable, Jamieson said although it will depend upon the extra effort Minnesota drivers will make to drive safely during the next few months.

"If we can hold to our 1964 figures for the balance of the year, Minnesota would end the year with fewer than 800 traffic deaths, a substantial decrease from the record total of 844 deaths in 1964," Jamieson said.

In the past, traffic fatalities in Minnesota have been highest in the last half of the year. The four months of September through December generally have a worse record than the first six months of the year.

The totals for the last four months of 1964 were: September, 65; October, 82; November, 72; and December, 76, for a total of 295.

October, accident records show is the most dangerous month of all for travel with more deaths occuring during this month than any other.

School Children To Inspect Homes For Fire Hazards

To thousands of school children across the nation "back to school" will also mean back to their roles as Junior Fire Marshals for another year of fire prevention and safety in the home, at school and at play. Schools in Thief River Falls are among 15,000 that are participating in the annual safety program sponsored by the Hartford Insurance Group.

The Junior Fire Marshal program here is coordinated through Dell Christianson of the Union State Insurance agency in cooperation with local school and fire department officials.

Among the Junior Fire Marshal's first projects will be a thorough inspection of fire and other safety hazards in the home. With the aid of a check list, and under the guidance of their parents, the boys and girls will be looking for such common causes of fires and accidents as frayed electrical cords, overloaded electrical outlets, paints, varnishes and other inflammable liquids in open containers or stored too close to furnaces, loose floor boards, faulty staircases and the like. Each boy or girl turning in a completed home safety report to his or her teacher will receive an official badge. Schools receiving the highest percentage of completed reports will be awarded a special Junior Fire Marshal achievement award flag, Christianson said.

"When I am going out for an evening, I arrange the fire in my stove so that I do not fail to find a good one when I return, though it would have engaged my frequent attention present. So that, when I know I am to be at home, I sometimes make believe that I may go out, to save trouble. And this is the art of living, too—to leave our life in a condition to go alone, and not to require a constant supervision. We will then sit down serenely to live, as by the side of a stove." —Henry David Thoreau

Is Your Home Fire Safe?

Before the winter season forces families indoors for the winter and the heating season begins in earnest, this is a good time of year to check homes for fire hazards. The following check list, prepared by Allstate Insurance companies, is a good one to use in making homes more safe this winter.

Yes— No —Does every member of the family know how to report a fire?

Yes— No— Is the fire department phone number attached to the telephone?

Yes— No— Do you store flammable solvents in containers outside the house?

Yes— No— Do you know the location of the main gas valve in the house and how to turn off the gas in an emergency?

Yes— No— Do you check the pilot light of the furnace and the water heater at regular intervals?

Yes— No— Do you store flammable materials away from the furnace?

Yes —No— Do you know where the main electrical switch in the house is and how to turn it off in an emergency?

Yes— No— Do you know the location and purpose of the fuse box and where it is located?

Yes— No— Do you make sure electrical outlets are not overloaded?

Yes— No— Do you have covered metal containers for rubbish and waste paper and move trash outside the house?

Yes— No— Does your fireplace have a screen?

Yes— No— Do you have fire extinguishers for the kitchen and workshop?

It Isn't Fair

This is the time of year—and the type of year—when the problem of crop depradation by waterfowl raises voices of concern in this area. Extended periods of wet weather have made it impossible for farmers to harvest much of their crops, and the fields of grain are spread out like heavily-laden banquet tables below migrating formations of ever-hungry ducks. It is a problem which should not be shrugged off with a "that's life" indifference.

Farmers north and east of Thief River Falls, particularly those with land adjacent to the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge and the state-owned Thief Lake Wildlife Management area, have been plagued by ducks for a number of years. In spite of honest attempts by state and federal personnel to reduce crop losses through exploders, scarecrows and other duck-scaring devices—supplemented by a feeding program on refuge land with surplus CCC grain—the situation has become worse rather than better.

Late one afternoon last week, this writer visited with several farmers in the area west of the Agassiz refuge and made a firsthand survey of the situation. To the waterfowl hunter, what was seen would have been a dream. To the farmers in the area, it was a nightmare.

As we have said, the current situation is neither new nor unique. It occurs frequently when a late spring and poor harvest conditions combine to leave crops in the field when ducks set out on feeding forays in flocks accumulating literally to thousands.

One field of swathed barley we viewed seemed of particular interest to ducks, as flock after flock settled in to feed even as we approached on foot. As we shouted upon nearing the feeding birds, ducks rose on whirring wings in a dense cloud that wheeled into the overcast sky. We doubt that our estimate of 8,000 to 10,000 ducks rising from that field would be anything but conservative.

Biologists say that a duck will eat about one-half pound of grain per day. Multiply that by 10,000 and it will be seen that only one day's feeding by that flock would mean a loss of two and one-half tons of feed for the farmer who owned the crop. And this is discounting the grain which is trampled into the ground and the swaths which are scattered by the feeding birds. Many of the fields in the area have been in swath for a month. Multiply the daily loss by 30 days and probably another 100,000 ducks and you will get some idea of the extent of the problem.

There is heavy conflict of interest in the situation. Professional wildlife personnel supervise duck production as their means of making a living; hunters find countless hours of sport in gunning for the birds; naturalists appreciate the number of ducks and their graceful flight and don't like to have any of them killed; and farmers concerned with protecting their crops so they can feed, clothe and educate their children would not be unhappy if no duck ever drew another breath.

The wildlife manager's stake in the production of ducks is professional; the hunter's stake is recreational; the naturalist's interest is aesthetical; and the farmer's concern is economical. On the basis of pure logic, it would seem that the farmer's concern is the most justified. It would also seem that it could well be the most easily solved.

The problem is money. Grain eaten by ducks which others produce, hunt or observe results in actual cash out of the pocket of the farmers whose fields are the ducks' banquet table. Hunters would be irate themselves if ducks swooped down and carried off their yearly earnings.

With government and private organizations such as the U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Department of Conservation, Ducks and others concerned about wildlife production and species preservation, it's time they gave more consideration to the rural grocer who feeds their flocks.

State and federal programs have allocated funds for wetlands acquisition and establishment or improvement of wildlife habitat. Why is it impossible or illogical to provide funds for payment to farmers whose fields provide feed for ducks when the situation is as serious as it is now? For the farmers it is a simple question of ultimate survival.

Minnesota hunters now pay a surcharge on their small game hunting licenses for wetlands acquisition. A similar surcharge for reimbursement of depradation losses would not be unreasonable, nor would the money be needed every year. It would make for far better relations between the farmer and the hunter. It would feed the ducks but pay the farmer for the feed. There should be no question that the present situation isn't fair.

Hoover Speaks

The nation's press appreciates the following comments made by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation:

"In any endeavor or conflict it is always reassuring to know that your cause is supported by strong allies. Law Enforcement—faced with increasing crime rates, riots and civil disobedience—can take encouragement in the editorial support and assistance it receives from responsible newspapers throughout the nation. Specific mention of the press is significant at this time because of the annual observance of National Newspaper Week, October 10-16.

"The theme of this year's observance, 'Newspapers and Readers—Partners in Freedom,' is especially germane to the day-to-day activities of a people who for more than 189 years have placed their faith and trust in self-government and the rule of law, not of men. The journalism profession, through its cherished freedom provided by the First Amendment, has been greatly instrumental in forging the proud history of our country. It is to the everlasting credit of loyal, dedicated and patriotic editors and publishers that the press today is still a major medium in preserving our way of life.

"The lack of knowledge and the absence of truth are lurking, perennial enemies of democracy. The role of the press in keeping the public informed by timely, accurate and objective news reporting can best be appreciated when we consider the increasing number of countries where a free press is either nonexistent or is subjected to constant governmental intimidation. Americans regard the free flow of legitimate information, critical and favorable, pro and con, as a basic and indispensable right belonging to free people.

"Over the years, law enforcement at times has been taken to the editorial woodshed for its shortcomings and mistakes. We expect just criticism. We profit by it, and the public is better served because of it. On the other hand, we in law enforcement are gratified to know that when we fully discharge our responsibilities, strive for greater efficiency, promote higher standards and enforce the law without favor or partiality, the responsible newspapers are in our corner."

Don't Need No Culture

The following editorial was published in the Oklee Herald.

"A few seconds, and it was all over." So ended a report recently in a Washington, D.C., newspaper that the United States Congress had just put another sixty million tax dollars up for grabs in the name of which means no recording of which members actually voted for this latest bureaucratic boondoggle, the U. S. Senate passed on for the President's signature a bill establishing a "National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities."

This is, of course, just another little thing for which Mr. Johnson had asked his boys in Congress some time ago. And, there's a song title from the pre-subsidy era of the performing arts which, if you care to substitute a name, portrays in a most artistic manner the relationship which now exists between the White House and Capitol Hill —"Whatever Lola Wants, Lola Gets."

There were a few members of Congress who tried to give the President a little more than he asked for. Congressman Gross, of Iowa, offered an amendment to subsidize bellydancers who, so we are told, at least like to think of themselves as artists; and another for poker players, on the ground that he'd met some who definitely were artists. The majority of his colleagues, so it is reported, thought those proposed amendments were artistic enough to laugh about, but voted against them anyway. Which only shows, we suppose, that no matter how eager they may be to give the President any preposterous thing he asks for, they are not about to give him something he didn't ask for, they are not about to give him something he didn't ask for, even if it is neither more nor less ridiculous.

Well, now that we've got to pay for it, we might as well use this new National Foundation for performing arts. And an idea comes to mind at once on how to repay Britian for lending us the Beatles.

Just imagine the impact if that well-trained chorus of voice-voters which now holds sway in the U. S. Congress were sent to London with their "Yeah—Yeah—Yeah."

Culture we ain't got and furthermore we don't need none.

Principal speaker was Robert J. Lund, one of the organizers of the fund and secretary until recently.

The foundation was organized in 1957 with charter members including Judge Paul A. Lundgren, F. A. Rinkel, William E. Dahlquist, L. B. Hartz, William LaFave, Frank Tunberg, Lund, O. G. Ekeren, E. O. Peterson and Dr. M. D. Starekow. First officers included Rinkel, president; Hartz, vice president; Lund, secretary; and Peterson, treasurer

Current officers of the organization include Hartz, president; Dahlquist, vice president; Orville Hanson, secretary; and Peterson, treasurer. Others who have served or are serving on the foundation board include A. B. Stenberg, Waldie Christensen and James Winjum Sr.

Funds of the foundation have come from various sources, Lund told the Rotary club Monday. A grant of $10,000 from the Frank Rinkel estate was the major gift to the foundation while other substantial but smaller gives have been made by individuals and organizations.

In general, the foundation perpetuates a revolving loan fund to seeking to further their education. To date the foundation has made 78 loans for $49,754 of which 41 loans totaling $27,879 have been repaid. Outstanding loons numbering 37 for $21,875 plus interest remain to be collected.

Records of the foundation, which was granted full tax-exempt status after a by-laws revision in recent years, indicate that students wide variety of state, private vocational and grade schools. At present the fund has a cash balance of slightly more than $300. Its only expense is for supplies since it has no office space and directors and officers serve without pay.

Robert Swanson Consigns Cattle to Dairy Sale Here

ONE OF TWO springing heifers consigned to the 7th Annual Top of the Nation Dairy sale in Thief River Falls by Robert Swanson of Plummer is this grade Holstein pictured above. The dam of this heifer has two lactations with production of more than 15,500 pounds of milk and 600 pounds of butterfat and she was sired by Osborndale Sir Fobes Ivanhoe. The dam of the second heifer produced 513 pounds of butterfat in 299 days at six years, is sired by Elmoka Rudolph Homestead and bred to Hazel Bush Crescent Revlon. They are due to freshen respectively on November 7 and November 3.

BY Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

In his first year of consigning to the Top of the Nation Dairy sale in Thief River Falls, Robert Swanson of Plumer has entered a springing heifer with one of the top production backgrounds in the sale this year. A second springing heifer consigned from the Swanson herd also has a good production background. The sale will be held October 14 at 1 p. m. at the livestock pavilion on the Pennington county fairgrounds.

Swanson operates an 800-acre farm, including 360 acres rented, four miles northwest of Plummer and the farmyard is a model of pride and accomplishment. His herd of 47 Holstein milk cows had a Dairy Herd Improvement association average last year of 445 pounds of butterfat and he raises his own replacement stock, using artificial breeding in his dairy program.

Built in 1959, the 34x108 dairy barn has comfort stalls for cattle, utilizing collar and chains instead of the common stanchions. The barn is equipped with a barn cleaner, pipeline milking system, bulk cooling tank and a special records office. An adjacent 20x45 silo is equipped with an unloader and hay bales are stored in a 50x96 shed next to the barn.

Swanson estimates that his dairy enterprise annually requires about 150 acres for rotation pasture, 200 acres for hay, 160 acres for grain and 50 acres of corn for silage. In addition to his father, Carl, a partner in the operation, Robert has assistance from Olaf Rasmusgard, a full-time employee, and Carl Quam, a part-time hired man. Robert and Olaf alternate on Sunday chores to prevent being tied down with the routine work.

When Swanson began D.H.I.A. testing nine years ago, his herd average for 30 cows was 336 pounds of butterfat. This average has climbed to a top production average of 445 pounds of butterfat on the 47-cow milking herd. Swanson has young stock and dairy steers to bring the total number of his herd to 80 animals. None of the animals are registered. Artificial breeding is used in the dairy program and the herd is on production test with the Red Lake County D.H.I.A.

As is the case with most diary herds, Swanson has had one animal with outstanding production. His top cow, produced in his own herd, produced 707 pounds of butterfat in 305 days in 1964 and 758 pounds of butterfat in a total of 382 days in milk. Unfortunately for the Swansons, this cow died of bloat this year after being turned out for a short time on alfalfa.

Optimistic about farming in general and dairying in particular, Swanson has built his herd and farming operation on a step-by-step basis. He has been concerned with production rather than type in his cattle, although his sale consignment heifers are attractive animals.

Likely to draw considerable interest from bidders will be Lot 17 in the sale catalog—a first calf heifer due to freshen November 7. This heifer is sired by Osborndale Sir Fobes Ivanhoe and out of a dam with production of 610

NW Hospital Aux. Plans Style Show

"Fashions Long A Go-Go" will be the theme of the Northwestern hospital auxiliary luncheon and style show to be given Saturday at 1 p.m. at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls.

Twenty-eight local models will appear wearing clothing dating from 1855 to the present time. Modeled will be two or more dresses or artibles of clothing representing every decade over a period of 100 years with emphasis on fashion instead of everyday wear. They will depict changes in style, fabric and color and show fashions as they go out and come back into style again.

Several dresses to be modeled are from Europe, some are from Norway, Yugoslavia, Ireland and England, but all are the original, authentic gowns from people residing in Thief River Falls and surrounding area. Included in the showing will be suits, wedding gowns, formals, furs and baby clothing.

Mrs. Fred Sorenson, president of the Northwestern Hospital auxiliary, together with the women serving on various committees, will be in charge of the event.

Women serving on the style show committee are Mrs. O. D. Belch, Mrs. Earl Dag and Mrs. Clarence Waldera while Mrs. E. O. Peterson, Mrs. Ruth Lundgren and Mrs. Lloyd Bennes are members of the hospitality committee, Mrs. Carl Lee and Mrs. Bill Schuk are in charge of the tickets sales and Mrs. Robert Reeve and Mrs. Robert Flynn comprise the publicity committee.

Assisting as waitresses at the luncheon will be the Candy-Stripers, members of the teen-age program sponsored by the auxiliary.

Membership dues for the coming year will be accepted at this event.

MODELING an ensemble of the flapper age of 1920 is Gretchen Beito, of Thief River Falls, who will model at the Saturday luncheon and style show sponsored by the Northwestern Hospital auxiliary at the American Legion club. Her ensemble features a thin, sleeveless, knee-length loose sheath dress of gay flowered Georgette worn with a vibrant chartreuse jacket of transparent velvet.

Kittson County Fair Shows Loss Of $4,022 in '65

Kittson county fair of 1965 showed a loss of $4,022.21, according to Paul Sorneson, fair association president. Largest share of this amount is reflected in decreased revenue from the grandstand. However, state and local aids due the association amount to $3,300, when these aids are received the loss will be approximately $722.21. This year's grandstand receipts were $2,219 compared to $2,960 from the 1964 fair.

The only fair operation department that showed a small increase was the receipts from the carnival, due to the free gate, it is believed. Welu And Sistad Vows Spoken At Nielsville

Miss Marlene Mary Welu of Thief River Falls, daughter of Mrs. Irene Welu of Alexandria, and Virgil Jerome Sistad, son of Mrs. Gladys Sistad of Nielsville, exchanged their marriage vows during a candlelight ceremony Saturday September 11 at St. Petri Lutheran church at Nielsville. The Rev. E. W. Johnshoy officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. E. W. Johnshoy provided the nuptial music. She also accompanied Imogene Bjornstad of Virginia as she sang "O Perfect Love". Baskets of magenta colored asters and green foliage formed the chancel setting for the ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by an uncle of the groom, Hans Waale of Thief River Falls, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle over a blue taffeta underskirt. Designed with a V-neckline and Mary Stuart sleeves, the fitted lace bodice, trimmed with bands of nylon tulle, was styled with an elongated waistline forming a point at the midriff. The bouffant skirt was of tiered nylon tulle. A pearl crown secured the fingertip veil and she carried three long-stemmed red roses.

Mrs. Lyman Nygaard of Shelly, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. She was attired in an apricot colored street-length gown of lace fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and accented with apricot satin binding at the rounded neckline and waistline. She wore a matching veiled headpiece and carried one long-stemmed white rose.

The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Lyman Nygaard of Shelly. Ushers were Harold Gast of Beltrami and Steven Waale of Thief River Falls, both cousins of the groom. For her son's wedding, Mrs. Sistad wore a sleeveless beige knit sheath dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations and green foliage.

Approximately 150 guests attended the reception held in the church parlors immediately after the ceremony. The bridal table, centered with the bride's bouquet, was marked at the individual place settings by miniature wedding-bell place cards. Decorated in the blue and white motif, the serving table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and trimmed with blue roses. Topped with a miniature bridal couple, the cake was flanked by lighted tapers in blue candle holders.

Cousins of the groom, Patricia Waale of Thief River Falls and Wanda Sistad of Moorhead served the cake cut by his aunts, Mrs. Warren Gast and Mrs. Kenneth Sannes of Beltrami. Presiding at the silver service were Mrs. Marvin Sistad of Fosston and Mrs. Ole Waale of Thief River Falls, both aunts of the groom. Another aunt, Mrs. Hans Waale and her daughter Carlotta of Thief River Falls, served at the punch bowl while JoAnn LaFrimiere, Thief River Falls, friend of the bride, registered the guests. Cousins of the groom, Susan and Sandra Gast, Dianne Tuseth and Cynthia Waale, were waitresses. Their blue nylon aprons were gifts from the bride. Dr. Sather Appointed Sanatorium Director

Dr. R. O. Sather of Crookston has been appointed medical director of Sunnyrest sanatorium to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. L. H. Flancher. Announcement of the appointment was made by R. R. Betcher of Ada, president of the Sanatorium commission, following a meeting of that board recently.

Dr. Sather is a member of the staff of the Northwestern clinic in Crookston. He is an internist, and together with the other two internists, Dr. H. Wikoff and Dr. S. Hirsh, will provide medical supervision.

Mrs. Mary Vattendahl is acting administrator. She has been associated with the sanatorium for the past 20 years and has been in charge of the outpatient department and the field nursing services.

According to Betcher, the sanatorium will continue to provide services to the people of the Sanatorium district which includes the counties of Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Norman. Care is provided without charge to residents of the district who require observation or treatment for tuberculosis. Patients may be referred by their private physicians or may be referred following examination in the outpatient department of the sanatorium.

The outpatient department is open daily and any person may receive a chest X-ray at nominal cost. Clinics are held twice weekly. Ex-patients and persons who desire to be seen by the doctor are invited to attend special clinics held on Tuesday on alternate weeks, preferrably by appointment.

Those who do not wish for such consultation with the doctor may receive X-rays at the regular weekly clinics held on Thursdays. All X-rays are read by radiologist, J. S. Rubin, M.D., and reports are sent to each individual's private physician.

Mantoux testing is done annually in the schools of the sanatorium district. Testing is presently being planned for schools in the counties of Polk, Red Lake and Norman. This service is also available to any industrial or other group which desires it. It is the means for identifying any person or persons within a group who may have been infected by the germ which causes tuberculosis, or who, unknowingly, may have the disease in its active form.

Sunnyrest sanatorium is governed by a board of directors with representatives from each of the counties which comprise the sanatorium district. It is the only tuberculosis facility in the northwest area of Minnesota and is one of the three remaining county sanatoriums in the state. Others are Nopeming sanatorium, at Duluth and Mineral Springs sanatorium located at Cannon Falls. When the sanatorium at Walker closed in 1961, the former Hennepin County sanatorium at Glen Lake, near Minneapolis, became the state sanatorium.

Information concerning the sanatorium and its facilities can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Vattendahl or Dr. R. O. Sather at the sanatorium, or from members of the sanatorium board. Representatives on the board from Pennington county are Merle Lindberg and Herman Kjos of Thief River Falls.

REV. Russell G. Blank, well-known religious radio broadcaster, will speak at 8 p.m. Monday at the Evangelical Free church, Third street and Kendall avenue, Thief River Falls. Rev. Blank is heard weekday mornings on "The Upward Look" broadcast. Another radio personality, Arthur Throm of the "Songs of Sharon" broadcast, will provide special music at the Monday evening service. The public is invited to the service, according to Rev. Wesley Johnson, pastor.

Give Suggestions On Handling of Frozen Forage

The freeze of September 25 killed much of Minnesota's corn and soybeans, and farmers are now faced with the problem of how to handle the crops to get the most value, according to James Justin and Harley Otto, extension agronomists at the University of Minnesota.

Justin and Otto, say crop maturity should be the primary factor in deciding how to handle these crops.

Corn which was fully dented and losing moisture at the time of freeze can still be harvested as grain when the moisture content is low enough for safe storage. At 35 per cent grain moisture, corn is normally fully dented and kernels are hard all the way to the base.

Corn containing more than 35 per cent grain moisture probably cannot mature now and will have to be salvaged. If this corn is picked, artificial drying will be needed or the corn should be fed immediately.

Livestock farmers can ensile the grain for future feeding, but silos should be airtight to prevent excessive losses. Ear corn can be ensiled at 30-35 per cent moisture. When the whole ear contains about 35 per cent moisture, the grain has about 30 per cemt moisture. Justin and Otto recomended that the ear corn be chopped into short lengths and then coarsely ground before ensiling.

Shelled corn can be ensiled at about 30 per cent moisture. With this moisture content, the grain should be coarse ground before ensiling. Slightly higher moisture content is desirable if the grain is not ground.

Rains before and after the freeze increased the moisture content of corn, but whole plant corn silage can be made after excess moisture is lost. If moisture content is in excess of 70 per cent when ensiled, seepage will probably occur and result in poor quality silage.

For more information on corn silage, ask your county agent for Agronomy Fact Sheet No. 9, titled "Corn Silage," or write to the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101, the agronomists suggest.

Improved Pasture Aids Production Gains for Beef

Advantage of improved pastures to increase beef production was emphasized by research results heard during the 13th Annual Beef Cattle Grasslands Field Day at the University of Minnesota's Rosemount agricultural experiment station.

Pastures improved with either manure, commercial fertilizer or renovation were superior to control pastures in beef produced per acre, value of beef produced per acre and number of steer days per acre.

The four-year experiment was conducted by P. M. Burson, professor in the Department of Soil Science; A. R. Schmid, associate professor in the Department of Agronomy and Plant Genetics; and J. C. Meiske, assistant professor in the Department of Animal Husbandry.

Value of beef produced per acre over lime, fertilizer, tillage and seed costs averaged $58.85 for nitrogen pastures, $58.10 for renovated pastures, $54.45 for manure pastures and $40.67 for control pastures over the four-year experiment.

Steers averaged gains of 1.68 pounds per day on nitrogen pastures, 1.52 pounds per day on renovated pastures, 1.35 pounds per day on control pastures and 1.18 pounds per day on manure pastures.

All pastures received three tons per acre of ground limestone in the fall of 1956. Until 1965, all pastures except the control received annual treatments of 200 pounds of 0-20-20. Manured pastures received no 0-20-20 in 1965 because of the very high soil test for phosphate and potash. Eight tons per acre of manure were applied annually in the fall to manured pastures.

Nitrogen pastures were treated with 80 pounds of actual nitrogen annually plus the treatments made on all improved pastures. Original grass was mainly timothy, brome and scattered areas of bluegrass.

Renovated pastures were cultivated three times in the fall and one time in the spring with a deep tiller. Then renovated pastures were disked and seeded to a per acre mixture of five pounds of Vernal alfalfa, a pound of alsike clover, six pounds of Lincoln bromegrass and two pounds of Orchard grass.

Fire Control, Patient Rescue . . .

Nursing Home Personnel To Attend TRF Fire Seminar

Training in fire fighting and handling of patients in nursing homes in the event of fire will be provided at a Fire Control and Patient Rescue seminar to be held Tuesday, October 12, at the city arena in Thief River Falls. Conducting the seminar will be Lt. Robert McGrath, fire safety specialist.

Sponsoring the program locally will be Northwestern hospital and Oakland Park Nursing home with Norman Peterson and James Roche as respective administrators. Cooperating in the seminar are Roy Langevin, Thief River Falls fire chief, and Patrick Barry, deputy state fire marshal.

Communities registered for representation at the event are Roseau, Warroad, Erskine, Warren, Greenbush, Bemidji, Red Lake Falls and Crookston in addition to Thief River Falls. The session here is designed principally for nursing home personnel. A similar session will be held the following day in Bemidji for District I of the Minnesota Hospital association. The seminar will begin at 12:30 p.m. and approximately 125 people are expected to attend.

Personnel attending will learn by demonstration and personal experience what to do until the fire department arrives to insure patient safety and speed orderly evacuation of residents from threatened areas.

The live demonstration and lecture will be augmented by movies shown by McGrath, a retired hospital inspector of the Chicago fire department and nationally-known expert in institutional fire prevention and control. He has trained hospital and nursing home personnel in special firefighting and evacuation seminars in more than 400 cities in the United States.

"Patient safety is a must in our hospitals and nursing homes," Peterson and Roche said in announcing the seminar. "Patient safety must begin in patient areas with nurses and other personnel directly concerned with patient care and build up and out to all other hospital staff members so they not only take every precaution against the possibility of fire but know exactly what to do in the interim between the time a fire is discovered and the fire department arrives on the scene to take full charge.

"Since nurses and staff members are the most likely to discover actual fires in patient areas in their early stages, we feel that they ought to have the best possible training on what to do and what not to do," the administrators explained. "This will be of benefit to any nursing home sending representatives to the seminar and certainly add to the safety of residents of such homes."

Demonstrations to be given will be concerned with what to do immediately when fire breaks out in patient areas, fire control using ordinary available materials and equipment and simple and practical methods of carrying ill, injured or aged patients.

A similar course for hospital personnel was held at Northwestern hospital a number of years ago. Lt. McGrath's flair for realism, using actual fires in simulated patient or resident room conditions, makes an impressive demonstration with lasting values to participants.

RESIDENTS of the Oakland Park rest home, as part of their activity program, engage in handicraft projects such as those pictured above. The program is carried on with the guidance of occupational therapy students affiliated with Northwestern hospital, who are in turn directed by Art Heinze, O. T. director at the hospital. The finished articles will be placed on sale at a later date. The quilt pictured in the top photo was made and contributed to the home by the late Mrs. Martha Nabben, a former Oakland Park home resident.

Mrs. Betty Lind Publishes Second Book on Bridge

Mrs. Betty Lind, former Thief River Falls resident now living in Santa Fe, N.M., recently published her second book on the game of bridge. It is entitled, "Are Bridge Players People?" Her first book, "Psychotics, Neurotics and Bridge Players" is now in its third edition.

In a revue of the book by Gene Zechmeister in the Alburquerque Journal, it is stated that "Betty Lind's book is a delightful tasting antidote for such (extraordinary) bridge behavior. Taken as directed, it brings normal reactions of fun and enjoyment to the bridge table."

The reviewer continues: "The Santa Fe author and bridge Life Master assumes that bridge is a pleasurable game and nothing similar to an attack on the Viet Cong. Basing her instruction on this premise, she explains in a personal, lively and logical manner the rudiments of Contract Bridge from point counting to the more subtle complexities of conventions, takeout doubles and the "psychic bid."

Gill Netting of Several Species Of Fish Allowed

Seasons regulations for the gill netting of whitefish, herring and tullibee were announced today by Ted Shields, state game and fish director. Three species of fish may be taken with gill nets from October 22 to December 31 in 18 lakes; from November 5 to December 31 in 196 lakes; and from November 5 to January 31 in one lake.

The different season dates are set to coincide with the most desirable netting period in each lake. It it is found that game fish populations in any lake are being harmed by netting, the conservation department may close the lake or delay the announced opening by posting notices at the lake.

Shields said that approximately 4,000 persons participate in the sport of fish netting each year. are excellent food fish but are not commonly taken by hook and line, he added.

In addition to eating the fresh fish, said Shields, many netters have built their own smoke houses and smoke some of their catch.

All gill nets must have a metal tag attached (minimum size 2" by five-eighth inch) showing the name and address of the owner when the net is not in use. When the net is being used, the tag must show the name and address of the operator. Tags must be provided by the owner or operator of the net and must be attached to one end of the float line.

Netting licenses cost $1 per 100-foot net and no more than two nets may be used by any one person. An angling license is also required. The netting license can be purchased at the offices of county auditors.

A list of the lakes to be opened is also available at county auditors' offices and additional information can be obtained from all state game wardens and other conservation department fieldmen including regional fisheries managers the regulations carefully.

After a week's respite, activity within the Northwest Football conference will resume this week when coach Ron Thompson brings his East Grand Forks Green Wave into Crookston's Highland Park field for a game against coach Lowell Larson's Crookston Pirates. It will be the first conference game for the Pirates, while East Grand Forks, in two games, has scored a tie with Thief River Falls and absorbed a loss to Bemidji.

Four of the conference teams engaged in non-conference competition last week, and two wins and two losses were recorded. The powerful Bemidji Lumberjacks trounced Fergus Falls, 34 to 7, in a game played at Bemidji. And East Grand Forks edged out Breckenridge, 12 to 6, in a game played at Breckenridge.

In a homecoming game played at Thief River Falls, coach Ken Rio's Grand Forks Central squad eked out a 7 to 6 win over the Prowlers on Friday night. And on Saturday night, in a homecoming game played at Warren, the Crookston Pirates were defeated by the Warren Ponies, 14 to 2. Warren's Peter Gilbert, one of the most versatile athletes in Region Eight competition, sparkled for the Ponies in their triumph over the Pirates.

In non-conference play this week on Friday night, the Prowlers will play the Detroit Lakes Lakers at Detroit Lakes; and on Saturday night the Crookston Cathedral Blue Wave will play the Roseau Rams at Roseau.

This evening, Wednesday, the Bemidji Lumberjacks will be host to Grand Rapids in a non-conference tilt.

The week's feature game in the Pine-to-Prairie conference will be the homecoming game at Fertile on Friday night. The Warren Ponies and the Fertile Falcons, along with the Bagley Flyers, are deadlocked for second place in the conference standings. Fertile, if it is to gain a share in the league championship, must defeat the high scoring Ponies on Friday night, and then defeat the conference-leading Ada Vikings on Wednesday night, October 13.

The Ada Vikings rolled over the Mahnomen Indians, 27 to 0, at Mahnomen on Friday night. Ken Pierce moved up in the individual scoring race, and in three games has tallied eight touchdowns and four conversion points to trail Warren's Peter Gilbert by three points, 55 to 52, for individual scoring honors.

Warren added prestige for the conference by scoring a 14 to 2 win over the Crookston Pirates of the Northwest conference in a game played at Warren on Saturday night.

Newfolden Dumps Greenbush; Wins First in 12 Games

Newfolden Nordics spoiled the Greenbush Tigers homecoming by downing the Tigers 6-0 in a game played on Friday. This broke an 11-game losing streak for the Nordics and planted the Tigers firmly on the bottom of the Top-of-the-State conference standings, both teams going into the game with an 0-3 record.

The Nordics scored the only down of the game in the second quarter when they put together a sustained drive with Jeff Merell carrying the ball for the TD. A pass from Merell to Larry Hanson slid off his fingertips on the try for the extra point.

The Nordics had another touchdown drive stopped on the Greenbush two yard line in the third quarter when they fumbled on fourth down with less than a yard to go for a first down.

The fourth quarter was all Greenbush offense with the Nordics stopping them for downs once on the eight yard line and again on the 14 yard line. The Nordics ran out the last minute with the quarterback just falling on the ball.

The Nordics did all their moving on the ground on the running of Leon Elseth, Jeff Merell, Deland Elseth and Jack Halvorson. They didn't complete a pass and had one intercepted.

Lyle Hagenbeck and Gary Hook were cited for their strong defensive work, making the bulk of the tackles, although there was much gang tackling.

The Nordics travel to Baudette on Friday where they will take on the Bears who are tied with Warroad for the conference lead at the present time. On Wednesday, October 13, they will entertain Argyle in the homecoming event for the Nordics.

SNOW GEESE rose into the air when their feeding foray in a grain field west of the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge was interrupted by a Times photographer recently. Farmers normally have little crop depredation problems from geese, since they are "grazing" birds and their numbers are far fewer than ducks. This year, however, geese have taken to grain fields to feed, causing considerable losses. Opening of the goose season last Saturday made the big birds more wary, and warmer weather without rain had permited some harvesting, giving farmers relief from the problem.

St. James Wins In Cross-Country Meet Held Here

St. James Royals of Grand Forks won the invitational cross-country meet held over the golf club course here on Tuesday afternoon. The St. James Squad edged out the Middle River Skippers by one point, 60 to 61. Other team total found the Grand Forks Central B squad scoring 73 points; the Thief River Falls Prowlers totaling 85 points; and Crookston Central Pirates scored 115 points as did the Fosston Greyhounds. Clearbrook had 206 points for seventh place.

Roger Jung of Crookston Central, the District 31 mile champion, had the low individual time, touring the course in 9:32. The two leading runners for coach Roger Solheim's Prowlers were Steve Naaben, who finished seventh, and Chuck Bedard, who finished twelfth.

In 'B' squad competion, with three teams competing, the Prowler B's scored 23 points, S. T. James B's had 37 points, while the Crookston Central B's had 103 points.

Coach Solheim will take his Prowler squad to Grand Forks on Saturday morning for an invitational meet. And on Tuesday, October 12, the Northwest Conference cross-country meet will be held at Roseau. Coach A. J. Kramer's Roseau Rams are the defending champions, having won the title last year with a total of 28 points. Bemidji was runnerup with 38 points, Crookston was third with 83 points and Thief River Falls had 102 points.

SO CLOSE and yet so far was this pass thrown by quarterback Tom Cummings to end Rod Carlson in Friday night's Prowler football game against Grand Forks Central. Carlson's leaping attempt for a reception was inches short as the pass fell incomplete.

Stock Investment Is Popular in This Area

Who invests in stock in Thief River Falls these days? What kinds of people are laying their money on the line, hoping to build a nest-egg for the future by sharing in the profits of some of America's publicly held companies? Are the patterns of personal investment programming any different here than elsewhere around the United States?

In the opinion of Richard Harris, a registered representative with a nationwide investment firm, the financial savings habits of people in this part of Minnesota bear a close resemblance to what is happening throughout the country.

Harris cited a number of "statistics" from a recently published report by the New York Stock Exchange, based on a three-year study of the American investor, to substantiate his comments this week while on a visit to Thief River Falls.

He has been coming here regularly for the past two years to meet and counsel with residents who have made stock market investing a regular part of their family financial program.

The great majority of shareowners in the Thief River Falls area like those elsewhere in the United States — look on investing as part of a broad family financial program, Harris said. Survey statistics show that:

88 per cent of all investors have savings accounts, 88 per cent have life insurance, 79 per cent own their own homes, 56 per cent have pension plans and 53 per cent have U. S. savings bonds.

The study, which showed that the number of persons owning stock in Minnesota has increased from 255,000 to 260,000 since 1962, also indicated that:

The number of minor children owning stock has nearly tripled in the last three years, largely because of legislative action — like the Minnesota uniform gifts-to-minors act — making it easier for parents and others to make gifts of stock to youngsters;

The largest single group of shareowners is still comprised of housewifes — who now number some 6,400,000, or 34.7 per cent of adult shareowners in the nation's approximately 20,000,000 investors;

Retired persons showed the highest percentage gain of any occupational classification in the last three years;

The biggest increase in share ownership has ocurred in cities with a population of less than 25,000, where 30 per cent of all investors now live;

The number of shareowners living on farms and rural areas has continued to decline, largely, Harris said, because of the drop in the total number of people living on farms and in rural areas. When the exchange's first study was made, in 1952, one out of every four investors lived in rural areas; today the figure is only 11 per cent.

There are more investors who are professional and technical persons now than in any other single occupational category, although just three years ago the top group was that of sales and clerical persons;

The median house hold income of the average investing family rose from $8,600 in 1962 to a new high of $9,500 this year (the average new shareowners annual income is $8,800); and there are now more shareowners in the $10,000—$15,000 income category than in any other group.

Production Credit Ass'ns. Grow Fast In Past 10 Years

Production Credit associations (PCAs) located in the Ninth district sustained a remarkable growth record during the 10-year period ended in 1964, the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis said today in its monthly economic review. Total PCA loan volume generated advanced from $112.8 million during 1955 to $392.2 million during 1964 — up 247 per cent.

The loan volume was accompanied by a doubling of the number of borrowers served in 1964 as compared with 1955, and an increase of 168 per cent in the average size of loan extended. Jack Sorenson is manager of the PCA office in Thief River Falls.

The farmer-owned PCAs, established by authorization of the Farm Credit Act of 1933, extend short-term credit for all types of farm and ranch operations. In 1964 PCA year-end outstandings to farmers amounted to just over 30 per cent of the farm loans outstanding in commercial banks, a figure which compares with a much less impressive 17 per cent in 1955.

Another measure of the rapidity of PCA expansion, according to the bank, is seen in the difference in the rate of change in the year-end outstanding loans of both banks and PCAs. Banks in the four full district states (Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota) expanded outstanding farm loans totals from $328.5 million on Dec. 31, 1955, to $786.1 million at the same date in 1964 — a gain of 139 per cent. The gain in outstanding loans for PCAs on the same comparison exhibited a change from $54.7 million to $235.5 million — up 352 per cent.

A comparison of the district totals (the four states only — northwestern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan are excluded) with those of the nation indicated roughly the same difference between banks and the PCAs.

Much of the rapid growth in PCA lending occurred in the early part of the 10-year period. A more detailed review of the latter four years — 1961-64 — indicated some let-up in the growth trend. According to the bank's review, the early rapid increase in the number of borrowers served suggests that the PCAs were filling an unsatisfied demand for farm credit. The stability in the latter years alludes to greater competition from other lenders and the decline in the number of farms in the district.

New method of stuffing turkey doubles amount of dressing capacity

If your family loves lots of dressing with their turkey or they can't quite agree on the type of dressing they like, then this new method of stuffing a turkey will certainly solve your problems. The whole trick is accomplished by utilizing the area between the breast meat and the skin covering the breast. It's really quite easy to do and, by providing two separate stuffing areas, you can make two types of dressing or just double the amount of dressing you normally serve.

Here is how you do it: Insert your fingers beneath the skin at the neck opening. Now — carefully work your fingers downward over the breast, gradually spreading your fingers and loosening the skin from the breast meat. Continue working the skin loose until you have loosened it down to the keel bone. Now you have a spacious pocket to hold the extra dressing. Hold the turkey upright and spoon or pour the dressing into this pocket. When it is filled, fasten the opening at the neck with a skewer or sew it shut. In addition to providing extra space for dressing, the breast-stuffing method also tends to keep the breast meat more moist.

When your turkey is done, make a cross slit over the breast and the dressing can be spooned out easily.

Metal Stud Tires Become Legal in State October 15

Tires with metal studs will become legal for use on Minnesota's streets and highways October 15, according to the Minnesota highway department. The 1965 Legislature authorized the use of such tires — intended to permit safer starts and stops on ice or compacted snow — for two trial periods this coming winter and next from October 15 through April 15.

On the basis of preliminary tests conducted last winter in Duluth and on I-94 easterly of St. Paul, it is believed that the damage to pavement surfaces will not be too severe that there should be an appreciable increase in the safety factor.

The department will study any damage to road surfaces which develops during the two trial periods, and will continue to make controlled tests at selected locations to secure additional data. A number of other states, as well as the highway research board, will also conduct studies, to it is hoped that sufficient information will be available to assist the 1967 legislature to determine whether or not studded tires should be legalized on a permanent basis for winter use.

McCarthy States Farm Bill Lacks Dairy Program

"The farm bill approved by the Senate is a very constructive measure and the programs will provide substantial assistance to farmers in their efforts to secure a fair return for their work and investment," Senator Eugene J. McCarthy stated recently.

Sen. McCarthy said the feed grain program is most important in itself for Minnesota and in its general bearing and effect upon livestock and poultry operations, since a sharp drop in feed prices would lead to overproduction of livestock and lower prices.

However, Sen. McCarthy said the weakness of the farm bill is that it does not contain a comprehensive dairy program.

The programs provided by the bill will not fully solve the farm income problem but will provide a floor from which to move with a variety of other means to improve farm income, Sen. McCarthy said.

The Senator pointed out that recent feed grain, wheat and cotton programs had been approved for only two years, creating doubt and insecurity about the future, and thereby limiting the effectiveness of the programs.

The four-year authorization in the present bill will dispel those fears and make it easier for farmers, processors and all related farm industries to plan with greater knowledge and confidence, Sen. McCarthy said.

Senator McCarthy expressed concern that the measure does not contain a board dairy program. He pointed out the return to dairy farmers has been discouragingly low for several years.

A large surplus continues to hang over the market and tends to keep the market price at the 75 per cent of parity support-level, Sen. McCarthy explained.

"I belive in God as I believe in my friends, because I feel the breath of His affection, feel His invisible and intangible hand, drawing me, leading me, grasping me; because I possess an inner consciousness of a particular providence and of a universal mind that marks out for me the course of my own destiny."

The "Average" Sportsman

It has been said with some degree of accuracy that individualism is becoming a thing of the past. There is general acceptance of the theory that a person must be "average", meet the "norm", join the "crowd" and "conform", Most activities and products are geared to the "average" *person and individuals seem willing to ac*cept the theory that they are "average" people.

This unfortunate hog-wash has slopped over into the sporting field and, for that matter, is nothing really new—only intensified. The goose season which opened last Saturday will attest to the popularity of unsportsmanlike conduct and joining the crowd.

Quoted in a Minneapolis paper, a Minneapolis sporting goods dealer said, "I have never seen so many law violations and the rudest, most unsportsmanlike conduct in 25 years of goose hunting . . . They started shooting a full hour before legal time . . . We had hunters dressed in red clothing walk out and stand next to our decoys and wait for geese—like scarecrows. One even shot at our decoys. They didn't pay attention to farmers' signs . . . Later we saw several hunters who had set up decoys not 50 feet from their cars on the road and were standing beside their cars waiting for geese. This is a completely new breed of hunters—the worst I have ever seen."

These may not have been "average" hunters, but the increase in number of these knuckle-heads indicates that the trend is in that direction. Most of them participate in hunting because it seems to be the thing to do, not because of any real love for the sport. Getting game is of primary importance and how this is accomplished is secondary—as long as it doesn't involve any work or planning.

Sensible goose hunters deplore the actions of the transient, ill-prepared and dim-witted opening weekend hunters. Their sky-busting nets them no birds but spoils field shooting for parties prepared with cover and decoys.

It seems as though conservation authorities cater to these "average" hunters in setting seasons and bag limits. The pheasant season was shortened this year although the department of conservation claims the vast majority of total birds taken are shot the first two weekends. The bag limit was reduced to "spread the kill among more hunters". In other words, hunters who work for their birds and enjoy the sport are being penalized in favor of the road hunters and the once-a-year, season-opening, "average" sportsmen. The same applies to other bird hunting seasons and bag limits.

In our opinion the "average" sportsmen who shoot before legal hours, who won't leave the road in search of game, who fire away at game from their cars, who hunt because it's "the thing to do" and who encroach on the hunting arrangements of others who have had the fore-thought to plan and work, are not deserving of this special consideration.

Urban Renewal

Thief River Falls is now in the process of attempting to be certified as eligible for urban renewal projects. Should the city be determined eligible, many people will be happy that Thief River Falls will qualify to have U. S. taxpayers' money (federal funds) spent here. Some claim that there is a dire need for urban renewal here. We doubt it.

We will agree, certainly, that there are buildings and areas of our city which are not attractive and which could be put to better use for other purposes. There is something to be said, too, for getting back part of the money which we send to Uncle Sam through his collection agency, the Internal Revenue service. But we also believe that the federal funds which may be spent here will only add to the cost of government and increase either our federal contributions or our staggering national debt.

Among the multitude of federal bureaus, agencies, authorities, administrations, services, societies, divisions and departments, the Urban Renewal administration is as open to criticism as any and more than some. Many cases have been cited of poor planning, unfair appraisals, inadequate compensation, graft among officials and other inequities. There is no good reason to believe that any or all of these things could not apply to Thief River Falls.

Recently cited was the destruction of the Metropolitan building in Minneapolis to create a parking lot. The owners of the building were receiving $300,000 in gross annual rentals and nearly $100,000 net profit from operations when the building was condemned. It was appraised at $740,000—a high price for a parking lot—while testimony at trial on the building was unanimous that it would cost approximately $5 million to reproduce the building.

Government witnesses admitted that such buildings are frequently sold at seven times gross rental—which would have been more than $2 million for the Met building. The wide differential in appraisal procedures in the name of Urban Renewal is not explained.

"Nation's Business" recently said, "Detroit housing and Urban Renewal officials express considerable agreement that the complaints, too, that compensation for a bulldozers have been pushing the businessmen around." It added " . . . there were bulldozed business failed to reflect the value of the enterprise, or at best fell far short of replacement costs."

When will the citizens of this nation realize that the sending of a dollar to Washington and getting back 50 cents on a matching basis is costing them money? When the government gives you back half of your own money to be used to buy your property at half value so it can be used for something else, the program doesn't sound so attractive. What realtor wouldn't like to have the power of condemnation?

It Takes Work

Sponsoring, organizing, promoting and conducting such an event as the Top of the Nation Dairy sale takes a good deal of work. There are more things to be done by more people in connection with the event than meets the eye when the sale is actually underway.

Events such as this sale, the purebred ram sale, Northwest Dairy Day, Pennington county fair and others have existed since their beginnings on volunteer labor by a number of dedicated people. It is to the credit of these people that the events are conducted in a professional manner and generally are successful operations.

What are some of the things that must be done for such a seemingly simple event as the October 14 Top of the Nation sale? Here are a few of them:

Cattle must be selected by D. H. I. A. dairymen and records checked and type approved by the sale manager. Sale ring and bleachers must be erected and a clean-up committee named. Animals which are consigned must be cleaned and trimmed to show to the best advantage. A night man must stay with the cattle overnight from Wednesday to Thursday since many of the animals are due to freshen near sale date and some may calve that night.

An auctioneer must be secured, men obtained to read pedigrees and records and make comments during the sale, serve as ringmen and leadsmen, clerk and sale and handle money. A veterinarian must be available, an information booth arranged and manned and catalogs prepared, printed and distributed.

A consignor's banquet is arranged each year by the agriculture committee of the local Chamber of Commerce, and invitations must be sent, meal preparations made and many people contacted. Princess Kay makes an annual appearance, and arrangements must be made for this. Publicity must be provided so that dairymen are aware of the sale. This work involves a large number of people, many with special talents and abilities, who serve entirely without pay or on merely an expense basis which rarely covers actual expense.

These volunteers feel their efforts are worthwhile when the events on which they work are successful. Success may be merely the promotion of dairy cattle and products, or sheep or the county and area, but if the objective is reached the volunteers are happy.

The Top of the Nation Dairy sale on October 14is the seventh annual event. It was organized to show the value of production in dairying and to indicate the correlation between type and production. It was also to provide a show window for the dairy farmers in this area where they can put the production records of their herds on display. And, not by any means least, it provides farmers with the opportunity to purchase high production cattle which will make money for them in their own herds.

Volunteers are hopeful that the sale October 14 will attract a large crowd of enthusiatic buyers. They will then be satisfied that their efforts were not in vain and their mission has been accomplished.

To the Farmers

The Plummer School fully realizes your situation as far as harvesting is concerned and desires to help you in anyway that we can.

We do not at present intend to close school on any given day but we will excuse any student who is helping with the harvest.

What we do want to know is that any student who is helping with the harvest will be excused from school whether he or she be working for the parents of anyone else.

Teacher Turnover Is Cited in MEA Survey

Reversing the curve from the year before, the teacher turnover last year in Minnesota's public schools was 12.6 per cent—up one half of one per cent. Last year's median turnover figure still was under the 13 per cent of the 1962-63 school year, however.

These are among the statistical facts revealed in the Minnesota Education association's latest published research booklet, the annual "Teacher Turnover in Minnesota Public Schools".

The MEA research department surveyed the state's graded elementary and secondary school districts, with responses received from 463 of 481 districts — a 96.3 per cent return.

Reason for the study, according to Robert S. Reed, MEA's new research director: "A problem of vital concern to Minnesota school officials, interested citizenry and educational leaders is the necessity of having qualified teachers in the classrooms to prepare our youth for the complex life they face in this modern age. A portion of this concern falls in the area of teacher turnover."

The term "turnover" generally has to do with teachers changing jobs and the number employed to fill the vacancies.

The four major factors considered in the study were: (1) school size, (2) median salary of classroom teachers, (3) existence of salary schedules and (4) existence of adequate housing conditions.

Most often given reason for teachers leaving the profession were marriage or return to homemaking.

Reed cites two other significant indications in the survey:

Schools with salary schedules generally have less teacher turnover than those without—with schedules, 12.3 per cent; without schedules, 17.5 per cent; a difference of 5.2 per cent.

Schools in communities with adequate housing generally have less turnover than those without—with adequate housing, 12.1 per cent; without adequate housing, 17 per cent; a difference of 4.9 per cent.

Reed cites other highlights of the survey as follows:

Of the 463 reporting districts, 400 (88.6 per cent) have salary schedules; "Each year the number increases and, more and more, smaller schools find it advantageous to adopt good, sound salary schedules because teachers appreciate systematic pay scales when they enter systems. School boards and administrators find them useful, too, because they make budget projections easier."

Schools with higher median salaries—"logically enough"—tend to hold a greater percentage of their teachers.

Larger schools tend to hold their teachers longer than do smaller schools.

Brainerd School Opens Psychiatric Technician Class

A second class of 25 psychiatric technician trainees will begin at the Brainerd state school and hospital November 15. Any person interested in these positions should call the switchboard of the hospital, 829-2815, at any time between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. or from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. on any day. He will be mailed an application form for immediate return and will be summoned for a test. Beginning salary for all trainees is $270 per month.

The course includes 800 hours of pre-service schooling and training during a five-month period. At the end of the five months the state examination for the position of Psychiatric Technician I is taken and, if passed, entitles the worker to the new wage of $292 per month. Total range in civil service for this position is $292 $356. All tests and interviews of applicants must be completed by October 30.

The hiring of technician trainees is based on the increased appropriation by the last state legislature which had the purpose of improved in state institutions.

Thermal Underwear by Munsingwear.

Norse and other Scandinavian fishermen traditionally threw their fish nets over their backs for warmth after a day's fishing. From this practice came Munsingwear's THERMAL UNDERWEAR for the outdoor worker and sportsman . . . made with a knit waffle pattern that traps the air . . . and prevents evaporation by lateral body movement.

Finished with Munsingwear's accustomed care, this underwear gives full coverage; has (1) elastic waistband, (2) stretchy seat which stretches when you bend, (3) taped shoulders and (4) double cuffs.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We have newer and finer schools than ever before. This is one of the marks of progress.

But another is that we have more and faster automobiles than ever before.

So we guard each "school zone" with signs and safety patrols and policemen and volunteers. We do this to protect our children from the dangers of progress, while they are enjoying the fruits of progress.

The dangers of progress are not always physical. Many are moral. They threaten the character and faith of a rising generation, caught in the erratic tempo of modern life.

Happily, in every community of our land, PARENTS and CHURCHES are joining hands to promote the spiritual development of youth . . . to protect the souls of our children.

Dyrdal Home Has Chimney Fire

Neighbors were summoned to the L. E. Dyrdal home about 6 p.m. Saturday to help put out a roaring chimney fire. First believed to be the noise of a jet plane. The alarm was quickly phoned by Mrs. Donavan Dyrdal, a daughter-in-law as intense smoke almost immediately began to billow through the house. Fire was confined to the basement, and first floor portion of the chimney due to the use of bags of stock salt and a basement water hose, so smoke and water damage was the most serious results. Those who responded to the call were Elton and Martin Solseng Jr., George Joyce, and Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Lewis and Timmy. The womenfolk prepared coffee and sandwiches for the men after the excitement died down.

Mrs. Daryl Lewis and Timmy visited with Mrs. Lietzow and Mrs. Anna Mossestad at the Alvin Lietzow home for awhile early Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Mossestad arrived at the Lietzow home last week to spend an indefinite time.

Eldred Ayers of Washington, D. C. arrived last week to visit his brother and sister and families, the Dale Ayers, and the Paul Furuseths of Sanders.

L. E. Dyrdal returned to Thief River Falls by bus Wednesday after having accompanied Laverne Johnson on his return trip to Tioga, N.D. early Monday.

Mrs. Wallace Lamb and children of Warren visited with Mrs. Marion Hoglo on Wednesday.

Dick Hoglo of Thief River Falls was a Thursday supper guest at the Daryl Lewis home. Dewaine Johnson was a forenoon luncheon guest the same day.

How's Your Health?
(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Whenever you are confronted with a sore throat that does not respond to mild treatment with salt water gargles and asprin, get in touch with your doctor without delay, advises the Minnesota State Medical Association.

Since there are between 15 and 20 kinds of sore throats, it is not enough to go to your doctor and say "give me a shot of penicillin for this sore throat". It is important for the doctor to know the type of throat infection involved before prescribing treatment. This may require special throat cultures or other laboratory tests.

The simple sore throat or acute pharyngitis is the most common type. Low fever, headache, backache, throat pain and general weakness are the most common symptoms. Salt water gargles and aspirin are the usual forms of treatment.

High fever and swollen neck glands are the characteristic signs of tonsillitis, another common type of sore throat. Although tonsillitis is ordinarily considered a childhood ailment, this is not always the case. Tonsillitis responds to penicillin.

A streptococcic sore throat is a very severe and specific type of bacterial infection. It does respond to penicillin but sore throats caused by viral infections do not.

Laryngitis is the extension of an acute sore throat down into the voice box and vocal cords. It is quite common among persons who are required to use their voices under stress much of the time. Complete rest for the body, throat and voice is the best form of treatment.

Quinsy is a severe infection of the tissues surrounding the tonsils. Abscess formation is nearly always present. Penicillin and other antibiotics are helpful but often surgical incision into the abscess is the only successful treatment.

The taking of certain types of medicine can cause sore throats. Likewise certain foods we eat and the substances we inhale can cause allergic sore throats. Treatment includes withdrawing the offending foods or substances and supervises use of one of the medically prescribed anti-histamine drugs.

Thankfully, childhood immunization has all but eliminated the highly critical form of sore throat associated with diptheria. Because many different germs and diseases may be responsible for sore throats, a careful history and examination by a doctor may be more economic than the money spent for wrong and costly medications or useless and even harmful forms of treatment, concludes the Association.

Early ambulation after surgery means getting out of bed as soon as possible, usually in the first twenty-four hours following an operation, explains the Minnesota State Medical Association.

In the past, the thought of spending days and even weeks in bed following surgery inspired needless fear in the minds of persons planning to undergo an operation. Generally getting out of bed and walking about is effective in the convalescence of the surgery patient. Prolonged bed rest after an operation may exaggerate undesirable physiological changes and thereby increase the possibility of critical complications during convalescence. When this occurs there may be increased vomiting, gas pains and constipation. The bladder may not function properly.

Breathing complications may result from prolonged bed rest following surgery. About one half of complications involving the heart have been found to occur within 24 hours following an operation, and other complications of the circulatory system.

The development of modern surgical techniques and the methods of securing the wound combined with excellent anesthetic facilities have also assisted the cause of early ambulation.

When the operative wound has been properly secured there is little danger of disruption of the mending process.

How does early ambulation begin? The patient with the assistance of nurses and or the physician moves to the side of the bed where he is helped to a sitting position with the feet swung over the side of the bed. Next the patient is encouraged to step to the floor and walk to a nearby chair and sit there for a few minutes. So much for the first attempt. The next attempts will be for longer periods of time. With each attempt to get out of bed the patient is encouraged to breathe deeply to minimize the danger of pulmonary complications including pneumonia and also the formation of blood clots.

Exceptions to the rule of early ambulation may be the seriously injured patient or the patient whose recovery may be complicated by a bacterial infection or other disrupting factors. Such cases may require complete bed rest. The patient can rely upon the surgeon's judgement.

Accidents are today's number one child killer, according to the Minnesota State Medical association. More than 10,000 children aged 1 to 24 die annually as the result of accidents. This means that accidents now kill more children than the seven deadliest childhood diseases combined (polio, heart disease, tuberculosis, pneumonia, leukemia, kidney and intestinal diseases). In addition, more than a million children are severely injured and more than two million require a doctor's care.

According to one recent estimate, about 36 per cent of the fatal childhood accidents are due to driving accidents, more than 28 per cent die as the result of fire, approximately 12 per cent from drowning, over 5 per cent from poisons. Falling and choking fatalities each account for more than 4 per cent of the total. Ironically more than 90 per cent of these accidents could have been prevented if parents or adults had used common sense or taken a moment longer to remove or correct the cause of the accident.

To prevent driver fatalities involving children, parents can set the proper example by driving as if they were teaching the child to drive. At all times the adult must also think for the child. This means watching out for a child who may be playing in front of or behind a car in a driveway. It also means making certain that all doors and windows are closed. Children should be taught as soon as possible always to cross at a crossing, to obey traffic lights, to look both ways and never to hitch hike or accept rides from strangers.

While fires kill over 4,000 children each year, those figures do not account for the thousands who are permanently scarred or injured each year. Children should be taught as soon as possible the meaning of "hot". They should be shown with discretion, for example, that a stove is hot, that a cigarette burns, that a match ignites a fire. They should be instructed that fire used sensibly, in a fire place, a stove or a hot toaster can benefit them. They should be properly taught what to do in case of a fire.

To prevent poisoning accidents, keep poisons out of the reach of children, capped, plainly labeled and locked up.

It doesn't take much water for a child to drown. If you are called away from the child's bath, take the child with you or place him in the crib.

Education for safety is time well spent by parents with their children. Teach the child to do it safely and set a good example, concludes the association.

OPINION will vary as to whether the photo above illustrates a dream or a nightmare. Duck hunters will agree that a huge flock of ducks is a beautiful sight. Owners of grain fields where these concentrations of birds are feeding agree that they are as welcome as the plague. This picture was taken on an overcast evening just west of the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge. Only part of the flack, estimated at 8,000 to 10,000, is visible in this picture. After wheeling into the air, the ducks merely circled and dropped back into the field as the Times photographer was leaving.

Yard'n'Garden

E. Dudley Hasn — Orrin C. Turnquist
University of Minnesota
Agricultural Extension Service

The garden season dictates the sort of things we must do in the fall. Such jobs as storing tender bulbs, cleaning up the garden, preparing the compost pile are essential to good garden practice.

Careful storage of bulbs can save the garden many dollars in bulb replacement. Selection, curing and storage conditions are all important to kee bulbs satisfactorily until next spring.

Gladiolus corms should be cured before storing. Place them on shallow trays or spread them evenly on burlap until the foliage is dried and the outer skin of the corm this time. Then place the glads in storage where there is good air circulation and dust with a five per cent DDT dust to control thrips. The storage temperature should be between 33 degrees and 40 degrees F.

Dahlia roots should be partially dried and then packed in moist sand or wood shevings. They prefer a cool, moist storage of 40 degrees F. Tuberous Begonias can be stored in the pot or they can be removed and stored similarly to the dahlias.

The fall of the year is a good time to clean up the garden. If you've had disease and insect problems, remove all of the trash and destroy it by burning. At the same time dig the soil to loosen it and destroy any insects which tend to winter over in the garden soil.

Composting in the fall can provide good source of organic matter next spring. To build the compost pile put the organic material in a 4-foot square. For each 6-inch layer of leaves, add about 1 inch of soil. Along with the soil add 2 to 3 pounds of a complete fertilizer. Keep the center of the pile lower than the edges and water occasionally. Next spring you will have a ready source of organic matter for soil preparation.

Shrubs for landscape purposes can be transplanted in the fall of the year. However, it is often necessary to take steps to protect the shrubs to carry them through the first winter successfully. Deciduous shrubs should usually be planted after they begin to show signs of dormancy. Plant evergreens early enough so that they will establish a good root system before the ground freezes this fall. All container-grown nursery materials can be planted successfully in the fall of the year.

Care in the planting gives greater success in the long run. It is essential that the planting hole be properly excavated. Be sure that the hole is large enough to allow for a good reservoir of water and for good root development. If the soil is especially heavy, make a good sized hole and fill it with good top soil.

When you set the shrub in the hole, spread the roots out carefully so they become in contact with soil makes it possible for the shrub to take up water more easily and provides better anchorage. Firm the soil next to the roots either by tapping or by walking on the soil after the hole is filled. After filling the hole, soak the soil thoroughly with water.

If you plant a shrub or tree in very light soil, make the watering hole below grade. If the shrub is planted on a heavier soil, the fill around the hole should be raised to slightly above grade to prevent water from draining into the planting hole itself. However, leave a rim to allow for hand watering.

In planting evergreens it's not necessary to remove the burlap wrapping around the shrub. After the shrub is placed in the hole the burlap can be peeled back so it is below the soil surface. The burlap should not be removed before the shrub is placed in the hole. The purpose of the burlap is to hold the soil ball intact during the planting process.

Often it is a good idea to use a light mulch around the newly planted trees and shrubs during freezing of the soil and also to delay freezing so that roots will develop later in the fall.

Foreign Sugar Lobbyists Are Subject To Debate

"At long last we in the House of Representatives will have a great opportunity to curtail control of sugar legislation by the Washington lobbyists who represent foreign nations," said Congressman Odin Langen.

Langen, who noted that the rules comitee will allow debate on an amendment designed to eliminate foreign sugar lobbyists, said that "sugar legislation is strictly the business of the people of the United States, and the halls of Congress should be rid of these sugarsweet and sticky parasites. They have too long dictated the contents of sugar bils."

"When the lobbying amendment is debated, we should be given the true reasons why nine nations, represented by lobbyists, are to receive quotas for the first time, and why one country that has never raised sugar before will be given a quota. These and many other questions must be thoroughly aired when the sugar bill comes up for House action. As I have recommended for a number of years, such a debate has been long overdue and I am delighted that the House rules committee has opened the door for this debate," Langen said.

Punt, Pass, Kick Registration To Close on Friday

Bill Herzog, competition director for Thief River Falls Punt, Pass and Kick competition open to boys 8 through 13, has warned that only a few days remain in which area boys can register for this event. Headquarters for PP&K registration is at Tunberg Motor company. Registrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. There is no charge and no special equipment is needed. Competitors will vie with others their own age in punting, passing and place kicking distance and accuracy. There is no body contact.

Queries and Answers On Taxes Are Given

This column of questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters is provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Q—I've just reached an agreement with your Appellate division on some business expenses I took. How can I be sure that somebody higher up than the man I dealt with won't reopen my case and ask for more in taxes?

A—Agreements reached with appellate are final. Cases are not reopened unless there is evidence of fraud, malfeasance, concealment, misrepresentation of facts or an important mathematical mistake.

Q—I read recently that IRS arrested two fellows for failing to have a gambling stamp. Who is required to have these stamps?

A—All persons who accept wages such as in a numbers game or who take bets on horse races, baseball games and other sporting events are required to register and purchase a $50 special occupational tax stamp annually. This requirement includes employees who accept wages for their boss as well as the boss himself. There is also a 10 per cent excise tax on the gross amount of bets accepted.

Payment of these federal wagering taxes does not exempt any person from any penalty provided by a law of the United States or of any state for engaging in wagering.

Q—When is the next installment due on my estimated tax?

A—It is due September 15.

Q—I joined a country club this summer so I would have a suitable place to entertain my clients. Will my dues be deductible?

A — "Entertainment Facilities" come under special rules. For any part of the dues to be deductible, you must show that during the year over 50 per cent of the use of the facility—the club—was for business purposes. If you qualify under the 50 per cent rule, then you can deduct the pro rata portion of your dues that is a "directly related" trade or business expense. Out-of-pocket costs of business entertaining would be deductible under usual entertainment rules.

Q—I make less than $3,000 yet my return was audited this year. Why do you bother to examine the returns of small income taxpayers when the correction of errors and omissions produces so little additional tax revenue?

A—In the administration of the tax laws, the Revenue Service seeks to assure each taxpayer that he pays neither more nor less than is required of him. Regardless of the amount of income, some returns are selected for audit as a pattern to test and measure this standard of compliance. The fact that a possible adjustment to a return is small is never a reason in itself for not examining the return. No taxpayer should feel that his return is exempt for examination.

Q—We hired a tutor to help our son make up some work in school. Do we have to pay Social Security on what we pay him?

A—If the tutor comes into your home to teach your son a special subject he would probably be considered an independent contractor, like a lawyer or doctor. Therefore his fees would not be subject to withholding for Social Security by you. A music teacher would also come in this category and you would not have to withhold here either.

Q—I just got a divorce from my wife. What's my tax situation now? Can I deduct alimony, child support payments, legal fees, and medical expenses I pay for my children?

A—You may deduct alimony if you itemize deductions. Child support payments are not deductible and neither are your legal fees. The medical expenses you pay for your children may be deducted by you if your children qualify as dependents, even though you could not get an exemption because he or she had income exceeding $600 or filed a joint return with his or her spouse.

Lump sum settlements are not deductible.

Q—An adoption agency just placed a child in our home. Do we have to wait until the adoption papers are final before we can claim her as a dependent?

A—No, you do not have to wait if the child was placed in your home by an authorized adoption agency for legal adoption.

New Varieties of Chrysanthemums Are Developed

Two new garden chrysanthemums, a white and a rose-pink, have been developed by University of Minnesota horticulturists especially for Minnesota and other northern climates where early blooming is essential. Plants of the two new varieties, named Cream Top and Minnrose, will be available from nurseries in Minnesota and other states for planting next spring.

Cream Top produces fully double, three-inch white blooms with yellow centers. Mature plants are close to 24 inches high and 24 inches wide when grown in full sun. An excellent flower for cutting, Cream Top starts blooming by Mid-September.

Minnrose is a double, rose-pink cushion-type chrysanthemum tinged with gold in the center. It is especially adapted for use as an edging plant in the border. Flowering usually begins the second week of September. A profusion of one and one-half inch flowers on rigid stems completely hides the foliage. Mature plants are 12 inches high and 25 inches wide when grown in full sun.

Introduction of Cream Top and Minnrose brings to 47 the number of varieties of garden chrysanthemums developed by University of Minnesota horticulturists for northern climates.

Miscellaneous Report 64, "Cream Top and Minnrose—New Chrysanthemums for 1966", gives more information on the new introductions and contains a listing of the most popular University of Minnesota chrysanthemum varieties. Copies are available free of charge from Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

Bids will be opened November 2 at 1:30 p.m. Labor for the bridge will be provided by the county.

NW Bell Starts Work on Service Projects in Area

Northwestern Bell Telephone company has started work on two service improvement and expansion projects in the Thief River Falls area, J. M. Wilson, manager, said today. Total cost of the two projects is over $70,000.

When completed, the new facilities will make it possible to serve approximately 90 new subscribers in a 50-square-mile area north and east of Thief River Falls. It is expected that the entire project should be completed early next year.

Wilson said Northwestern Bell Telephone company will assume responsibility for serving customers in the new areas by mutual agreement with the Excel Rural Telephone company and the Riverside Rural Telephone company.

Most of the cable and wire facilities will be placed underground right up to the customer's door. A cable plow that digs a trench, pays out the cable and covers it all in one continuous operation will be used for the project.

Construction work on the two projects involves placing more than 28 miles of cable varying in size from six to 100 pairs of telephone wires and 23 miles of buried wire.

Last step in the work will be the rewiring of subscribers homes and installation of new telephones. Wilson said a telephone company representative will contact each new subscriber to help plan telephone service that will fit the customer's needs.

Goodridge School Lyceum Program Scheduled Today

"Reptiles of North America," a program of wide scientific appeal, will be presented in Goodridge high school today (Monday) at 3 p.m. Presenting the program will be Chuck Bindner, who was formerly associated with the Ross Allen Reptile Institute at Silver Springs, Fla. While in college, Bindner majored in field zoology, which led to work as a state field naturalist. He has been active in the area of research and has personally extracted venom from more than 9,000 poisonous snakes. Much of this venom was used in the production of serum for snake bite. Although he takes the greatest possible precautions, Bindner has suffered two serious bites in recent years, both inflicted by the eastern diamondback rattler. American Crystal Beet Plant Opens At Drayton, N.D.

American Crystal Sugar company's new plant at Drayton, N. D., is now in full operation after making adjustments during the first several weeks of processing. The plant operates on a 24-hour per day basis.

Several thousands tons of beets were already piled on the grounds of the new plant a week ago. The plant is located just north of Drayton. Starting last week farmers throughout the area began day and night harvest, working two shifts from noon to midnight and midnight to noon.

Jack O'Leary, agricultural manager for the plant, said he expects some 3,600 truckloads per day to arrive at the plant from a four-county area. Railroad loading stations in outlying areas will ship about 1,300 carloads of beets a week into the plant.

BRITTLE FINGERNAILS AND GELATIN

Q. Is it true that the taking of gelatin benefits brittle fingernails?

A. Claims have been made that daily doses of gelatin will overcome nail brittleness but as one Philadelphia specialist said, "This is hard to believe." One rather elaborate study showed that nail hardness, determined from nail clippings, was substantially increased after one month of gelatin "treatment." Since it takes three months for nails to grow, the nail clippings which supposedly showed increased hardness were from portions of nails produced two months prior to the administration of gelatin! It's safe to say that those who advocate this remedy have not proved its effectiveness beyond reasonable doubt.

PATERNITY

Q. Is it scientifically possible to identify the father of a child beyond any doubt whatsoever?

A. No. However, paternity tests can, in many cases, exclude the man as the father of the child. The fact that the tests fail to exclude the man is not necessarily accepted as evidence that he is the father of the child in question.

1964 Vital Statistics Show Fewest Births in Decade

Smallest number of live births was registered in Minnesota in 1964 than in any year since 1950, acording to the 1964 vital statistics report prepared by the section of vital statistics, Minnesota Department of Health. In 1964 Minnesota births totaled 77,204, the fifth consecutive annual decrease.

The crude birth rate for the year was 21.9 per 1,000 population, compared to 23.1 per 1,000 population in 1963. In 1961, the peak year, the crude birth rate was 26.6.

This decline in the birth rate has ocurred throughout the nation. The provisional 1964 birth rate for the nation is 21.2 per 1,000 population, slightly below Minnesota's rate.

In the five-year period 1959-1964, during which Minnesota has experienced a continuous annual decline in the number of births registered, crease in the number of births registered only seven countries have shown an increase in total resident births—Anoka, Benton, Carver, Dakota, Scott, Sherburne, and Washington. The increase in these seven countries is primarily due to a high rate of population growth.

The number and rate of illegitimate births continued to rise, both reaching all-time highs in 1964. The 3,655 illegitimate births occurring in Minnesota in 1964 compare with 3,226 in 1963 and 2,965 in 1962. The illegitimate birth rate of 47.3 per 1,000 live births in 1964 compares with rates of 40.1 in 1963 and 34.9 in 1962. Only 9.6 per cent of all resident mothers were under 20 years of age; 39.7 per cent of the mothers of illegitimate babies were under 20 years.

The total number of deaths registered in 1964 (33,738) and the resident death total (32,983) were the largest number of deaths ever recorded in Minnesota for a single year. In each case the crude death rate was the same as it had been in 1963—9.6 per 1,000 population for all deaths occurring in the state and 9.5 for Minnesota residents.

Of the resident death total, 19,113 (57.9 per cent) were male. In every age category except that for 85 years and over, there were more male than female deaths. This excess of male over female deaths shows up even in fetal deaths. Of the 916 fetal deaths in 1964, 51 per cent were males.

The 15 leading causes of death accounted for 91.8 per cent of the resident deaths. In rank order they were: heart disease, cancer, vascular lesions affecting the central nervous system (strokes), accidents, pneumonia and influenza, diseases of early infancy, general arteriosclerosis, diabetes mellitus, other diseases of the circulatory system, other bronchopulmonic diseases, suicide, congenital malformations, cirrhosis of the liver, ulcer of the stomach and duodenum, and hernia and intestinal obstruction. More than two-thirds (67.9 per cent) of the deaths were caused by heart disease, cancer and strokes.

Heart disease accounted for 37.8 per cent (12,486) of all resident deaths. Cancer, the second leading cause of death, accounted for 16.6 per cent (5,476) of all resident deaths. The 1964 cancer death rate of 155.5 per 100,000 population is the highest ever recorded. Vascular lesions afecting the central nervous system (Strokes), the third leading cause of death in 1964, accounted for 13.5 per cent (4,444) of the total resident deaths.

Accidents, the fourth leading cause of death, accounted for 5.9 per cent (1,958) of all resident deaths. Approximately two-thirds of the accidental deaths were caused by motor vehicle accidents and falls. Accidents were the leading cause of death for persons from 1 through 34 years of age.

(In addition to acidents, 1964 that other violent deaths were the result of suicide (358) and homicide (54). Suicide and self-inflicted injury occurred among persons from 10 to 85 years of age, with firearms the most comonly used means of injury (166). The 54 victims of homicide and injuries purposely inflicted by other persons include 12 children (22 per cent) from under 1 to 19 years of age. Of the 2,370 violent deaths due to accidents, suicide, and homicide, 70.4 per cent (1,669) were males.)

Pneumonia and influenza, the fifth leading cause of death, accounted for 3.6 per cent (1,191) of the 1964 resident deaths. Of the 1,474 deaths that ocurred in Minnesota in 1964 as the result of any of the 46 comunicable diseases reportable to the state health department, all but 364 deaths were due to pneumonia.

There were 1,577 resident infant deaths in 1964. The rate of 20.5 per 1,000 live births is the lowest on record. Of these infant deaths, 1,208 died within one month of birth; 1,105 during the first week of live; and 776 within 24 hours of birth. The infant death rate for males (23.1) was 30 per cent higher than for females (17.7 per 1,000 female births).

During 1964 there were 25,453 marriages and 5,100 divorces in Minnesota. Marriage and divorce rates have been relatively stable in recent years, although the 1964 divorce rate of 1.4 per 1,000 population is the highest since 1948 when the rate was 1.6. Peak rate for divorces was in 1946 with a rate of 1.8.

Most of the marriages ocurred among persons in the age group 20-24 years; 13,606 of the grooms were in this age group as were 11,651 brides. At the other end of the life span, 106 brides and 237 grooms were 75 years of age or over.

Highway 59 Tour To Winnipeg Set For October 23

the Chamber of Commerce office for travel arrangements. Distance from Thief River Falls to Winnipeg on highway 59 is less than 140 miles.

Arrangements for the tour were made by a group of interested local citizens who made a trip to Winnipeg for that purpose recently. They include William LaFave, Dr. A. E. Jacobson, Randall Nopper, Russell Embury and Richard Hamilton.

Members of the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce transportation committee are W. E. Dahlquest, Vernon Erickson, Embury, Hugh Carlson, S. E. Sinding, R. J. Dryden, Lloyd Quesnell, LaFave and D. H. Stewart.

In discussing the highway 59 tour recently, LaFave noted that completion of the final section of road will make highway 59 the shortest route from Winnipeg to the Twin Cities. Bituminous surfacing the entire length of the highway provides a much more comfortable ride than the concrete sections of highway 75, and highway 59 is more sheltered, permitting travel during the winter when highway 75 is easily blocked or vision is reduced to zero, LaFave noted.

Carlson Herd Is Tops in County DHIA in August

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association, lsts the following herds as the top 10 in the association for the month of August:

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

There were 25 herds on test with the association during August with a total of 72 cows and an average of 31 cows per herd, 8 per cent of which were milking. The average amount of milk produced tested 3.6 per cent fat. This amounted to 31.1 pounds of per cow.

Nineteen cows finished with over 500 pounds butterfat during the testing year, in 365-day or less lactation. They were owned by the following D.H.I.A. members with records listed:

She was active in the school chorus and worked on the annual staff. She was also a National Honor Society member and received the D.A.R. award.

Warren Man Hurt In Freak Mishap

R. A. Wood of Warren was critically injured in a freak highway acident September 29 and is now under treatment in a Fargo hospital. Wood received a concussion and a fractured skull when he fell out of a pickup onto the concrete highway about three miles south of Warren on Highway 75. He has been in a coma since the mishap.

Wood was riding in the rear of a pickup driven by William Cleveland of Warren headed north on Highway 75. As the vehicle approached a township road intersection, Harold (Bud) Golden, a rural mail carrier, was waiting in another auto for traffic on the highway to clear.

Unknown to Cleveland, the right turn signal of his pickup was blinking, which led Golden to believe that the Cleveland vehicle intended to turn onto the road on which he was waiting. As the pickup approached, Golden proceeded onto the highway. Cleveland applied his breakes, and with both vehicles moving at a slow rate of speed, the Cleveland pickup skidded and turned slightly so that the rear bumpers of both pickups collided.

Neither vehicle was damaged, but the impact caused Wood to fall from the pickup box, striking his head on the pavement.

Sheldon Erickson Cow Produces 1,009 Lbs. Fat

A five-year-old Holstein cow owned by Sheldon Erickson of Badger has completed a 305-day lactation with butterfat production only 75 pounds under the state record, acording to the Badger Enterprise. The cow produced 26,240 pounds of milk at 3.9 per cent test for 1,009 pounds of fat. Minnesota record is 1,084 pounds of fat.

In addition to high production, the cow has good Holstein type, winning competition at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls and the Roseau county fair this year. She was fed the same feed and concentrate as the other cows in the herd and fed according to recomendations furnished by the Dairy Herd Improvement association processing center in St. Paul.

The Erickson dairy herd has been represented at Northwest Dairy Day annually since its inception and individual animals have claimed a number of breed and overall championships. Andy Erickson, Sheldon's father, is a member of the board of directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement assocaition, sponsor of Dairy Day here.

BRITTLE FINGERNAILS AND GELATIN

Q. Is it true that the taking of gelatin benefits brittle fingernails?

A. Claims have been made that daily doses of gelatin will overcome nail brittleness but as one Philadelphia specialist said, "This is hard to believe." One rather elaborate study showed that nail hardness, determined from nail clippings, was substantially increased after one month of gelatin "treatment." Since it takes three months for nails to grow, the nail clippings which supposedly showed increased hardness were from portions of nails produced two months prior to the administration of gelatin! It's safe to say that those who advocate this remedy have not proved its effectiveness beyond reasonable doubt.

PATERNITY

Q. Is it scientifically possible to identify the father of a child beyond any doubt whatsoever?

A. No. However, paternity tests can, in many cases, exclude the man as the father of the child. The fact that the tests fail to exclude the man is not necessarily accepted as evidence that he is the father of the child in question.

1964 Vital Statistics Show Fewest Births in Decade

Smallest number of live births was registered in Minnesota in 1964 than in any year since 1950, acording to the 1964 vital statistics report prepared by the section of vital statistics, Minnesota Department of Health. In 1964 Minnesota births totaled 77,204, the fifth consecutive annual decrease.

The crude birth rate for the year was 21.9 per 1,000 population, compared to 23.1 per 1,000 population in 1963. In 1951, the peak year, the crude birth rate was 26.6.

This decline in the birth rate has ocurred throughout the nation. The provisional 1964 birth rate for the nation is 21.2 per 1,000 population, slightly below Minnesota's rate.

In the five-year period 1959-1964, during which Minnesota has experienced a continuous annual decrease in the number of births registered, in the number of births registered only seven countries have shown an increase in total resident births—Anoka, Benton, Carver, Dakota, Scott, Sherburne, and Washington. The increase in these seven countries is primarily due to a high rate of population growth.

The number and rate of illegitimate births continued to rise, both reaching all-time highs in 1964. The 3,655 illegitimate births occurring in Minnesota in 1964 compare with 3,220 in 1963 and 2,965 in 1962. The illegitimate birth rate of 47.3 per 1,000 live births in 1964 compares with rates of 40.1 in 1963 and 34.9 in 1962. Only 9.6 per cent of all resident mothers were under 20 years of age; 39.7 per cent of the mothers of illegitimate babies were under 20 years.

The total number of deaths registered in 1964 (33,738) and the resident death total (32,983) were the largest number of deaths ever recorded in Minnesota for a single year. In each case the crude death rate was the same as it had been in 1963—9.6 per 1,000 population for all deaths occurring in the state and 9.5 for Minnesota residents.

Of the resident death total, 19,113 (57.9 per cent) were male. In every age category except that for 85 years and over, there were more male than female deaths. This excess of male over female deaths shows up even in fetal deaths. Of the 916 fetal deaths in 1964, 51 per cent were males.

The 15 leading causes of death accounted for 91.8 per cent of the resident deaths. In rank order they were: heart disease, cancer, vascular lesions affecting the central nervous system (strokes), accidents, pneumonia and influenza, diseases of early infancy, general arteriosclerosis, diabetes mellitus, other diseases of the circulatory system, other bronchopulmonic diseases, suicide, congenital malformations, cirrhosis of the liver, ulcer of the stomach and duodenum, and hernia and intestinal obstruction. More than two-thirds (67.9 per cent) of the deaths were caused by heart disease, cancer and strokes.

Heart disease accounted for 37.8 per cent (12,486) of all resident deaths; Cancer, the second leading cause of death, accounted for 16.6 per cent (5,478) of all resident deaths. The 1964 cancer death rate of 155.5 per 100,000 population is the highest ever recorded. Vascular lesions afecting the central nervous system (Strokes), the third leading cause of death in 1964, accounted for 13.5 per cent (4,444) of the total resident deaths.

Accidents, the fourth leading cause of death, accounted for 5.9 per cent (1,958) of all resident deaths. Approximately two-thirds of the accidental deaths were caused by motor vehicle accidents and falls. Accidents were the leading cause of death for persons from 1 through 34 years of age.

(In addition to acidents, 1964 that other violent deaths were the result of suicide (358) and homicide (54). Suicide and self-inflicted injury occurred among persons from 10 to 85 years of age, with firearms the most comonly used means of injury (166). The 54 victims of homicide and injuries purposely inflected by other persons include 12 children (22 per cent) from under 1 to 19 years of age. Of the 2,370 violent deaths due to accidents, suicide, and homicide, 70.4 per cent (1,669) were males.)

Pneumonia and influenza, the fifth leading cause of death, acounted for 3.6 per cent (1,191) of the 1964 resident deaths. Of the 1,474 deaths that ocurred in Minnesota in 1964 as the result of any of the 46 comunicable diseases reportable to the state health department, all but 364 deaths were due to pneumonia.

There were 1,577 resident infant deaths in 1964. The rate of 20.5 per 1,000 live births is the lowest on record. Of these infant deaths, 1,208 died within one month of birth; 1,105 during the first week of live; and 776 within 24 hours of birth. The infant death rate for males (23.1) was 30 per cent higher than for females (17.7 per 1,000 female births).

During 1964 there were 25,453 marriages and 5,100 divorces in Minnesota. Marriage and divorce rates have been relatively stable in recent years, although the 1964 divorce rate of 1.4 per 1,000 population is the highest since 1948 when the rate was 1.6. Peak rate for divorces was in 1946 with a rate of 1.8.

Most of the marriages ocurred among persons in the age group 20-24 years; 13,606 of the grooms were in this age group as were 11,651 brides. At the other end of the life span, 106 brides and 237 grooms were 75 years of age or over.

the Chamber of Commerce office for travel arrangements. Distance from Thief River Falls to Winnipeg on highway 59 is less than 140 miles.

Arrangements for the tour were made by a group of interested local citizens who made a trip to Winnipeg for that purpose recently. They include William LaFave, Dr. A. E. Jacobson, Randall Noper, Russell Embury and Richard Hamilton.

Members of the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce transportation committee are W. E. Dahlquest, Vernon Erickson, Embury, Hugh Carlson, S. E. Sinding, R. J. Dryden, Lloyd Quesnell, LaFave and D. H. Stewart.

In discussing the highway 59 tour recently, LaFave noted that completion of the final section of road will make highway 59 the shortest route from Winnipeg to the Twin Cities. Bituminous surfacing the entire length of the highway provides a much more comfortable ride than the concrete sections of highway 75, and highway 59 is more sheltered, permitting travel during the winter when highway 75 is easily blocked or vision is reduced to zero, LaFave noted.

Marshall Court Awards Verdict

Marshall county district court jury returned a $9,875 verdict Tuesday afternoon in favor of Stanley Urbaniak, Hallock implement dealer formerly of Argyle, against Ray Holmstrom, Newfolden mail carrier. The action arose from an automobile accident south of Newfolden on Highway 59. The action by Kenneth Winge, a passenger in the Urbaniak car, was settled out of court, reported Edwin K. Rokke, clerk of court.

Carlson Herd Is Tops in County DHIA in August

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association, lsts the following herds as the top 10 in the association for the month of August:

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

There were 25 herds on test with the association during August with a total of 72 cows and an average of 31 cows per herd, 8 per cent of which were milking. The average amount of milk produced tested 3.6 per cent fat. This amounted to 31.1 pounds of per cow.

Nineteen cows finished with over 500 pounds butterfat during the testing year, in 365-day or less lactation. They were owned by the following D.H.I.A. members with records listed:

Goodridge Girl Continues Study At Mpls. College

Miss Lois Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Benson of Grygla, is continuing her studies at Northwestern college, Minneapolis, on the $500 scholarship awarded last year to a college freshman with an outstanding high school achievement record who ranked in the upper 25 per cent of her graduating class.

Miss Benson is a 1964 graduate of Goodridge high school where she was elected freshman class president, Future Teachers of America president, historian and student council member. She was active in the school chorus and worked on the annual staff. She was also a National Honor Society member and received the D.A.R. award.

She was active in the Union Sunday school and church. As a college student, she serves as a counselor for a Hi-C club and a church youth group. Under the new three-year "quinary calendar" adopted at the start of the fall term this year, she is classified as a freshman.

Warren Man Hurt In Freak Mishap

R. A. Wood of Warren was critically injured in a freak highway acident September 29 and is now under treatment in a Fargo hospital. Wood received a concussion and a fractured skull when he fell out of a pickup onto the concrete highway about three miles south of Warren on Highway 75. He has been in a coma since the mishap.

Wood was riding in the rear of a pickup driven by William Cleveland of Warren headed north on Highway 75. As the vehicle approached a township road intersection, Harold (Bud) Golden, a rural mail carrier, was waiting in another auto for traffic on the highway to clear.

Unknown to Cleveland, the right turn signal of his pickup was blinking, which led Golden to believe that the Cleveland vehicle intended to turn onto the road on which he was waiting. As the pickup approached, Golden proceeded onto the highway. Cleveland applied his breakes, and with both vehicles moving at a slow rate of speed, the Cleveland pickup skidded and turned slightly so that the rear bumpers of both pickups collided.

Neither vehicle was damaged, but the impact caused Wood to fall from the pickup box, striking his head on the pavement.

Sheldon Erickson Cow Produces 1,009 Lbs. Fat

A five-year-old Holstein cow owned by Sheldon Erickson of Badger has completed a 305-day lactation with butterfat production only 75 pounds under the state record, acording to the Badger Enterprise. The cow produced 26,240 pounds of milk at 3.9 per cent test for 1,009 pounds of fat. Minnesota record is 1,084 pounds of fat.

In addition to high production, the cow has good Holstein type, winning competition at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls and the Roseau county fair this year. She was fed the same feed and concentrate as the other cows in the herd and fed according to recomendations furnished by the Dairy Herd Improvement association processing center in St. Paul.

The Erickson dairy herd has been represented at Northwest Dairy Day annually since its inception and individual animals have claimed a number of breed and overall championships. Andy Erickson, Sheldon's father, is a member of the board of directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Dairy Day here.

Intentional Duplicate Exposure

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The City Council is to be commended for granting to a group of petitioners the privilege of submitting the swimming pool question to the voters in the coming city election. And the Council is also to be commended for making it clear that submitting the question to the voters should not be interpreted as a recommendation by the city fathers for a favorable vote on the measure by the citizens when they go to the polls.

We are fortunate at this time in having a council that is tax-conscious. City property is already carrying a heavy tax load imposed not only by the city but by the city and other tax units that help to swell the total. A little breathing spell would bring very welcome relief for most of our taxpayers.

We generally can figure out ways of meeting those needs that classify as essentials, but the proposed swimming pool does not classify as an essential. And there is a reasonable question as to whether the proposal as presented is actually desirable. Let's not overlook the fact that we have been getting along quite well with our present bathing facilities.

Unquestionably we do have a water sanitation problem which applies primarily to our source of drinking water. The need for more sanitary swiming facilities is a secondary need that will be taken care of as we eliminate the polution problem that at times does contaminate our source of drinking water.

Now is the time to do first things first, and, fortunately, it now appears that our water sanitation problems are such that, with the right kind of planning, grants of aid probably would be made available.

But there is no justification at this time for a rush act to solve our water sanitation problems—except the need for a more rational approach to our overall problems and a better understanding of the grants in aid that might be made available if we meet certain reasonable requirements.

We have wasted too much time chasing rainbows without adequate surveys and understanding of what might be accomplished if we took advantage of the opportunities for guidance and assistance that have been and are available. Creating an artificial swimming pool is not the right answer to our water problem.

Now that the Twins have won the American League pennant and faring well in the World Series for the national championship, modest Charlie Johnson, laughingly referred to as the Minneapolis sports writer, has explained how he and three or four helpers brought the Twins to "Minneapolis." St. Paul interests presumably had nothing to do with it. At any rate the Johnson article made no reference to any St. Paul participation and the only mention of St. Paul was in a quotation about the official agreement by an American League spokesman in which St. Paul and Minneapolis received equal recognition.

The stupidity of Charlie Johnson and his inexcusable self-glorification is understandable. It is difficult, however, to understand the editorial ineptness of the Minneapolis Tribune in not only giving space to the Charlie Johnson article but in featuring it as an article of special merit.

The large area that is served by Minneapolis and St. Paul is proud of the Twins and their outstanding performance. But let's keep in mind that it is the Minnesota Twins that we are speaking of and supporting in our small way out here in the sticks 300 miles away from the Bloomington ball park.

President Johnson has plans well under way for a good-bye party for the members of the departing Congress about to adjourn. He has much to be thankful for from those numerous members who have supported most of his requests with record-smashing appropriations.

And while the President will be the happy and genial host at this party it is not likely that he will dig into his own pockets to pay the cost. As usual it probably will be the taxpayer's pocket that will be picked for this special occasion.

It appears that we have entered into an agreement with the Republic of Panama as to the future management of the Canal Zone. As was to be expected, our country gave ground and from now on will have less to say about the canal management.

Maybe that is as it should be but I would have preferred further consideration being given to the establishment of an international tribunal to manage this short-cut waterway in the best interests of all nations—and to be made self-supporting. The Republic of Panama is satisfied now for the time being, we may assume. But my guess is that this period of peaceful harmony will prevail only for the time being.

Farming is the nation's largest industry, according to the Farmers Union Herald, which proves its statement by an impressive array of facts, supported by the United States Department of Agriculture. Farming employs six million workers, it says, which is more than the combined jobs in the transportation, public utilities, steel and automobile industries.

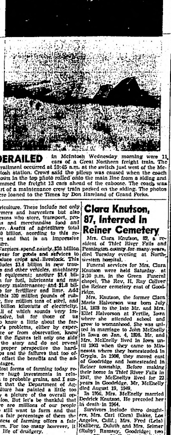
Three out of ten jobs in private employment are related to agriculture. These include not only farmers and harvesters but also persons who store, transport, process and merchandise food and fiber. Assets of agriculture total $230 billion, acording to this report and that is an impressive figure.

Farmers spend nearly $30 billion a year for goods and services to produce crops and livestock. This includes $3.4 billion in new tractors and other vehicles, machinery and equipment; another $3.4 billion for fuel, lubricants and machinery maintenance; and $1.8 billion for fertilizer and lime. Add to this 320 million pounds of rubber, five million tons of steel, and 28 billion kilowatts of electricity.

All of which sounds very impressive, but for those of us who know a little about the farmer's problems, either by experience or from observation, know that the figures tell only one side of the story and do not reveal in proper perspective the hardships and the failures that too often offset the benefits and the advantages.

Most forms of farming today require huge investments in relation to probable grains, and I suspect that the Department of Agriculture has painted a little too rosy a picture of the overall operation. But let's be thankful that there are millions of our people who still want to farm and that for a fair percentage of them the business of farming offers a fair return. For too many however, it is a life of drudgery.

"Education is a painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindnes, by watching, by warning, by precept, and by praise, but above all—by example." John Ruskin.



DERAILED in McIntosh Wednesday morning were 11 cars of a Great Northern freight train. The derailment occurred at 10:45 a.m. at the switch just west of the McIntosh station. Crews said the pileup was caused when the coach shown in the top photo rolled onto the main line from a siding and rammed the freight 13 cars ahead of the caboose. The coach was part of a maintenance crew train parked on the siding. The photos were loaned to the Times by Don Hareland of Grand Forks.

Detroit Lakes Whips Prowlers 21-12 Fri.

Coach Del Mollberg's Lakers were well prepared, offensively and defensively, for their homecoming game against the Prowlers in Detroit Laks' Washington Park on Friday night. The result was that the Lakers were able to present their homecoming queen, Janice Anderson, with a 21 to 12 victory over the Prowlers.

This week the Prowlers of coach Bill Herzog will engage in a mid-week game, playing coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau Rams in a Northwest conference game on the Lincoln field here on Wednesday night, October 13. The kick-off is slated for 7:30 p.m.

In Friday night's game at Detroit Lakes, coach Mollberg's Lakers held leads of 6 to 0 at the end of the first period, 15 to 0 at the half-time, and 21 to 0 early in the fourth period. The Prowlers, on an 85-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Monte LeMoine, and a two-yard dive over the line for another touchdown late in the period, pared the Lakers' game-winning margin to 21 to 12.

The Prowlers, defending the west goal and accepting the kick-off, picked up one first down, on LeMoine's 12-yard run, before they were forced to give up possession of the ball on a short out-of-bounds kick. Two Laker first downs carried to the Prowler five-yard line, with Rick Lynch's 22-yard run being the big gainer, and then quarterback Bob Leuben cut over right tackle for the touchdown. Leuben, on a run, attempted to add the conversion point, but he was stopped short of the goal line.

In the Prowlers opening sequence of plays, several passes by Tommy Cummings just missed completions. On one toss to John Olson, the Prowler receiver was in the clear and appeared destined for a touchdown, but he fumbled the ball for an incompletion.

In the second period, with the Prowlers deep in their own territory, Cummings kicked to mid-field, but an offside penalty nullified the play. From the Prowler nine-yard line, a high centering pass went into the end zone, and the Lakers added two points via a safety when Cummings was downed in the end zone.

On the succeeding play, which found Cummings setting the ball into play on a free kick, the Lakers' speedy Howie Anderson gathered in the ball on the Laker 40-yard line and raced for a touchdown. Leuben, on a sweep of right end, added the point and the Lakers held a 15 to 0 lead.

Late in the period the Prowlers moved into Laker territory, with Cummings making a 27-yard run to carry to the Laker 19-yard stripe. The Prowlers' passing attack was well-defensed, and the half ended on a pass incomplete to Rod Carlson. Carlson, who has been one of Cummings' primary targets all season, was well-covered in Friday night's game.

After a scoreless third period, and which found the Prowlers being penalized 40 yards, the Lakers erupted for a touchdown midway in the fourth period. Howie Anderson, from the Prowlers' 48-yard line, took a pitchout from Leuben and scampered for a touch down. A pass, Leuben to Jeff Johnson, was incomplete for the conversion point.

The ensuing kickoff produced the game's longest run, with Monte LeMoine, after momentarily fumbling the ball on the Prowlers 15-yard line, ran 85 yards for a touchdown. A placement kick try for the point was blocked.

Moments later Karl Poppenhagen recovered a Laker fumble on the Lakers' 32-yard line. With Cummings and LeMoine carrying the ball the Prowlers drove to the Lakers' 2-yard line. LeMoine dove over the center for the touchdown. Cummings, on a try at right end, failed to add the point. Three plays later, with the Lakers running the ball, the game ended.

Loss of Habitat Main Reason for Grouse Decline

Loss of suitable habitat is the primary reason for the decline in prairie grouse numbers. This was the conclusion reached by delegates attending the sixth conference of the Prairie Grouse Technical council at Warroad recently. Prairie grouse species include both prairie chicken and sharptailed grouse.

It is estimated that in 1923 over 300,000 prairie chicken were taken by hunters. There has been no season on prairie chicken in Minnesota since 1942.

Wet weather during past nesting seasons plus a loss of habitat caused by more intensive farming and reforestation have been responsible for a decline in the sharptail grouse population.

The sharptail is a bird that requires a habitat of open bushy areas, preferably near grain fields. Many of these areas have either been subjected to intensive agriculture which eliminated the brush or have grown into forest lands.

Principal reasons for the reduction in the prairie chicken population is the elimination of large tracts of prairie grassland through intensive agriculture and range-land use. It has been found that prairie chickens require wide horizons with a substantial amount of their range in either permanent or long term grasslands.

Long term farm land retirement programs such as the soil bank have proved of value but must be managed properly to encourage maximum use by prairie chicken.

Delegates agreed that the decline of the prairie grouse can only be stopped by the establishment of special management areas. This could be acomplished by land acquisition or modification of land retirement programs.

Individuals and private organizations in Illinois and Wisconsin have already donated more than a quarter of a million dollars to save the prairie chicken from extinction in those states.

Recommendations for rehabilitating the prairie grouse include the purchase of key habitat areas, modification of department of agriculture land retirement programs in the prairie grouse range, cooperation with other agencies dealing in land management and a stronger public education program.

Minnesota game biologist James Ruos said, "Neither the gun nor the fox has been responsible for the decline of the Minnesota prairie grouse. The closure to hunting of our prairie grouse populations only gives a false sense of security to the average citizen while the real problem of habitat goes unsolved."

Abnormally Cold Weather Prompts Duck Migration

Abnormally cold weather of record intensity has stimulated an early waterfowl migration in western Canada, according to information contained in the October issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological" prepared by General Manager Angus Gavin. Bluebills on southern prairie marshes are well ahead of schedule and large flights of Canada and snow geese have gone south. Blue-winged teal, widgeon, gadwall and shoveler are present, but in greatly reduced numbers.

Report stresses the fact that on September 22 a cold air mass from the north brought unseasonably heavy snow to eastern Saskatchewan and snow and blizzard conditions to western Alberta on the 24th. Temperatures in northern areas dropped as low as seven degrees.

On September 24 geese passed over Hanna, Alberta all night on southern migration. On the following morning, in a driving snowstorm, it was apparent that there had been a large southward movement of local ducks and white-fronted geese.

The report states that Manitoba in September had the coldest weather in the 90 years in which records have been kept.

Gavin cites evidence of a very late mallard hatch. "In Alberta, during the third week of September, mallard broods, either flightless or just able to fly, were common on roadside ponds. Hunters in central Saskatchewan reported flightless young mallards on the ice and wandering in the fields during the big freeze of late September. Some real late broods of ruddy ducks will not be able to fly before freeze-up."

Again referring to Alberta, he concluded that it is doubtful if the cold weather had an effect on late broods. "With warm weather for a couple of weeks, they will no doubt make it through to migration time."

State Firearms Auction Grosses $11,955 Saturday

The Minnesota Game and Fish division's auction of firearms and other confiscated items of fishing and hunting equipment in the St. Paul armory on Saturday, October 2, brought a turnout of 2,500 persons.

Sold to the highest bidder were 196 firearms, 80 rods and reels and various other items confiscated by wardens from game law violators during the past two years. Altogether, 406 separate items of fishing and hunting equipment were auctioned off. Receipts totaled $11,955.

Highest bid received was $250 for an over-and-under shotgun and the least expensive item sold was a 25 cent flashlight.

PP&K Contest Slated Tuesday

Approximately 70 boys from eight to 13 years of age will compete in the Punt, Pass and Kick contest scheduled for Tuesday at 7 p.m. on the Lincoln high school athletic field, according to Wallace Tunberg of Tunberg Motors, sponsor of the event. William Herzog, Lincoln high school football coach, is director of the competition. The public is invited to watch the contest.

Barn Near Gully Burned Saturday; Woman Rescued

Fire destroyed a barn and its contents on the James Emanuelson sheep ranch located 10 miles northwest of Gully late Saturday afternoon, October 2. The blaze was fanned by a strong northwesterly wind, and the structure was consumed in about 10 minutes. The Gonvick volunteer fire department arrived too late to save the building.

Mrs. Emanuelson narrowly escaped death when she tried to fight the fire and was overcome by smoke. She was found unconscious on the floor of the loft and rescued by two neighbors, Carl and Henry Sweno.

The barn, a 60-foot structure with a lean-to, was a total loss as was the modern well house and a stack of hay bales. Some hay in the loft was also lost.

Safety Advice Is Offered to Duck Hunters by State

Minnesota's firearms safety director, Don Murray, today offered some advice to duck hunters that could prevent serious and avoidable accidents.

Although statistics show that many firearms victims are shot by someone in their own hunting party, said Murray, most of these accidents can be avoided if hunters will follow a few common sense rules.

When hunters are sitting together in a duck boat or blind, Murray said they should not fire over their partner. Each person should shoot only those birds which are in front of him, off to his side of the blind or over his head.

He warned "Never stand up to shoot since you might be standing right up in front of your partner's gun." He said that when hunters are firing at cripples in the water they should make sure that no other hunter is in the line of fire.

Murray cited a recent accident which occurred at the new Sunrise pool at the Carlos Avery wildlife area on the opening of the goose season.

Two young hunters walking along the shore of the marsh spotted what they thought were geese up on the shore ahead of them. At a range of about 40 yards they fired into a stand of goose decoys and hit two other hunters hidden in a nearby blind.

Luckily neither of the hunters were killed but both had pellets embeded in their flesh. This accident could have been avoided, said Murray, if the two careless hunters had been certain what they were shooting at and if they had taken the trouble to determine what was in the line of fire.

Losses of 15 per cent in veteran population are estimated for Rhode Island, Nebraska and South Dakota between 1960 and 1980.

Queries and Answers On Taxes Are Given

This column of questions frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers is provided by the office of the district of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—My wife and I are separating. Will the support money I give her be deductible like alimony?

A—If you have a written separation agreement, periodic payments made to your wife for her separate maintenance after the agreement is executed are deductible by you as alimony, provided you and your wife do not file a joint income tax return. Payments to your wife which are designated for child support are not deductible. Further information on this subject is contained in IRS Document No. 5109, "Alimony," available free at your local Internal Revenue office.

Payments that are deductible by you are taxable income for your wife.

Q—I took a night course this summer that I think should be deductible educational expense. What kind of records should I keep?

A—If the course qualifies as a deductible expense then you will be able to deduct from your income the amount you spend for tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees and similar items. Receipts showing you have paid your tuition, purchased the books and so forth should be kept to substantiate the expense.

Remember that most of these expenses may be deducted only if you itemize your deductions on Form 1040.

Q—I just opened a little grocery store. Have you got anything that would serve as a reminder for tax filing deadlines?

A—Yes. Ask your local IRS office for a free copy of the "Tax Calendar and Check List", Document No. 5046.

Q—I just started work. What kind of records should I keep for tax purposes?

A—Your tax records should show your income for the year and your deductible expenses.

As far as income goes, you will receive a W-2 form from your employer showing what you received in wages for the year and how much federal income tax withheld. A copy of this form must be filed with your return. If you have income from other sources, such as terest payments are typical expenses that are deductible.

Q—My son is waiting on tables in his dormitory for room and board at college. Will he be liable for any tax?

A—The general rule here is that the fair market value of the room and board he receives are taxable income. If this plus any other income he receives amounts to $600 or more for the year then he will have to file a federal income tax return.

Q—I just opened a dress shop interest on a savings account or stock dividends, be sure you keep a record of the amount you receive from each of these sources.

Cancelled checks are some of the best records you can keep. So are receipted bills. Medical expenses, contributions to charity and inand have several high school girls helping me out on a part-time basis. I pay them so much an hour plus a commission on whatever they sell. Should I withhold taxes from the commissions they earn or just on their hourly wages?

A—You should withhold the amounts required by law on all payments you make to your employees. This withholding requirement applies to payments of hourly wages, commissions, bonses and other compensation.

Withholding requirements, and the few exceptions to them, are explained in the "Employer's Tax Guide," Circular E. A copy of this publication is available free at your local IRS office.

Q—I just turned 65. Can I ask my employer to reduce my withholding for tax purposes.

A—Yes you can. Ask him for a copy of Form W-4 which you can use to show the increase in your exemptions.

There are other tax benefits you are eligible for, too. These are explained in our publication, "Tax Benefits For Older Americans," Document No. 5569. A copy is available free from revenue service offices.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

"Sing Out For Books" is the slogan for this year's CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK. Children always look forward to BOOK WEEK... just as they do M.E.A. and Thanksgiving holidays! The dates for this year's celebration are October 31 to November 6. The idea behind this excellent opportunity to enjoy the world of books is simply this ...to make children more aware of the wonders contained between the covers of colorful volumes. The week has been traditional since 1919... just imagine the pleasure and knowledge which has been gained since its inception.

Children need friends. A book is surd ad loved and held dear throughout the years. Once a child has been introduced to the joy of reading and to the wonder of words people, places and things become as alive in their imaginations as the young playmate down the street or around the corner actually is alive.

Your public library is preparing for BOOK WEEK now. Librarians are deep in surprising plans for the youngsters. This year, as before, teachers will be invited to bring their classes to the library to enjoy the books and the surprises in store. This year, as before, the youngsters will leave the library with their hearts and minds filled with the wonderment of the book world... once they leave the library they'll truly "Sing Out For Books".

New books for grade school children are constantly arriving and shelves will be crowded with fiction and fairy tales, with travel and poetry, with biography and biology, with science and everything young, alert minds want and need in order to learn and progress educationally and culturally.

Here's a partial list of the newest enchanting books now on display and ready for borrowing. Why not check it and discuss them with your home's young borrowers?

"Safe and Simple Projects With Electricity" by Neal.
"Discovering Aerospace" by Pacillo.
"Birds in the Sky" by Hawkinson.
"The True Book of Automobiles" by Carlisle.
"About Creatures That Live Underground" by Uhl.
"You and Your Amazing Mind" by Lewellen.
"You and Relativity" by Clark.

There's also a whole new group on travel... there's one on Hong Kong; another on Japan and one on Oklahoma. Massachusetts is another one and there's one on Alaska. Texas, too, big Texas, has a volume about it. Utah is another state youngsters will enjoy learning about. Oh, there's another on the Holy Land, too, which is beautiful and so informative. Then there's one of the enchantment of the South Seas. These books will begin to give them the wanderlust at an early age!

And, while the children are reading all these intriguing books... what will parents be doing? Why, they'll be reading, too! They'll be reading Bronte and Dickens and Caldwell Taylor. They'll be reading Powers and Hill and Gardner and Seifert and Slaughter and Christie and Hemmingway and Wouk, Doyle and Reichter. They'll be musing over Frost and amusing themselves with Linkletter.

After all... adult book-lovers are just little book-lovers grown tall ...in stature and thought.

CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK is for children... but there's no age limit when it comes to reading... it is a good habit to begin early in life and enjoy it all the way through!

"My ideal man never would think about morality. He naturally would do the kind, generous, splendid thing. While in all other departments we prefer native gifts to industry (which is also a gift of a less specialized sort), we have a queer notion that in morality industry is better than genius."
—Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.

Free With Advice

If the nation's railroads would only take the advice of the railway union officials, disputes would be a thing of the past and the railroads would be making plenty of money. This is the suggestion intimated in a front page story of a recent issue of the Trainman News.

Charles Luna, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, urged management of the railroads to heed the advice of railroad workers and act to perk up rail passenger service to end sagging revenues in that operation.

"Management must learn, once and for all, that business will not come to your doorstep in this highly competitive world unless you take vigorous steps to bring it there—and then keep it," he said. "Granted that the railroads face keen and, in many instances, unfair competition with other forms of transportation, but they must not sit back and permit passenger service to fade away entirely because of indifference and inaction.

"It is the duty of rail management, as suggested by members of the BRT and other readers of Trainman News, to furnish the public with attractive, fast, modern passenger trains on convenient schedules, and to come up with new ideas and gimmicks to draw travelers to the trains. The competitors are fast to produce innovations—why not the railroads?"

The article continues, "The BRT leader, in touching on the advice offered by rail workers, made reference to a survey conducted by Trainman News among its readers to ascertain their feelings about passenger service and what can be done to improve it. Many suggestions and ideas were advanced by BRTers and other Trainman News readers."

A number of suggestions were made which seem to make good common sense, and several of them involved no more than doing a better job of maintaining existing facilities and services in a more attractive manner. It is our belief that some of these suggestions, which are by no means unheard of revelations to railroad management, will be implemented in the near future if the railroads are given a chance to fulfill some of their desires.

It is only in the past couple of years that railroads have begun to show reasonable profits on their operations. Battling suppressive laws which are long out-dated and seeing potential profits lost in labor disputes, the railroads have not been in a position to do what they would like to do in a number of fields—including passenger travel. They have been compelled to concentrate their efforts in areas where it has been proved that profits exist, and passenger travel isn't one of these areas.

The BRT survey may have some practical applications for the railroads, but those giving suggestions may not be aware of many of the problems involved. It is something like asking a janitor at the White House the reasons for U. S. policy in Viet Nam. You may get an answer but it will likely be wrong.

A Winning Entry

Dick Stenberg, senior at Lincoln senior high school in Thief River Falls, recently won the editorial writing contest held at the high school journalism conference in Bemidji. "Why Stay in High School?" was the editorial subject assigned to entrants in the contest. Dick's first place editorial, entitled "The Case Against Drop-Outs", was as follows:

"Why stay in high school?" This is a frequently asked question — one for which we've all heard a lot of answers. They range from "My parents won't let me quit" to "It's the only way to be assured of a decent job." What exactly are the facts? Why should anyone stay in high school?

Some answers to these questions have been used so often that they have become almost worn out. But they are still basically sound replies. For example, it's a fact that a high school graduate usually has a better chance of getting and holding a job than a high school dropout. And in most cases a graduate will earn more in his lifetime.

But there are other answers, answers that aren't nearly so common, but definitely as important. A high school graduate is BETTER PREPARED FOR LIFE. He has learned to respect authority in the form of his teachers, and in his daily life he will respect the authority of his employer and superiors. A graduate has learned to cope with responsibility in the form of assignments and participation in school activities. He has learned to do his share. This will prove to be an invaluable asset to him throughout life, for responsible people are respected and are in demand.

And a graduate has learned to get along with people. The socially adjusted individual seldom leaves school before graduation. What could be a stronger asset in our modern society than the ability to get along with others? We have contact with many other people every day of our lives. The individual who can't socialize to some degree is almost certain to be a failure. The high school graduate has learned to do this by participation in curricular and extracurricular activities. The high school graduate has learned to be friendly.

"The high school graduate is, then, not only able to get a better job and earn more. He is also better prepared for life. He is likely to be a finer, more well-rounded citizen because of his high school experiences.

"Why stay in high school?" How can anyone consider leaving! It's the finest preparation for a meaningful life that anyone can receive.

Image Worship

The image worry is endemic in our society. Business, labor, government, the professions, and even the church share this same belief that what they are and what they do are perfectly all right, actually, but the public has got them all wrong somehow and needs straightening out. In spite of lectures and panels and discussions and surveys and programs, hospitals and doctors—like business, labor and government—are still convinced there is some instant polish that can be applied to make their virtues shine forth for all to see, like a newly gilded dome on a sunny day.

The fact is that the image concept is based on a misconception of public intelligence, and the image worry is a waste of time. There can be no mind's eye reflection, if that is what an image is in this sense, of an institution or profession or person that is different from what the receiving mind has seen or experienced of the reflecting phenomenon. Any variation between the image and the substance must result from the fact that the substance is never reflected whole. Like a two-dimensional reflection of a three-dimensional object, the image of a hospital is always true, but always partial.

So it is also with doctors and schools and unions and governments and businesses. Nobody sees them whole, or knows them whole.

The worry about images is witless, and the efforts to improve them are largely useless. If the energy wasted on image worship were turned instead toward improving experience everybody would be better off, and the images themselves, true as they always are, might be amplified to include a more favorable fraction of the whole. The only way a man with a black necktie can see a white necktie in the mirror is by changing neckties, not mirrors.
—The Modern Hospital

More Nonsense

More nonsense is brewing in the smoky pot of Congress with a bill pending to make broad changes in the federal unemployment system. The Brainerd Dispatch had some thoughtful commentary on the question as follows:

"Although designed to improve the system, the bill actually would penalize employers and states with good employment records and could in many instances actually encourage idleness.

"Under the existing system, employers with little employee turnover are rewarded with a lower state tax rate. This is done through experience ratings. Employers in every state pay a federal tax but each state is responsible for its own unemployment compensation system and collects taxes from employers to finance the system.

"The proposed bill, however, would encourage every state to abandon the experience-rating system and would tax employers in all states to help subsidize employers in states which have high benefit costs.

"The bill would inflict sharply increased unemployment compensation taxes on employers. The federal unemployment taxes assessed against employers would more than double by 1971.

"The most tragic part of the plan, however, are the provisions which could actually encourage workers to seek compensation payments instead of jobs.

"The bill, according to a study by the Minnesota Employers' Association, would result in the payment of unemployment benefit to persons who quit a job voluntarily without cause, to persons who were fired for willful misconduct on the job and even to those who refused suitable work while drawing UC benefits.

"The bill also would require every state to pay benefits for at least 26 weeks for no more than 20 weeks of employment and would provide for the federal government to pay benefits for another half year.

"This means that an employee could draw a full year's employment compensation after quitting a job without cause even in periods of high employment.

"In the past extended benefits have been granted but only in depressed areas during times of high unemployment.

"Few employers are opposed to the unemployment compensation system. In fact, they recognize that the plan has cushioned some period of recession, but a system which is so liberal that it encourages idleness while putting a heavy burden of taxation on employers benefits neither the unemployed nor the nation. And it should be remembered that unemployment compensation does not come out of thin air. It is paid for directly or indirectly by Mr. John Q. Public. . .and that is you."

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"You plead guilty to stealing this man's overcoat," said the judge, "and now you want me to reduce your fine. Why?"

"Please, your worship," begged the defendant, "I had to have the sleeves shortened."

MODEL of the municipal swimming pool proposed for Thief River Falls by the local swimming pool committee is pictured above. Residents of the city will vote on November 2 at the regular city election as to whether or not the city should issue not more than $200,000 in general obligation bonds for pool construction. The model pictured above was built for the committee by Donald Lerud, art instructor at Lincoln senior high school. Brochures containing information on the proposal are now available at local banks, the Times, and from swimming pool committee members.

Swimming Pool Group Prepares Information

Brochures explaining the findings and opinions of the Thief River Falls swimming pool committee have been printed and are ready for circulation in the city, according to Roy Lee, committee chairman. Thief River Falls residents will vote in a special ballot at the November 2 city election on whether or not the city should issue up to $200,000 in general obligation bonds to finance construction of an outdoor municipal swimming pool.

Persons desiring brochures containing information on the pool may obtain them at local banks or the Times office, or from any member of the swimming pool committee. The committee also welcomes invitations to speak at group functions and the opportunity to answer questions on the proposed pool. Several such appearances have already been made by comittee members.

Included in the brochure prepared by the committee is a "question and answer" commentary on various phases of the proposal. The booklet cites dangers of the present riverpool such as turbidity of the water which makes underwater vision impossible, current carrying an unskilled swimmer out of the pool area, power boats operating in the vicinity of the pool, restricted lifeguard supervision and contamination of the river water at certain times.

The pool area is proposed at 10,920 square feet—about double the size of Warren's new pool and approximately equivalent to the East Grand Forks pool. It is considered to be of adequate size for a summer swimming load for a city the size of Thief River Falls.

Cost of the pool is estimated at $110,000 with $60,00 for bath house and other necessary equipment such as filtering equipment, heaters and showers. A sum of $30,000 for land acquisition has been included in the total bond figure. Bonds would be retired over a period of 20 years, the committee report states, increasing city taxes an average of 5.35 mills over the 20-year period.

The brochure states: "If you are a taxpayer in the city, your tax increase would be $2.18 for every $100 in taxes now paid. Example: A taxpayer now paying $150 in taxes would pay $153.27 after $200,000 in bonds for a swimming pool were sold."

Further information in the brochure indicates that cost of an indoor pool would be prohibitive, that the outdoor pool would be heated, that a charge would be made for pool use and that operational costs are expected to be about $10,000 annually—about $4,000 to $5,000 of which would be recovered in swiming fees and concession sales.

The pool committee did not recommend a site for the pool, explaining that "selection of site is properly a matter which should be left to the discretion of the city council." The group also indicates that the Jaycees Comunity Attitude Survey in 1964 showed that 71 per cent of the households polled favored construction of a municipal swimming pool.

Funds for printing and distributing the brochure were provided through a fund-raising project conducted by the Jaycees. Members include Roy Lee, chairman, Dr. Paul Wendt, James Wilson, James Winjum and Dr. Donald Goodrich. The brochure contains a preliminary sketch of the proposed pool and a photograph of an artist's model of the project.

Appoint LaBonte Acting Principal

Appointment of John LaBonte as acting principal for Franklin junior high school was made by the Thief River Falls board of education meeting in regular session Monday evening. LaBonte succeeds Frank Hamerlinck who has been named administrative assistant for the local school district.

In addition to 13 years of experience as a classroom teacher in junior high school, LaBonte has had seven years experience as high school principal at Medford. Board members also gave approval to the purchase of two gas ranges for the Lincoln high school home economics department from Oen's Appliance at a cost of -137.50--low among several informal bidders.

A communication was received from the bus drivers union accepting the two cents per hour increase in salary granted by the board at a previous meeting. A high school equivalence certificate was granted to James Everett Weckwerth who had completed requirements for the certificate while in military service.

The board also unanimously adopted a policy stating that all faculty members are expected to attend the Northern Division Minnesota Education association convention in Bemidji or to report to school premises although classes are not in session. Teachers are paid their regular salary in attending the NMEA meeting although school is dismissed for these two days.

Supt. M. R. Harkerson noted that Dr. Phillip Helland, executive secretary of the Minnesota Junior College board, would be in Thief River Falls Thursday to make lease for the school district property which is being used by the newly-established junior college. He also noted that the interim building committee of the state legislature would be here October 22 to view possible sites for a permanent junior college campus.

John Blackmore

Special Seminar On Agriculture Scheduled Here

John Blackmore, director of International Agricultural programs at the University of Minnesota, will teach a special seminar titled "Agriculture and International Development" at Thief River Falls. Sessions will be held at the Lincoln high school vocational agriculture department from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. October 21, 28 and November 4.

Since 1964, Blackmore has been a staff member of the University of Minnesota in its research, resident instruction and continuing education functions. From 1959 to 1964 he headed the Department of Agricultural and Food Economics at the University of Massachusetts. He was chief of the land use and farm management branch of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations from 1955 to 1959. Blackmore received his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1955.

The seminar will briefly summarize world food problems, discuss farm problems in the world's major agricultural regions and give attention to agricultural develepment and population growth in the United States. It is designed to meet specific technical needs of professional workers and to provide specialized information. The seminar is discussion oriented and has no enrollment fee.

For more information about the course and enrollment materials, write to Paul J. Stelmaschuk, Agricultural Extension Agent, Courthouse, Thief River Falls; or to Vernon Spengeler, Agriculture Instructor, Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls.

This is the first in a series of articles regarding Thief River Falls schools, published as a preliminary to American Education Week in early November. Later articles will cover the public elementary schools, private schools, junior high school, senior high school, vocational-technical school and junior college.

When a person delves into the operation of the Thief River Falls school system, it doesn't take long to become awed by the immensity of the program. Parents are naturally concerned with individual children, particular instructors, specific classes, personal taxes and private results. In so doing, we as parents tend to overlook the overall picture and therefore miss the immense scope of the local school system.

Perhaps a revealing method of bringing out some of these points would be a multiple choice quiz. Ask your husband or wife the following questions and see how well he or she knows the local school system:

1. How many miles a year do students travel to and from school on the district's 18 bus routes? (a) 126,247 miles; (b) 238,565 miles; (c) 307,058 miles.
2. How many miles do district buses travel for extra-curricular affairs? (a) 1,281 miles; (b) 3,927 miles; (c) 17,904 miles.
3. How much did children pay in total for hot lunches during the 1964-65 school year? (a) $13,739; (b) $33,486; (c) $42,905.
4. How many meals were served in 167 days of school? (a) 112,012; (b) 179,453; (c) 227,928.
5. How many people comprise the total payroll of District 564? (a) 147; (b) 224; (c) 297.
6. What are the total resources of the school district? (a) $5,239,086; (b) $7,193,978; (c) $10,313,113.
7. Aside from bonds and interest, what are the total obligations of the district? (a) $186,082; (b) $237,456; (c) $456,891.
8. What percentage of cash receipts of the district come from local (district) sources? (a) 23.4 per cent; (b) 40.0 per cent; (c) 63.2 per cent.
9. What was the total amount of money received from state sources by the district in 1964-65? (a) $232,987; (b) $539,543; (c) $969,421.
10. What percentage of last year's total disbursements went for school administration? (a) 1.3 per cent; (b) 2.8 per cent; (c) 5.7 per cent.

ANSWERS: 1-b; 2-c; 3-c; 4-c; 5 b; 6-c; 7-a; 8-b; 9-c; 10 a.

If you were able to answer more than half of these questions correctly, you may have a fair idea of the scope of your local school district. In sheer numbers, financial and human, it staggers the imagination. There are so many varying facets of the program of education in the Thief River Falls public schools that it could easily be understood how an individual situation might not be given major attention.

Wilson To Serve On Republican State Committee

James Wilson, Thief River Falls Republican committee chairman, will serve on the credentials committee at the Republican state convention in Rochester Friday and Saturday. This committee's function is to certify delegates and count the number of authorized voting delegates present at the convention.

Top item on the agenda will be a hearing Friday on two controversial amendments to the party constitution. One would give greater representation on the state central committee to the stae's meropolitan areas. The second would allow each delegate present at the convention one vote. Present practice is to allot a certain number of votes to each locality, regardless of the number of delegates present from that locality. Wilson stated that the Thief River Falls comittee, representing a rural area, opposes both amendments.

School Operation In TRF Indicates Major Business

Each phase of the operation is subject to constant scrutiny, however, with individuals responsible for their portion of the total picture. School personnel must deal with numbers but they must also deal with individuals—our children, the hope of the future. This is a constant challenge in education, and this challenge is being met well in our local school system.

Let us mention a few of the statistics which we compiled through the office of Supt. M. R. Hankerson. As we near American Education Week—a period to reflect on the role of education in our community—these figures may serve to alert us to the vastness of public education in Thief River Falls.

Of the district's total resources of more than 10 million, a total of $4,923,075 is in buildings. The district has $2,500,000 in bonds payable with future bond interest to be paid of $1,061,134. Cash receipts of the district last year totaled $1,856,311—$137,956 over budget. Of this total, $754,308 came from district sources, $969,-411 came from state sources and $45,630 from federal sources.

Instructional costs last year totaled $1,059,672 with $186,572 spent for plant operation. Transportation alone cost $67,400 with $44,038 for salaries and $17,980 for vehicle supplies and maintenance. High school athletic receipts totaled $14,-491 while all activity funds totaled $38,619.

The district's 18 buses traveled 258,459 miles to bring 932 students to and from school while 13 children were transported an additional 10,102 miles by contract carrier.

An average of about 1,400 children were served hot lunches each day for a total of 227,928 lunches during the year, yet food cost totaled only $46,891, labor totaled only $19,111 and other costs of the lunch program were $4,883. Milk served during the year totaled 497,295 half pints.

School cooks this year will daily serve an anticipated 200 meals at Northrop, 275 at Washington, 195 at Knox, 140 at Mark Twain, 575 at Franklin and 350 at Lincoln school in addition to 300 from the vocational school, junior college and faculty.

Depending on the meal served, the cooks will use daily 115 to 165 loaves of bread, prepare 110 gallons of soup, cook 365 pounds of wieners and serve them on 315 dozen wiener buns or prepare barbecue with 375 pounds of hamburger. In January alone last year, the cooks served 28,052 meals.

While there are 156 persons on the school faculty, a total of 224 employees is required to operate all aspects of the school. School enrollment is gradually growing, generally indicating growth in the community.

In addition to the payroll which the school pours into the community, economic gain is offered through items purchased by the school locally. School personnel contribute to the community through participation in comunity life in addition to providing education to our children in the classroom.

Later stories, with supplemental pictures, will explain some parts of the Thief River Falls school system—a vital force in our community.

INSTITUTE on patient evacuation and fire fighting technique for nursing home, convalescent and nursing care unit personnel was conducted by Lt. Robert McGrath of Sarasota, Fla., Tuesday afternoon in the Thief River Falls municipal sports arena. Student nurses at the Oakland Park nursing home were given detailed instruction on rescuing patients from beds in a burning building. McGrath demonstrated a number of carrying methods with which, by using leverage rather than main strength and awkwardness, one or two girls can carry a patient weighing over 200 pounds. Nurses were also instructed on the use of fire hoses and extinguishers. Pictured above is the "grand finale" of the institute in which the nurses rescued patients from each of the three beds and extinguished fires set in the containers. Also set ablaze was a pile of cardboard boxes outside the door, which the nurses extinguished with a fire hose connected to a fire department truck parked outside.

Rotary Hears of Vocational Class

Wayne Meisner, instructor of the distributive education department in the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, explained the purposes and fundamentals of the program at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club on Monday. Richard Bjorkman, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Distributive education is a marketing management training course which has 11 students enrolled, class members combine classroom work with actual work experience. Approximately 400 hours of practical work experience is required to graduate from the course.

Classroom instruction includes marketing functions such as selling, pricing and buying; advertising; visual merchandising; customer service; personnel; business mathematics; financing, such as capital, credit and records; economics; organization; product knowledge; business procedures; social skills; and communication.

Instruction and experience leads the student to occupations in retailing, risk bearing, advertising, financing, wholesaling, storing, transportation and manufacturing.

"One of every two employed Americans work in distributive occupations," Meisner told the Rotarians. "Marketing and distributive occupations account for over half of the Gross National Product. New business methods, advancing technology, increasing competition require more specialized training for employees and manager of distributive and marketing businesses. High school graduates require additional training to be employable in most distributive and marketing occupations."

Meisner explained that it is the responsibility of the school to provide student trainees who will grow in ability to produce for the benefit of an employer's business; to help set up a study program beneficial to the student and valuable to the employer; to develop individual job attitudes such as personal grooming, safety practices and punctuality for more effective performance of duty; to related to his work; and to evaluate the student's performance in order to determine additional instruction needed.

'Most students who complete the marketing course will be trained retail, wholesale and service operations," Meisner said. 'Generally these positions require the ability to sell and to meet people. Those students who have special skill, may find employment as assistant department heads, speciality salesmen and stock control clerks in retail, wholesale and service occupations."

Pirates, Bemidji To Clash Friday In NW Conference

Northwest Football Conference

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	P. Pts.
Bemidji	2	0	0	47	16
Crookston	2	0	0	7	6
Thief River Falls	0	0	1	16	18
East Grand Forks	0	2	1	30	31
Roseau	0	1	0	12	21

Results of last week's games:
East Grand Forks, 6, at Crookston, 7.
Bemidji, 33, at Grand Rapids, 6.
Crookston Cathedral, 0, at Roseau, 40.
Thief River Falls, 12, at Detroit Lakes, 21.

This week's schedule:
Wednesday, Oct. 13
Roseau at Thief River Falls.
Friday, Oct. 15.
Bemidji at Crookston.
East Grand Forks at Grand Forks Central.

The Crookston Pirates, edging out the East Grand Forks Green Wave, 7 to 6, in a game played at Crookston, moved up into contention for the Northwest conference title. This week's game, between the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks and the Pirates, and which will be played on Crookston Highland Park field, could well determine the league championship. A win for coach Ken Wilson's Lumberjacks, and the powerful Bemidji squad will enter the game as favorites, would give the Jacks a three wins and no loss mark.

This week, in a game that has been advanced to this evening, (Wednesday) at the Lincoln field in Thief River Falls, coach Bill Herzog's Prowlers will meet coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau Rams. The Rams trounced the Crookston Cathedral Blue Wave, 40 to 0, in a non-conference game on Saturday night; and the Prowlers dropped a 21 to 12 decision to the Detroit Lakes Lakers at Detroit Lakes on Friday night.

On Friday afternoon, October 15 the Green Wave of East Grand Forks will meet the Grand Forks Central Redskins in a non-conference game.

Baudette Downs Newfolden 32-0

Newfolden Nordics were downed 32-0 by the Baudette Bears as they journeded to the north end of the Top-Of-The-State conference on Friday. A wet and muddy field greeted the teams and the Nordics handed the Bears the ball within the Nordic 15-yard-line the first four times they had the ball on three fumbles and one pass interception.

The Bears turned each of these breaks into a touchdown to keep an unblemished record in conference play and a 26-0 lead at the end of the first period. In all the Nordics fumbled 11 times, losing the ball to the Bears on six of these occasions. The Nordics are now 1-4 against conference teams with their lone victory coming at the expense of Greenbush.

In commenting on the game, Coach Sheldon Elseth stated that his team played the Bears pretty even without the fumbles and interception. His squad gained 135 yards from scrimmage, good for nine first downs with junior fullback David Mattson, who had been out of the past two games with an injury, running very hard. He picked up 59 yards in eight carries for a 7.4 yard average. On defense Coach Elseth pointed out Lyle Hagenbeck, Gary Hook and Larry Hanson as turning in excellent games.

The Nordics entertain the Argyle Eagles today (Wednesday) in the homecoming feature for Newfolden high school.

On September 26 at the annual broadhead shoot held at Bemis Hill under the sponsorship of the Roseau Archery club, DuChamp won the bowman's class, Herb Monson of Mentor, a member of the local club, won the freestyle trophy using a bow equipped with sight. Mrs. Darlene DuChamp placed first in the women's class with Mrs. Krystosek placing second.

Cattle consigned to the sale must have D.H.I.A. production records of 400 pounds of butterfat if grade or 450 pounds if purebred, or be springing heifers out of dams with these minimum records. All have been inspected for type, all have been tuberculin and bangs tested within 30 days of the sale and most have been calfhood vaccinated, Sorensen said.

"Value of a livestock enterprise on the farm has been demonstrated in years like this when it has been virtually impossible to harvest field crops," Sorensen stated. "With good management and production such as the cattle consigned to the sale can give, dairying can be a profitable livestock enterprise."

Roseau Rams Win Conference Title In Cross-Country

Coach A. J. Kramer's Roseau Rams cross-country squad made a successful defense of their Northwest conference title on Tuesday afternoon when, in a meet held at Roseau, they posted a record-making score of 22 points. The Bemidji Lumberjacks were second with 48 points, the Thief River Falls Prowlers were third with 87 points, and the Crookston Pirates were fourth with 95 points.

Last year the Rams won the conference cross-country title with a total of 28 points. Thief River Falls won the conference title in 1962 and 1963, with 28 and 27 points, respectively.

Crookston's Roger Jung, the District 31 mile-run titlist, won the conference individual honors, edging out Roseau's Eddie Broten. Jung ran the two-mile course in 10:17, to barely edge out the defending champion, Broten, who posted a 10:17.5.

To post their winning total, the Rams' five-man squad finished in second, third, fourth, fifth and eighth, getting 22 points.

The Region Eight cross-country meet will be held in Thief River Falls on Saturday, October 23, at 10 a. m. The Roseau Rams will be favored to win the regional title.

Charles Larson Will Speak at Fellowship Hour

Charles Larson, son of Mrs. Blanche Larson of Thief River Falls and first year student at Luther Theological seminary in St. Paul, will speak at a special family fellowship hour Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran church under the sponsorship of the Trinity Lutheran Church women.

Larson will show slides and speak of his experiences last summer when working on the Summer Education Project (SEP) of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. He was one of 65 St. Olaf students, together with five other white and 530 negro college students working on this project.

"It was purely an educational program which enrolled 57 students from elementary to adult levels," Larson said. "The tutors were forbidden to demonstrate."

Participants in the program lived in a 100-year-old log house five miles from their school and the nearest telephone. They were invited by their hosts to participate in activities of the area. Larson has said he "wouldn't exchange the summer experience for anything."

Larson is a 1965 graduate of St. Olaf college. The TLCW will serve lunch at the fellowship meeting, an offering will be taken and the public is invited to attend.

Weather Delays Road Building Work in State

Weather conditions during the construction season of 1965 have severely hampered progress on all road construction projects, said the Minnesota Highway department in a statement issued recently. As a result of this wet weather, several major highway projects will be seriously delayed and this delay may place several contractors in financial straits.

Unless the twin cities area is favored by a long Indian Summer, the section of Interstate 494 between Trunk Highway 7 in Minnetonka and Trunk Highway 55 in Plymouth, will be far behind schedule in grading. This section was to be paved and open for traffic next July. As of September 25, it had been possible to work only 47 days during the entire 1965 season. During September, one contractor was able to work only four days during the entire month.

Several other projects are in virtually the same condition due to the excessive rainfall, and completion dates of these projects undoubtedly will not be met.

The problems associated with a delay of this sort involve not only an inconvenience to the motorist who must continue to use alternate routes in his travels, but could mean financial ruin for contractors who are getting nothing in return for substantial investments in men and equipment idled by the weather the department said.

Automatic Insurance Coverage for Military Personnel Approved

Automatic life insurance coverage of $10,000 is provided for American military personnel the world over under a new government insurance program.

William J. Driver, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, certified in a letter to the Secretary of Defense that the approximately 2,800,000 members of the armed forces would be blanketed in under the new Veterans administration insurance program effective after midnight on Sept. 28, 1965.

The President signed the new insurance program into law (Public Law 89-214) Wednesday. The actual insurance will be handled by commercial insurers with whom the VA is now completing final details. Thus, no significant augmenting of VA's present insurance staff will be required.

All servicemen will be covered by the new $10,000 group insurance even though they already hold GI insurance from World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict unless they indicate in writing that they do not want the new insurance coverage. Since 1957, the only servicemen insured by the government were those with the above policies. Servicemen could buy commercial life insurance but in some cases this type policy did not protect them in case of hostilities.

Under a second provision of the new law, beneficiaries of certain servicemen who died since Jan. 1, 1957, and up until midnight, Sept. 28, 1965, under specified conditions listed in the law, may receive up to $5,000 in a death gratuity. The new insurance contract with the private insurers will include provisions for premium rates, expenses, accounting, claims, beneficiaries, conversions and other program requirements.

A stipulated amount, estimated in advance to be approximately $2 per month for $10,000 of coverage, will be deducted from each serviceman's pay, unless they submit written refusal of the coverage. The low cost is made possible through government contribution of the amount necessary to cover any excess mortality owing to extra hazards of service. These deductions will cease after the individual's last full month of service but the insurance will continue for 120 days after separation. At any time during the 120-day period, the serviceman may convert the group insurance to an individual policy with a commercial life insurance copany. No medical examination will be required.

Beneficiaries can be named by the insured. Should he make no designation, payment will follow this order: surviving spouse, children, parents, executor (or administrator) of the insured's estate or other next-of-kin in accordance with the laws of the insured's state. Payment to beneficiary may be made in a lump sum or in 36 equal monthly installments.

Unlike GI insurance, the VA will not handle claims, nor payments of proceeds, in the new insurance program. All death claims will be handled by the appropriate military branch and the commercial company that is chosen to be prime insurer. There is no provision for waiver of premium for total disability, although servicemen with regular GI insurance in addition to the new policy may obtain waiver under their GI policy.

The second provision of the law sets the following requirements for eligibility for the $5,000 death gratuity to certain veterans whose deaths occurred between Jan. 1, 1957 and Sept. 29, 1965: (1) Those whose death was a direct result of actions of hostile forces; (2) Those whose death was a direct result of an accident involving military or naval aircraft or aircraft under charter to the Department of Defense, Army, Navy or Air Force; (3) Those whose death was a direct result of the extra hazards of military service as such hazards may be determined by the administrator; (4) Those whose death occurred while performing service for which incentive pay is authorized by law. (Example: paratrooper, submarine service, etc.).

Payment of the gratuity will be to widow or widower, child or children regardless of age or marital status, or parent or parents. The death gratuity will be reduced by the amount of U.S. government life insurance or National Service life insurance paid or payable to any or all beneficiaries plus the amount of VA dependency and indemnity compensation paid to any person who received the death gratuity. Persons accepting the death gratuity must waive all rights to death compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation.

New Law To Aid Veterans Needing Rehabilitation

Veterans with severe, service-connected disabilities will have an additional 10 years to complete needed rehabilitation training as a result of a new law.

John R. Murphy, manager, Veterans Administration center, St. Paul, said the new law is of particular importance to seriously disabled veterans of World War II who have had long periods of hospitalization and have only recently reached the point where the program of training is possible. The legislation was enacted by the 89th Congress and approved by the President on August 26.

Other veterans who were not considered seriously disabled, and originally did not feel in need of rehabilitation, may now have become unemployable because their service-connected disabilities have worsened. These veterans will also have an opportunity under the new law to enter a planned program of vocational rehabilitation.

Murphy said that even though seriously disabled, many veterans can be employable by carefully-planned occupational-training. Such training capitalizes on remaining abilities and aims for ocupations where the veterans' disabilities are no barrier to performing the duties, he said.

Farm Income Tax Short Course Set

The 23rd annual farm income tax short course, sponsored by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service and department of agricultural economics, is scheduled for October 18, 19 and 20 at the Lowry hotel in St. Paul, according to Paul Hasbargen, extension agricultural economist and course coordinator at the University.

The course is open to persons who assist in preparing tax returns. Emphasis is on farm income tax returns. Topics to be covered include income averaging, casualty losses, sick pay exclusion, contributions, sale or transfer of property, investment credit, standard deductions and government bond interest.

The general session covering the first half day of the course will feature Sherwood O. Berg, dean of the University of Minnesota's Institute of agriculture; Rolland F. Hatfield, commissioner of taxation for Minnesota; and George O. Lethert, St. Paul district director for the Internal Revenue service.

Representatives from the Income Tax division of Minnesota and St. Paul district of the Internal Revenue service will be available throughout the course to answer specific tax questions.

For more information about the course and enrollment material, write the Department of Agricultural Short Courses, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

Car Light Check In Order With Shortened Days

With hours of darkness getting longer, it is especially important now to have all car lights checked to be certain they are in good working order, says Earl M. Larimer, safety director for the Minnesota highway department.

Motorists are driving more during hours of darkness and soon many will be driving to and from work in darkness; and they should have headlights, turn signals, tail lights and stop lights checked, he said.

An improperly aimed headlight, a turn signal that doesn't work or a stop light that doesn't go on - any of these things can cause a traffic collision, Larimer said.

Larimar also emphasized care in the use of high-beam headlights. The law says you must dim lights when an approaching vehicle comes within 1,000 feet; and you must also dim them when following another vehicle within 200 feet, except when overtaking and passing.

He pointed out that parking lights have no legal function when the car is moving. When it is dark enough for lights, then headlights must be used. The law states that headlights must be on from a half hour after sunset to a half hour before sunrise.

During the period of dusk, and at times when visibility is limited by weather, objects are especially difficult to see when travelling on the highway. The only sure way of having your car seen is to have your headlights on, he said.

Interstate Roads Are 47 Per Cent Open to Traffic

Nearly 19,400 miles of the 41,000-mile system of Interstate highways are now open to traffic and construction is underway on another 6,135 miles, says the U. S. Department of Comerce.

Information as of June 30, 1965, showed that 47 per cent of the system or 19,396 miles are now open to traffic and only nine per cent, amounting to 3,649 miles, has not yet been advanced beyond the preliminary state. The remaining 11,280 miles are in engineering and right-of-way stages.

A total of $23.3 billion has been put to work on the federal-aid Interstate program since the accelerated construction began in 1956. Work completed since July 1, 1956, has cost $13.5 billion of which $11.5 billion was for construction and $1.96 billion for engineering and right-of-way acquisition. As of June 30, 1965, work estimated to cost $9.83 billion was underway or authorized, including $5.82 billion for construction and $4.01 billion for engineering and right-of-way acquisition.

Minnesota's share of the 41,000 miles of Interstate will total some 905 miles, placing it 19th among all the states in mileage. Texas will have the largest share with 3,025 miles and the District of Columbia shows the smallest with 29.3.

As of June 30, Minnesota has spent a total of $350.2 million on the system. The federal share, or 90 per cent has accounted for $313.9 million of this total amount. The two major breakdowns are construction, $150.1 million, and engineering and right of way, $200.1 million. Minnesota ranks third in the nation for the percentage of federal funds available which have been obligated by the state for construction projects.

Editorials . . .

"The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man, help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces; let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."

—Robert Louis Stevenson

That's Cooperation!

When a liberal administration makes a request for a huge appropriation and Congress grants funds in excess of the request, that's cooperation! It is mindful of the freshman Democrat in the halls of Congress who was heard to mutter one morning, "Well, His Majesy hasn't called to tell me how to vote today, so I'm going to vote the way I feel."

Let's take a look at some of the generosity which Congress has displayed:

The administration asked for an authorization of $1,465,000,000 for the second year of the anti-poverty program; Congress voted $1,785,000,000.

The administration requested $260 million for the current fiscal year in aid to higher education. A bill passed by the senate authorized $650 million for this year and a total of $4.7 billion over a five-year period.

The administration wanted an annual spending authorization of $400 million for the Economic Development administration; Congress voted $665 million for a total of $3.3 billion over a five-year period.

Congress approved a military pay raise of $1 billion more than double the boost recommended by the administration.

With all this added cash floating around the experimental programs offered by the federal bureaucrats, wouldn't it be nice to see a surplus of funds existing when Congress convenes again? Well, don't hold your breath waiting for that to happen. Who wouldn't like to pad a budget and then be given more funds than the budget calls for spending. Appropriated funds have a habit of disappearing, whether they are budgeted or not.

Under the Surface

Tides flowing toward socialistic sympathy and political partisanship are moving under the surface of several of today's educational programs. Several items of this nature were recently brought to light by Walter Klaus, state representative from Farmington. He stated that our school children ". . . are becoming the object of 'Big Brother' type of brainwashing."

"Through subtle—and sometimes not so subtle—means, including test questions and materials used in the classroom, our youngsters are being subjected to partisan, political propaganda," Klaus said. He cited an intelligence test which included the following question:

"Q—A club that accepts only ver rich members is said to be: (a) snobbish, (b) exclusive, (c) conservative, (d) Republican, (e) Un-American." The right answer is "exclusive", but the choices offered link the words "conservative" and "Republican" with the word "Un-American" and the phrase" a club that accepts only very rich members", Rep. Klaus said.

The test, the Otis Quick-Scoring Mental Ability Test, is distributed to more than half a million high school students every year.

Rep. Klaus said that a quiz in the Senior Weekly Reader, a "current events" newspaper distributed among sixth grade students, is not quite so subtle. The quiz followed a story entitled "President Johnson Charts Course for 'Great Society'."

The student was supposed to have learned from the story that an answer of "true" should be given to the question, "The President's Great Society is a place where America is growing, richer, stronger, happier and wiser? True or False?" The student was to have given an answer of "false" to the question, "The Great Society is a place where people pay for their schooling." (No mention is made in the story of taxes being paid to pay for this schooling.)

It has also been reported that a plan is underway to influence the content of history textbooks. This has already been done to some extent by individual authors, but government interference is something else again. We may expect that federal aid to education will result in much more of this slanted outlook being injected into educational programs for our youth.

Talking Turkey

Minnesota again topped the nation in turkey production this year, raising 15.9 million birds—more than a million more than second-place California with 14.8 million turkeys. Our state has led in turkey production many years with California occasionally slipping into the front position.

Other ranking states in turkey production are Iowa with 8.2 million, Missouri with 7.6 million, North Carolina with 5.6 million, Wisconsin with 5.4 million and Texas with 5.2 million. Total production in the United States was 103.7 million turkeys—four per cent above the 1964 figure of 99.7 million.

Turkey production is a big business in this area and hatchery and processing operations contribute substantially to the area's economy. There is possibility of even greater economical grain in the future, with Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., considering the establishment of a further processing plant here.

Further processing is a term applied to the manufacture of turkey rolls, boned turkey roasts and other kitchen convenience products. Such processing increasing the seasonal processing to a year-around operation. Turkeys may be slaughtered and dressed, then stored for later use. Further processing also permits greater utility of birds which may have blemishes or other factors which reduce the grade.

Thief River Falls is recognized as a turkey production and processing center. With the state leading the nation in turkey production and being centrally located for shipping of finished products to the highly-populated areas on both coasts, it would seem that the future holds many possibilities for greater things in the turkey industry.

Cutting Crime

The following editorial was written by Ed Morrison in the Morris Sun:

A group of Minnesota newspaper people were privileged to hear Judge Lester H. Loble of Helena, Montana, last week. Judge Loble was addressing the 48th annual editors short course at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. His subject was cooperation of court and press in handling new of juvenile offenders.

Judge Loble is widely known as the man who spearheaded the successful effort to clean up juvenile crime in Montana and especially in Helena. When he began his career on the bench in Helena less than a decade ago, that city was known as one of the worst in the United States from the standpoint of crime by juveniles.

Judge Loble's travels in search of the solution to the problem took him all over the United States for conferences with law enforcement officials, from J. Edgar Hoover on down. His research and his court experiences convinced him that the two great deterrents to crime are fear of punishment and fear of publicity. He decried the secrecy which surrounded juvenile court proceedings in felony cases which he said caused people to downgrade all young people when actually 97 per cent of our youths are fine upstanding young citizens.

Accordingly he set out to have Montana laws changed so that public hearings would be held in all cases in which the charge against the defendant was a felony, the more serious class of crime. As a result of his efforts the Montana law was changed about four years ago and the results have been impressive.

Minor violations are still handled in the privacy of a closed courtroom, which practice wins general approval. The incidence of major juvenile crime dropped 49 per cent the first year in Montana and has shown a steady decline ever since. The judge did not claim to have all the answers in the field of juvenile crime, but it is obvious he has taken a long step in the right direction.

What Is a Newspaper?

A newspaper is many things to many people. In spite of major advances in the competing news, information and entertainment media, the newspaper has become an even more important force in the world today. A tribute to the value of the newspaper is the fact that dictators seek—among their primary objectives—control of the press in the nations which they dominate.

Day in and day out, week after week and month after month, the newspaper is part of the everyday life of millions of people in our nation. During National Newspaper Week, the nation's press has the opportunity to pat itself on the back and take a few collective bows.

The newspaper, while a private business, is still considered a public institution. It is a public forum, a distributor of information, a show window of the community it serves, an advertising medium and a community spokesman. It helps people to buy and to sell, to find employment, to hire workers, to record births, marriages and deaths; it seeks to chronicle events and to report news events, to arouse interest, to stimulate thinking, to entertain and to inform.

Through free expression and candid appraisal the nation's newspapers have made themselves a national institution. Small communities pride themselves on their newspapers. It is only through the opportunity for free expression that newspapers have enjoyed and continue to enjoy their role in America today.

We appreciate the words of Congressman Odin Langen in commenting on National Newspaper Week:

"Newspapers not only exercise one of our basic freedoms, the freedom of the press, but in large measure guard our other freedoms as well. All freedoms in America will continue to be championed and protected as long as our newspapers, large and small, retain their freedom to speak out and as long as our editors exercise that prerogative. The public must continue to support our free press, and the press must resist the forces from without that would silence or distort their views and opinions."

Study Indicates Studded Tires Improve Traction

In a series of tests conducted at Stevens Point, Wis., last winter, studded tires were subjected to various stopping and traction experiments in relation to regular tires, snow tires and tires with reinforced chains.

The results, according to the Minnesota highway department, are significant because the 1965 Legislature authorized the use of metal studded tires on a trial basis for the next two winters. These tires may be used from October 15 through April 15 only.

The Wisconsin test showed the following stopping distance on ice for vehicles traveling at 20 miles per hour: Chains, 70 feet; studded tires, 110 feet; snow tires, 167 feet; and regular tires, 180 feet.

In the traction tests, the regular tires were used as a standard and the others were compared with them on a percentage basis. The results showed snow tires to have a 36 per cent increase in traction over the regular tires on ice, studded tires 136 per cent increase and tires with reinforced chains 405 per cent.

The Highway Research board created a committee to study the merits and defects of studded tires. The following is a resume of their findings:

1. The use of studded tires is desirable where ice and hard-packed snow conditions prevail.

2. Studded tires provide improved traction, stopping and vehicle handling on ice and hard packed snow surfaces.

3. These tires contribute to increased wearing of asphalt and concrete pavement.

The comittee also pointed out the possibility of an increased number of rear-end collisions in mixed traffic, (mixed traffic meaning vehicles with studded tires and those without them). They also recomended that studs be used only in new tires built and prepared for that purpose.

English nymphet Joycelyn Lane has the feminine romantic lead opposite Elvis Presley in his newest film, "Tickle Me," an Allied Artists release which stars Elvis as a singing, swinging wranger on a beauty spa dude ranch handily stocked with girls. "Tickle Me" starts Sunday at the Falls theatre.

PUBLIC OPINION

Third graders have an enormous amount of natural curiosity. When and if this curiosity is wisely directed, factual knowledge can be increased, vocabulary can be enlarged, and basic concepts of universal human needs, importance of work necessary to provide these needs, and the relationship of people, tools, and machines can be developed.

In motivating our unit on milk, the third grade teachers in Washington school launched a search for information beginning with the textbook and including a variety of suitable and available sources of information.

We visited the Thief River Falls Co-op Creamery where Mr. Gigstad gave us an interesting and informative tour of the butter-making process. The children were amazed to see the 4,000 lbs. of butter in the large churn.

This tour served to whet our curiosity and we were welcomed at the Bridgeman Creamery by Mr. Scholin, who gave us much of his time and answered endless questions. The children learned about the pasteurizer, the homogenizer and the clarifier. The assembly line fascinated them and the ice cream bars were very welcome.

Our quest for information developed and we arranged to be taken by school bus to the Maynard Mehrkens's Grade A dairy farm. Mr. Donarski, their herdsman, was very generous with his time. He showed us the large Holstein dairy herd, and the extensive and very modern dairy barn and equipment. He used the milking machine on one cow and this was most interesting. We saw the food one cow consumes in a day including hay, silage and grain. We saw the large cooling tank containing the morning's milk. He showed us the huge tractors, the six bottom plows, the 40 ft. harrows, the large press grain drills and demonstrated the use of the hay baler. The children were surprised to hear Mr. Donarski use the two-way radio transmitter to contact Mrs. Mehrkens in the house.

We realize we perhaps inconvenienced the owners and employers of these places with our family of 54 children. We are sure the trips have resulted in much knowledge and the children and teachers do appreciate the privileges that have been extended to us.

LITTLE BUSINESS MAN

Business hasn't been too good today. But in a minute someone will come along for a shine. Johnny will have a dime, bright and inviting, lying in his palm.

What's he going to do with that dime? As he sits in the sun, visions dance in his mind. He could buy candy, ice cream, a new magazine. He could even save it for Sunday School . . . but then what good could a dime do.

Suddenly Johnny remembered a Sunday School lesson. Jesus had told how precious was the penny offering of a poor widow.

Next Sunday Johnny proudly dropped his dime in the offering plate.

Johnny's gift wasn't very much. It won't do a great deal to help the Church meet its financial needs. The important thing is: It helped Johnny! Going to Sunday School has put him on the road to becoming a real Christian businessman.

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this 1966 Riviera Gran Sport.

You know how well your car's engine runs after a tuneup? Buick tuning has the same effect on the whole car. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. Everything blends with everything else. Styling. Performance. Ride. Handling. All tuned to work together in harmony. That's what the tuned car is. A Buick. Only Buick is the tuned car. (And every Buick is the tuned car.) What the tuned car is is a masterful blending of all the things that make a great car greater. The Riviera for 1966 is the tuned car. It features six-passenger seating, disappearing headlights, a silently efficient new ventilating system and the kind of roadworthiness you'd expect in a car that costs twice as much. (You can get a Riviera for your desk as well as your garage. Send $1 in check or money order to Riviera, P.O. Box 68, Troy, Mich., for an accurate 1/25 scale model '66 Riviera.) But Riviera's not the only tuned car. LeSabre is, too. And Wildcat. Electra 225. Special. Skylark. Sportwagon. See them all at your Buick dealer's. The tuned car may not mean much to you now. But then you haven't had a chance to drive one yet.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Gourds have become increasingly popular for fall table decorations. The variety of shapes and colors make them interesting in arrangements.

The gourd is a botanical variety of the pumpkin. After a light frost gourds should be cut off the vine with a sharp knife or pruning shears, leaving the stem attached to the fruit.

There are several ways to tell if the fruits are mature. Often the fingernail is used to determine the hardness of the skin. The disadvantage of this test is that if the fruits are underripe a blemish is left which destroys the ornamental value of the fruit. A better test is the browning and drying of the stem.

Often the skin of the fruits is etched or blemished by soil insects. You can prevent such blemishes by placing a small board or piece of plastic or glass under the developing gourds. Frequent rotating of the fruits will result in more uniform color.

After harvesting the gourds, wash them with soapy water and rinse in clean water to which yuo have added a household disinfectant. The disinfectant will help control the organisms on the shell which often cause decay.

Next spread the gourds on several layers of newspaper in a warm, dry place to evaporate the moisture, harden the skin and set the color. During this process, which takes about a week, rotate the fruits frequently so they will dry evenly. Then wipe the gourds and place them in a warm, dry but dark room for three to four more weeks to cure.

After the gourds are cured, some people like to give the fruits a coat of wax, shellac or varnish. A water-base wax is a fast, inexpensive treatment that produces a slight gloss and enhances the natural color.

Winter protection is necessary for hybrid tea, floribunda, grandiflora, polyantha, and rambler varieties of roses to insulate them against temperatures below 10 degrees F. Timing is important for the application of the protective mulch.

These two methods of winter protecting roses have been used successfully:

Method 1: Tipping Rosebush into Trench.

Shortly after the middle of October, when the soil is moist and workable, dig a trench 6 to 8 inches deep extending to the base of the rosebush. Tie the canes together into a bundle and tip the bush into the trench. Use the soil which you removed from the trench to cover the whole bush.

In early November—about November 10—add a 3 to 4-inch layer of leaves. It's preferable to have a light frozen crust of soil before adding the leaves.

About a week after applying the leaf covering, add a 6-inch layer of marsh hay over all the previous covering. A covering of snow is desirable before applying the marsh hay, but don't delay the covering for lack of snow.

Method 2: All-Leaf Cover.

Enclose the entire rose bed with chicken wire or garden fencing at least two feet high. Place the fence about two feet out from the outermost rosebush to allow for a thick wall of insulation.

About the middle of October in the Twin Cities area, before the first heavy freeze, remove a shovelful of soil from the base of the bush on the side toward which the bush is to be bent, then bend the rose bush over gently, holding it down by tying it to a stake.

Then apply a heavy cover of leaves—at least three feet deep—over the bushes. It's important to ram leaves under the arch formed by bending the bushes in order to prevent air pockets which may cause injury to the exposed portion of canes—especially to climbing roses. Pack the leaves deeper in the center of the bed to make drainage to the outer edge possible.

To prevent the surface leaves from blowing away and to eliminate fire hazards, sprinkle the leaves until the top layer is thoroughly soaked. Place tree branches on top to hold the leaves down.

Scholarship Is Again Goal of Gamble Stores

Twenty-eight B. C. Gamble scholarship awards will be presented at the end of the current school year, according to Bertin C. Gamble, chairman of the board of Gamble-Skogmo, Inc.

This year's 28 awards, an increase of six over last year, will bring the total number of winners to 169, sharing $47,750 in awards since the inception of the plan in 1958-59. The current 1965-66 scholarships, each worth $350, will go to 28 high school seniors graduating in June 1966, Scholarship winners may use the funds for any course of study a tany accredited college or university.

"All who qualify for the awards must demonstrate outstanding ability in salesmanship, eigher through high school programs or part-time jobs, as well as acceptable scholastic aptitude during their senior year," stated Stan Pladson, manager of the local Gamble's store. Thief River Falls was a "Scholarship in Salesmanship" winner. (He) was a student at Lincoln high school.

During a sales contest during the month of October, stores in eight to award one of the 28 scholarships. The highest percentage of sales increase over their October quotas determines the winners.

"Thief River Falls has more than enough students qualified for an award, and we're going to do our best to win another one this year," Pladson said.

Area Firms Given SBA Loan Funds

According to Harry A. Sieben, regional director of the Small Business administration, 64 SBA loans *amounting to $1,759,450 were app*roved in September to small business firms, development companies and flood and tornado disaster victims in Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin.

Among the loans approved was a loan of $25,000 to Christian Brothers, Inc., of Warroad, manufacturer of hockey sticks; a loan of $12,000 to the Gambles hardware firm of Oklee; and a loan of $20,000 to the Princess Bake Shoppe of Red Lake Falls.

Turkey, Chicken Good Buys for October Shoppers

Abundant supplies of chicken and turkey will make poultry especially good buys during October. October marketings of both broiler-fryers and turkey are expected to be greater than last year. Since poultry prices typically reach their low point of the year during the last three months, consumers can look for frequent specials on turkey and chicken in October, according to Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota.

If shopers want an especially good buy on turkey, they will pay less per pound for the larger turkeys. A 20-pound tom, for example, is cheaper per pound than a 10-pound bird. There is also more meat in proportion to carcass on the big birds. Frozen turkeys may be sawed into halves or quarters so homemakers can freeze the lately.

Broiler-fryers are frequently offered at special prices, alternating with specials on other meats. If shopers find broilers on special, they may be able to save as much as 20 to 30 per cent, Miss Ryan says. In that case, she suggests putting a few birds into the freezer, being sure to wrap them well first in good freezer packaging material such as heavy-duty aluminum foil, a saran-type film or a freezer-weight polyethylene bag.

Instead of buying roasting chickens, Miss Ryan suggests that per*sons may be able to save as much* whole broiler-fryers of 2-½ pounds or more for stuffing and roasting.

For stewing, get a large broiler fryer and simmer it to tenderness. The cooking time will be less than for a stewing hen because broiler-fryers are tender young birds. In soups, stews and casseroles, the says.

"Lonels" Prefix Given Dairy Herd At Nelson Farm

Lloyd E. Nelson of Thief River Falls will have the exclusive use of the prefix "Lonels" in naming all registered Holstein dairy animals bred in his herd.

Use of this prefix name has been granted by Holstein-Friesian Association of America; it also becomes a part of official breed records at the national headquarters in Brattleboro, Vermont.

Nearly 1,500 prefixes are reserved for registered Holstein breeders each year. More than 42,000 are now on file for use in giving *distinctive names to home-bred cat*tle. Reservation and use of these prefix names became an active membership requirement in 1965.

The origination of prefix names often stems from farm names, family name combinations, or unique geographical or historical features of the farm operation. Thus, the exclusive nature of each prefix is preserved in selecting a "one and only" team.

SALE TOPPER at the Seventh Annual Top of the Nation Dairy sale in Thief River Falls Thursday was a cow and heifer calf consignment from the Sheldon Erickson herd at Badger. Erickson, shown holding the halter, sold the cow and calf for $350 to Garvin Solberg (left) of Thief River Falls. The cow produced 14,410 pounds of milk and 501 pounds of fat as a four-year-old and is out of a dam with production of 607 pounds of fat at nine years.

Dairy Sale Average Is Only $270.75 Per Cow

Dry weather permitting farmers to get into the field for the much-delayed and long-awaited grain harvest cut attendance at the Seventh Annual Top of the Nation Dairy sale in Thief River Falls Thursday. The result was that 20 high-production Holstein cattle — there of them with a calf at foot— brought an average of only $270.75 each.

Total sale receipts were $5,415, according to Fred Sorensen, sale manager. This year's average on 20 cattle sold was only slightly above the $266 average of 1964 when 31 cattle were sold. Last year's average was the lowest in the history of the sale. Sale averages in recent years also include $415 in 1961, $457 in 1962 and $345.50 in 1963.

Top consignment of the sale this year was a grade cow consigned by Sheldon Erickson of Badger and purchased by Garvin Solberg of Thief River Falls for $300 with a heifer calf at foot bringing an additional $50. Last year the top consignment was $480 including $385 for a cow and $95 for a heifer calf at foot. Top consignment in 1963 was a springing heifer which sold for $500.

Several other cattle this year also brought $300, including animals consigned by Dale Svendsgaard, Goodridge; Philip M. Dyrud, Newfolden; Nelson Brothers, Hallock; and Donald Craigmile, Hallock. The Craigmile cow and heifer calf brought a combined total of $320. Respective buyers were Don Craigmile, Gravin Solberg, Selmer Nordine, Karlstad; and John Gunderson, Gary.

Top overall buyer at the sale was Arden Moe of Wannaska who purchased five animals for a total of $1,355. In 1964 John Gunderson of Gary purchased seven head of cattle for $1,680. This year Gunderson was second high buyer in purching three head for $895.

Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Mary Ann Titrud of Clarissa, opened the sale at 1 p.m. Dean workman of Borup served as auctioneer with Dale Svendsgaard and Donovan Bruggeman as ringmen. Dr. George Marx, dairy specialist at the Northwest School of Agriculture and experiment station at Crookston, described the cattle and comments during the sale were also made by Cliff Markuson, manager of the American Dairy Association of Minnesota.

A sumary of the sale with the name of consignor, description of consignment, name of buyer and selling price listed respectively are as follows:

Don and Mark Bruggeman, Thief River Falls, springing heifer, sold to Adolph Erickson of Wannaska for $285; Clyde Christensen, Thief River Falls, purebred cow, sold to Harold Dupree of Thief River Falls, $295; Laverne Clow, Orleans, springing heifer, sold to Adolph Erickson of Wannaska, $280;

No Signup Will Be Expected for 1966 Wheat Plan

No fall signup is expected to be held for any 1966 wheat program which may be made available, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. Legislation now under consideration by Congress would authorize continuation of a voluntary wheat certificate and a feed grain program. If these programs are enacted into law, the intention is to hold concurrent signups for both wheat and feed grains next spring.

While the wheat legislation being considered exempts the 1966 wheat crop from marketing quotas, it does provide for wheat allotments. Allotments have therefore been determined for next year's wheat crop as presently authorized, and notices of official farm wheat allotments for 1966 have been mailed to producers. Additional program information is dependent upon action by the Congress and will be made available to producers as soon as possible.

Any questions about the 1966 wheat allotments should be directed to the county ASC comittee, as in previous years.

According to the chairman, the official farm wheat allotments for 1966 are lower than for 1965 because the national allotment is smaller. By law, the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which is expected to produce the total quantity of wheat required to meet anticipated needs. The total wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as for 1965, but the general increase in yields means that the needed quantity can be produced on fewer acres. Nationally, the reduction in allotment acres is about 3.4 per cent.

Atomic Lecture Program Slated At Lincoln High

"This Atomic World," a demonstration lecture program, will be presented in an assembly program at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls on Thursday. The program, sponsored by the U. S. Atomic Energy commission, is presented by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The institute is a nonprofit, educational and research corporation of 40 southern universities and colleges, operating under contract with the Atomic Energy commission. The traveling exhibits units, which visit hundreds of high schools throughout the United States each year, are designed to provide the public with a better understanding of atomic energy.

Bruce H. Getchell, an exhibits manager who has received special training in nuclear science, will present the program. Getchell holds a bachelor of science degree from Mankato State college.

The demonstrations and lectures are designed to acquaint high school students with the basic principles and uses of atomic energy and to stimulate their interest in science. Subjects to be covered include atomic structure, the nucleus and radioactivity, radiation biology and fission and fusion. The uses of radioisotopes are also included. The application of these isotopes in agriculture, industry and medicine is an important aspect of the nonmilitary use of atomic energy.

Following the assembly presentation of exhibits and visual aids, Getchell is available for classroom sessions with science students.

T.R.F. Elementary School Has Many Opportunities

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the second in a series of articles on the Thief River Falls educational system, leading up to American Education Week November 7-13. A previous article explained the immensity of the public schools. This story relates to the elementary school program.)

If a person were to describe the educational theory of the Thief River Falls elementary schools in a few words, perhaps the best-chosen would be those of Kenneth Swenson and William Desrocher, elementary school principals. They state the theory is, "To pick up the child where he is and bring him as far as possible in the time available."

As such, the theory is simple, and yet it is complicated. It involves determining where the child "is" in relation to his abilities as well as in relation to other students, evaluating how far he can be "brought" and how fast this can be accomplished. This theory must be put into practice on the individual student, and personalities are as varied as the colors of the spectrum.

Thief River Falls has four public elementary schools and a total enrollment of 1,408 children. There are 50 teachers to attempt to understand and educate these children. Swenson is principal of Knox and Mark Twain schools which have respective enrollments of 387 and 247 pupils. Desrocher is principal of Northrop and Washington schools with enrollments of 401 and 373 pupils.

It is during the years in elementary school when children perhaps draw the most educational interest from their parents. To help parents evaluate the work of their youngsters, a new report card is being used this year. In addition to the alphabetical marking which generally indicates the pupil's standing among his classmates, the card will provide information on how the student's work compares with his or her abilities.

Same Subjects—New Names

It would be impossible to describe the average classroom day of the elementary students. Criticism of the school today for not offering what many believe to be basic subjects is often unfounded. The subjects are still there—Sometimes in much advanced and modified form—but are often known by different names. For instance, spelling, reading, grammar, writing and other basics are combined in the subject known as language arts. The subjects are, in effect, working in disguise.

Thief River Falls school district residents are fortunate in having quite a complete elementary education program for their children. A summer school session for elementary students in the district offers a seven-week course in remedial, developmental and enriched programs. Last year there were 175 enrolled in the summer school, directed by Desrocher. Five teachers taught two classes each.

To avoid repetition and possible future boredom, the summer school uses materials which are different

LIGHTNING struck the Roger Barnes farm home northwest of Oklee shortly before 3 a.m. Sunday, causing a fire which left little more than a shell of the home standing. The electrical charge hit the roof near the chimney, sending the ceiling crashing down on Mr. and Mrs. Barnes as they slept. The top photo shows the kitchen of the home which was being remodeled. The second story windows in the bottom photo are windows to the bedroom in which Mr. and Mrs. Barnes were sleeping. Their four children, age five to nine, were sleeping in bunk beds in an adjoining room to the left of the windows. No one was injured but all clothing, bedding and most personal belongings were lost in the blaze.

Barnes Farm Home Hit by Lightning

Lightning crashed through the roof of the Roger Barnes farm home northwest of Oklee shortly before 3 a. m. Sunday, igniting a fire which left little more than the shell of the home standing when firemen finally extinguished the blaze. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and their four children escaped from the house without injury.

It was in February of 1963 that fire destroyed a barn on the Barnes farm located about half a mile south of the Ebenezer church, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes told a Times reporter Sunday. They have lived on the farm about five years.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes said they had been awakened earlier by the electrical storm, but were asleep when the lightning bolt struck the house. The lightning hit the roof near the chimney, blowing a hole in the roof and sending the ceiling crashing down on the iron bed and its occupants.

Awakened by the crash, which reportedly jarred the Marlyn Haugen home nearly half amile away, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes' first thoughts were of their children sleeping on bunk beds in an adjoining room. The youngsters—Perry 9, Kathy Ann 8, Susan 6 and Glen 5—were uninjured and taken outside to the family car which was inoperable due to a faulty starter.

To summon help, Barnes began running to the Haugen farm in his pajamas, returned for his trousers, and then ran barefooted to the Haugen farm. Haugen called in the fire alarm, returned to the Barnes farm in his car and assisted in removing some furniture and appliances from the house.

Public Meeting On Poverty Plan In City Tonight

Inter-County Community council will conduct a series of public meetings in the four counties it serves to help determine the priority of programs to combat poverty which are to be developed and sponsored by the community action agency.

The meetings are scheduled as follows: Pennington county, Thief River Falls city auditorium, 8 p. m. tonight (Monday); Red Lake county, Red Lake Falls school auditorium, 8 p.m. Tuesday; East Polk county, McIntosh school auditorium, 8 p.m. Wednesday; and Clearwater county, Bagley school auditorium, 8 p.m. Thursday.

Programs to be considered will be those which will serve the economically disadvantaged of all ages—pre-school, elementary and secondary students, college students, unemployed and underemployed heads of households and senior citizens.

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Goodrich of this city motored to the Cities on Wednesday where they attended the ball game Thursday. Friday they attended the Dental Alumni meeting at the University of Minnesota. While in the Cities, they were guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ken Carlson at Golden Valley.

Permit Grazing On Diverted Land

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1965 feed grain and voluntary wheat certificate programs now may graze this acreage without losing program benefits, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Starting date for such grazing was Oct. 1, marking the end of the six-month period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect under the diversion programs.

The chairman stressed, however, that this program relaxation regarding use of the acreage applies only to grazing the feed grain and wheat diverted acres. Hay on such acreages still may not be harvested.

Land diverted under the Conservation Reserve program may not be grazed or harvested through the whole year. State farms participating in the 1965 feed grain and wheat certificate programs number about 93,483.

Thune-Lappegaard Vows Spoken At Zion Church

Miss Sharon Susan Thune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Thune of Thief River Falls and Roger D. Lappegaard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lappegaard, also of this city, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, September 11, at 8 p.m. at a candlelight ceremony at Zion Lutheran church. The Rev. Leland Steen officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by 200 guests.

Mrs. Max Jensen, former piano teacher of the bride, presided at the organ and played "Sinfonia" by Bach for the processional and "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell as the recessional. Soloist, Mrs. Sherman Idso sang "Our Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer". Forming the background for the candelabra and adorning the chancel were palms on either side of the altar while a floral arrangement of white gladioli and red roses graced the altar. Lighted candles and bows on the pew lined the aisle.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of bouquet taffeta and chantilly lace. The molded bodice of lace was fashioned with long sleeves that tapered to a point over the wrist and a sabrina neckline accented with seed pearls and sequins. Matching lace encircled the hem of the full taffeta skirt and in front formed an inverted V accented by a bow. The double tiered back extended into a chapel length train. A queen's crown of pearls held the finger tip veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade of pink roses and white carnations.

A cousin of the bride, Miss Lynette Thune of Bismarck, N.D., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Annette Langie, Grand Forks, N.D. and Donna Carlson of Thief River Falls while the sister of the groom, Mrs. Dennis Gunderson of Grand Forks, N.D., served as brides matron.

They wore blue street-length gowns fashioned with lace bodices, long tapering sleeves and chiffon over-taffeta skirts. To complete their attire, they wore matching veiled headpieces, blue satin shoes and carried colonial bouquets of pink roses and white carnations. Their necklaces were gifts of the bride.

Dressed similar to the bride was the flower girl, Deborah Arlington, Minneapolis, niece of the groom. Her floor-length gown of white bridal satin and chantilly lace was fashioned by the bride and Betty Grandbois. A crown secured her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet similar to the bridal bouquet. Her cross on a slender chair was a gift from the bride.

A nephew of the groom, Scotty Lappegaard of Hallock served as ring bearer. Laurel Lappegaard of Hallock attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were James Thune, brother of the bride, Terry Lappegaard, brother of the groom and John Larson, all of Thief River Falls. Ushers were Michael Thune, brother of the bride, Steven Lappegaard, brother of the groom, both of Thief River Falls and Roy Nelson, Grand Forks, N.D., cousin of the bride. The men of the wedding party and the ring bearer wore white dinner jackets, dark trousers and bow ties and pink carnation boutonnieres. The boutonnieres worn by the fathers were white carnations.

A tapestry-blue three piece knit suit with navy accessories was the ensemble worn by Mrs. Thune for the marriage of her daughter. Mrs. Lappegaard was attired in a brown dress with beige accessories. Both mothers wore identical corsages of pink roses and white carnations. Also presented with a white boutonniere and a corsage similar to the ones worn by the mothers were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Stene of Thief River Falls.

A reception was given in the church parlors by the parents of the bride. The four-tiered and pillared wedding cake, accented with pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was cut and served by Mrs. Lawrence Hemmesch, friend of the couple, and Mrs. Henry Lappegaard, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Laurel Lappegaard, Hallock, sister-in-law of the groom and Mrs. Beverly Houston, Deer River, aunt of the bride, poured. Margaret Hanway registered the guests and Phyllis Christensen, St. Paul, served the punch. Waitresses were cousins of the bride, Cheryl Nelson, Thief River Falls, Patty and Darlene Thune, Bismarck, N.D., and Debra Swanson of Deer River. Arranging the gifts were Sharon Larson, Carol Donarski, Cheryl Iverson and Charlene Rude, all of Grand Forks, N.D. Betty Grandbois assisted by pinning corsages.

Out-of-town guests attending were from Grand Forks and Bismarck, N.D., Minneapolis, St. Paul, Hallock, Deer River, Warren and Goodridge.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a silvery blue three-piece suit with silver accessories.

The bride, a 1964 graduate of Lincoln high school, is employed as a secretary by Homer Matheson and company, certified public accountants. The groom is a 1961 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1964 graduate of the accounting department at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. He is employed as bookkeeper at the Angus Co-op Elevator.

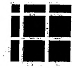
YELLOW BLOTCHES

Q. What causes yellow blotches to appear on the paper when reading?

A. In most cases it is probably due to contrast. Our eyes play tricks on us. Look at the center portion of the following figure.



Are you disturbed by spots at the points where the lines cross? The color of such spots, which are simply optical illusions, is determined by the illumination and by the color of the surface upon which the gaze is directed. In rare instances, blotchy vision may be due to the taking of certain drugs.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

The beauty of it all! Council members and the library board of trustees met with a representative of the architectural firm recently; the purpose—to select the color and type of materials to be used to construct the new library. Their unanimous choices include a rough textured rose-beige brick for exterior and interior walls. The deck ceiling with laminated beams is to be of wood, stained to bring out the natural grain, while door and window frames will be of a darker shade for contrast. The workroom floor area is to be brown asphalt tile. Ceramic tile of clay red will be used for the covered walkway entry.

Just imagine! A new library for Thief River Falls and Pennington county citizens after all these years of wishing and dreaming and working. A new building to house the wonderful worlds in books. . .worlds you may leave and enter at will. . .just the flip of the cover and—lo and behold—you're in other lands or living in bygone days.

If you're the disbelieving type . . .take a peek at the photographs and read the word-pictures contained in:

"The Horizon Book of Ancient Greece" which is a history, an art gallery and a collection of masterpieces of writings. There's a glossary of terminology; a sampling of Greek innovations in mathematics and science; a genealogy of Greek gods and helpful maps. The author-editor is William Harlan Hale and his staff of researchers and artists worked long, difficult and trying hours to bring the past clearly into the present.

If family gatherings are your forte and you sometimes lack an interesting guide to conversation . . .try "The Family Book of Verse" with selections by Lewis Gannett. These old and new poems are especially suitable for reading aloud. (With holiday times right around the corner, what could be better!)

If it be characters and characterizations you thrive on. . .mentally. . .here's Martin Luis Guzman's "Memoirs of Pancho Villa" to bring thought-provoking thrills and chills up and down your spine. Whatever your ideas are about this man-of-history, you're bound to change a few of them by the time you close the cover on the final word.

Selections from 50 years of the periodical "The New Republic" is appropriately entitled "The Faces of Five Decades". There's an introduction to each decade, from 1914 to 1964, written by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. The collection, edited by Robert B. Luce, will bring you from past to present with great momentum.

The best-seller lists continue to contain "The Oxford History of the American People" by Samuel Eliot Morison. If you continue to pass this by when you browse and select your borrowings, you're missing a lot.

"The American Heritage History of the Great West" is another masterpiece of illustrations and writings. Joseph J. Thorndike is the editor-in-chief and Bruce Catton's name appears opposite the senior editor title. These two names, alone, guarantee the contents to be everything . . . and more . . . that such a volume should contain. You'll be intrigued, to say the least.

How about "The Negro Cowboys" by Philip Durham and Everett L. Jones. This is different, interesting and eyebrow lifting! The authors, members of the English faculty, University of California at Los Angeles, decided to write the book after their interest in the backgrounds of Western American literature revealed little of the important role played by the American Negro cowboy.

Remember. . .these aren't ALL the books in your public library . . .these are only a few, a very few! There are so many, in all categories. . .come in and borrow for yourself! Any day. . .or every day, it makes no difference.

Barnes Farm Home Hit by Lightning Early on Sunday

Firemen from Plummer and Oklee fought the fire, alternating in use of trucks which were forced to drive to the river to fill their tanks.

Apart from a few small items, the Barnes were able to save only their refrigerator, stove and kitchen table. A washer, dryer and freezer located in the basement may also be salvaged but their condition was not known on Sunday. All clothing, bedding and other personal items were lost in the blaze.

Mrs. Barnes said she stayed with the children in the family car and then moved them to the Haugen car which was warm. The family stayed at the nearby Myrum farm Sunday and has been offered a vacant house on a farm owned by Charles Magnell about two and one-half miles from the present Barnes farm.

In the confusion following the lightning crash, Barnes overlooked a hose in the house which he now believes might have enabled him to extinguish the fire shortly after it began. Concerned with the safety of his family and in a hurry to summon aid, he didn't think of the hose until it was too late.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes expressed their appreciation to volunteers who aided in fighting the fire and removing what personal possessions were saved from the house. "How do you thank a hundred people?" Barnes said.

It is expected that neighbors will organize a campaign to secure clothing, bedding and other needed items for the family. The Barnes were in the process of remodeling their home, having just installed kitchen cupboards, paneling, built-in oven and other items. The house was being given new siding and new material for the roof had been ordered.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roy arrived home Monday evening after visiting in St. Cloud at the home of their son, James Roy and family. They also visited at the Henry Amundson home in Minneapolis and at the Harold Hanson home at Atwater.

HOLDING holding their only grandchild, Blake Owens of Angus, are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walseth of rural Thief River Falls, who recently observed their 25th wedding anniversary at an open house. Present with them and hosting the event were their 12 children, Mrs. George (Marie) Owens, Angus; Roy Walseth, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Paul (Jane) O'Gorman, Grand Forks, N.D.; Al, Edward, Lee, Vernon, Wallace, Karen, Lyle, Scott, and Annette, all at home.

Seniors Eligible For Scholarships At University

High school seniors planning to enter the University of Minnesota college of agriculture, forestry and home economics in the fall of 1966, should complete scholarship applications as soon as possible. Deadline for applications is Dec. 15, 1965, according to Ralph E. Miller, scholarship advisor.

The application for financial aid and the parents' confidential statement should be available from high school principals or counselors, Miller says. For the application for financial aid to be considered by the university, the parents' confidential statement must be filed with the college scholarship service by Jan. 15, 1966.

A student makes only one application and is considered for the scholarships for which he is eligible, Miller says. The scholarships are usually awarded to able, but needy students.

To be considered for a scholarship, a sudnt must be a resident of Minnesota and in the upper one-fourth of the junior class and a graduate of an accredited high school.

The student must meet the admission requirements of the particular college. For the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics, the student must have completed three years of mathematics: elementary algebra, geometry and higher algebra. Also, the student must be in the upper 60 per cent of his class in high school rank. Most curriculums have these requirements, though the related art major in home economics requires only one unit in mathematics (elementary algebra) for entrance.

TRF Elementary School Offers Opportunities

from the regular classroom educational diet. Pupils are given the opportunity to do project work, to give extended and advanced effort in subjects which interest them but for which there is not enough time in the regular school year.

Special Programs Offered

Elementary students are also provided with a number of special teachers and activities considered to be beneficial to a well-rounded education and, in virtually all cases, designed to permit a maximum of participation.

N. Quentin Jones teaches physical education in the elementary schools and directs a recreation program for girls in grades three through six one night each week. Mrs. Cynthia Ray, Miss Carol Paavola and James Solsten instruct various phases of elementary vocal and instrumental music. Spanish is given in one 20-minute period each week to the fifth and six grade students by Miss Claudia Paulson.

Mrs. Alma Lindquist serves as elementary librarian and Mrs. Margaret Race is school nurse with Mrs. Lillian Ranum as assistant nurse.

Swenson directs the special education program in the district's elementary schools. Mrs. Martha Nubson teaches the visually handicapped, Mrs. Edna Lindquist instructs the primary educable children, Mrs. Estelle Grinde teaches the intermediate educable and Miss Doloris Haugen is part-time instructor for the trainable children.

Speech Therapist Added

This year in speech therapist has been added to the school system. Miss Kay Knudson currently has a case load of 170 students with varying degrees of need for speech therapy. These speech problems may require extensive work or, if of an easily-corrected nature, can be solved in only a few sessions.

Looking to the future, the elementary administration is considering the possibility of adding a specialist in remedial reading and an elementary counselor to conduct testing and provide counseling and guidance. At present these tasks, together with administration and discipline, are the responsibility of the principals. A number of the special programs of the district receive considerable funds in state aids to alleviate the financial burden on district taxpayers.

Some of the many school activities include school patrol at all elementary schools except Knox; boys and girls chorus at noon or after school; and a recreational athletic program to develop interest rather than create competition.

The recreational athletic program includes football (with uniforms provided and physical examinations required) in grades five and six; hockey for grades two through six; basketball for grades four through six; a three-week wrestling program in the spring; and a track and softball program for boys and girls. All of these activities are conducted during off-

It is the objective of education in America today to create a "total" student—one who has some knowledge and experience in as many fields as there is opportunity to impart this knowledge and provide this experience. The local elementary school program is doing a good job in fulfilling that objective.

The 2,000 teachers opened their convention Thursday morning and director of the NEA "Time To Teach" project, ask them to take a more active part in running their schools.

"No one can decide the correct curriculum for your children except you," he said," and it is up to you to show your administrators that you are capable of taking the lead in solving your school's problems."

Thursday afternoon the teachers heard Martha Rountree, political writer and commentator, discuss the responsibility educators faced in preparing the youth of the nation for leadership.

Friday morning, Dr. John H. Furbay, director of TWA's worldwide educational program, told the teachers to learn how to inspire the "I will" in their students and forget the "I. Q."

A. L. Gallop, executive secretary of the MEA, also spoke to the convention Friday morning and told them that they belonged to a professional group that was "organized for action," and that programs to aid the teacher in making a better professional contribution headed the MEA priority list.

Jacob Boomgaarden, retiring president from Clearbrook, thanked the membership for the aid it had given him in his two years of office and asked the members to cooperate with the new president and officers in the same manner.

Soil Test Made Requirement for ACP Payments

Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announced today that the eligibility requirements for Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) practice A-2 have been changed for 1966.

The change is as follows: Participating producers who intend to request federal cost-share for carrying out the new-seeding practice in 1966 will be required to present a certification of plant-food needs to the ASCS office at the time they apply for cost-shares.

Soil sample containers and information sheets can be obtained from the county agent's office or the ASCS office upon request. After the soil samples have been secured and the information sheets have been completed, they should be delivered to the county agent who will arrange for their transportation to the soils division at the University of Minnesota. There is a charge of $1 per sample to defray the expense of determining the amount and analysis of plant-food required.

Producers who expect to apply for federal cost-shares on their 1966 new seedings are urged to pick up their containers and information sheets at the county agent or ASCS office, secure their soil samples and return the samples to the extension office as soon as possible.

Failure to present a certification of plant-food needs as determined by the University of Minnesota will disqualify producers from receiving federal assistance for their new seeding under practice A-2 in 1966. Producers who wish additional information relative to this matter should contact either their ASCS office or the county extension agent.

WHY
build a swimming pool?

The very reason that the local swimming pool committee now exists is that persons in the community wanted to improve swimming facilities for people of the area. They wanted the committee to recommend to the city council what steps should be taken to provide a safe and healthy place for residents of the area and their friends to swim.

The committee offers for consideration the following facts:

(1) Turbidity of water in the river is such that it makes lifesaving almost impossible once the victim has gone under water. A pool has clear water with good underwater visibility.

(2) The danger of current carrying an unskilled swimmer to his death would be eliminated in a pool.

(3) Also eliminated would be the potential danger of power boats colliding with swimmers.

(4) Currently the river pool offers lifeguard supervision from only one side. With the proposed pool, more efficient lifeguarding would be possible since no swimmer would be more than 35 feet from shore at any time.

(5) A pool would have clean, clear, healthy water in which to swim. These standards are assured by strict health requirements. The river water is highly contaminated at times, there are sewage outlets to the river which flows through pastures and dead animals have been known to float to the present pool area.

Expand Loan Support For Farm Facilities

More than a million people in rural America may benefit from an expansion in financial support for rural community facilities and family farms authorized by recent legislation, according to Arthur Hansen, Farmers Home administration state director for Minnesota. Private investors will provide the bulk of the funds on an insured basis through the FHA.

The legislation signed into law by President Johnson on October 7:

—Authorizes an increase from $200 to $450 million in the FHA's ability to insure loans in any one year for rural comunity facilities including water supply and waste disposal systems and for for the development and purchase of family farms.

—Provides, for the first time, this type of credit for rural waste disposal systems.

—Authorizes, for the first time, grants to supplement this type of credit for rural water and waste disposal systems. Grant authority may not exceed 50 percent of the construction of a project nor a total of $50 million a year.

—Authorizes, for the first time, grants totaling $5 million a year for comprehensive planning of water and sewage systems.

—Increases from 2,500 to 5,500 the size of towns eligible for such assistance.

—Increases from $1 to $4 million the maximum size of a loan, or a combination loan and grant for water supply or waste disposal systems.

The 1,600 field offices of FHA are being notified to accept applications under the expanded credit authorities. Grant assistance will not be available until funds are appropriated by Congress.

Applications for rural comunity facilities loans may be made by public bodies and nonprofit private organizations.

The $450 million in insured loans plus the $55 million in grants authorized yearly by the Act can help an estimated 800 rural areas containing approximately one million people obtain needed water and waste disposal systems and other facilities, and provide 18,000 farm families with credit needed to secure their foothold on the land, Hansen said.

Thunder Storm Drenches Area Sunday Morning

After a nine-day dry spell, Thief River Falls and the surrounding area was drenched early Sunday morning by a late-season thunderstorm which, at the municipal airport, measured .84 inch. Several inches of water filled some local streets, and the almost-dry countryside was again soaked.

A sudden rise in temperature late last week brought memories of summer to the area. Saturday's high of 70 degrees was the highest temperature recorded here since September 2 when a high of 72 was noted.

The immediate forecast calls for variable cloudiness with scattered showers and thundershowers today and over the state tonight and tomorrow. Unseasonably warm and humid conditions will continue. Highs today will range from 60 to 75; lows tonight from 44 to 60.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded since Wednesday at the municipal airport are as follows: 54 and 24 on Wednesday, 57 and 37 on Thursday, 65 and 33 on Friday, 70 and 50 on Saturday, 68, 51 and .84 inch on Sunday, and a low this morning of 41.

Doctors and Medicare

The medical profession was strongly opposed to medicar, which is now law. That opposition was based on the firm belief that medicar endangers principles on which a free medical profession is based, may be an entering wedge to completely socialized or government-dominated medicine, and that it is not in the best interest of the elderly.

Now the news reports tell us that numbers of physicians, as is their legal right, will not participate in the program. But what this means should be clarified in the public mind.
